GEN. DE GAULLE RESIGNS OVER RED DEMANDS

Asks Showdown in Cabinet Crisis

PARIS, Nov. 16 (AP)—A political crisis stirred France tonight after Gen. De Gaulle's office announced he had decided to resign as interim president due to a deadlock with the powerful Communist party over his new cabinet.

Gen. de Gaulle

Sources close to the French leader, however, said his letter of resignation, as yet not made public, indicated a willingness to continue efforts to form a government. There was an immediate flurry of political conferences thru the day.

The Communist party, which won the most seats in the constituent assembly in the last election, had demanded "political posts," including one of the three top ministers—foreign affairs, war, or interior—as its price for participating in a coalition government.

May Decide on Monday

De Gaulle's letter was delivered tonight to Felix Gouin, president of the constituent assembly, which elected De Gaulle Tuesday to serve as president during creation of the fourth republic.

The decision whether to accept or reject the resignation rests in the hands of the assembly, which will convene again on Monday.

Gouin received the letter at 6:30 p. m., read it, and announced immediately that the text would not be made public until it is placed before the assembly.

One source, who said he heard the letter read, reported De Gaulle said in it that he was unable to form a government, and had requested a full dress assembly debate on the communist demands, with the assembly then to decide whether De Gaulle or some one else should try to form a government.

An announcement by the ministry of information said: "Negotiations are under way between the president of the provisional government of the French republic and the president of the constituent assembly. The text of this letter will not be published."

Three Parties to Act

Shortly after the letter was delivered it became apparent that France's three major parties, the Communists, Socialists, and Popular Republican movement [MRP], would take action to meet the situation created by De Gaulle's move.

Political quarters predicted that an agreement in which the communist position could be reconciled was probable.

A communist spokesman said a meeting of the three parties was called for tonight to permit his party to present a proposal for forming a communist led cabinet, presumably without De Gaulle.

Other parliamentary sources said, however, that another meeting might be held tomorrow of the "most representative personalities" of the three parties.

556 Veterans of 33d Reach Fort Sheridan

BULLETIN

The first section of a troop train carrying 556 high point Chicago area veterans of the 33d division, formerly the Illinois National Guard, home from Japan arrived at Fort Sheridan at 2:55 a. m. today after a 68 hour trip from Vancouver Barracks, Wash. A second section is scheduled to reach Fort Sheridan at 10 a. m.

33D DIVISION TRAIN PICTURES

Turn to the back page for a series of striking photographs of Chicago veterans aboard the 33d division troop train at St. Paul yesterday. The pictures, the first to be taken of the veterans since they left Vancouver, Wash., were made by a Tribune staff photographer and flown to Chicago on a Northwest Airlines plane. Another picture is on page 6.

More than 500 Chicagoland veterans of Illinois' own 33d division were almost within sight of Chicago and home shortly after midnight this morning as their special troop train speeded nearer Fort Sheridan.

From Eau Claire, Wis., there was little sleeping among the men as their train rolled southeastward thru Wisconsin. These men, who heroically fought the Japs to a standstill in Pacific engagements, were too excited and nervous at the prospects of home and discharge. Many stared intently out the windows into the darkness in hopes of catching glimpses of familiar landmarks.

Travel in Two Sections

The train, carrying 556 officers and men, was scheduled to reach Fort Sheridan at 2 o'clock this morning. Hours behind followed a second section, with approximately 550 aboard, and scheduled to arrive at 10 a. m. Both trains were ahead of schedule in one of the fastest troop train crossings from Vancouver, Wash.

Despite the early 2 a. m. scheduled arrival of Train No. 1, Fort Sheridan separation officials were ready to welcome the Chicago and Illinois veterans with colorful fanfare. A military band was ordered to be on hand to blare out marches and other appropriate airs. Coffee and doughnuts were to be served.

Beds Are in Readiness

Comfortable beds in the separation center were in readiness, and what few public telephones were available were to be turned over to the men to call home. However, it was not expected many would get to the phones. Because of the long trip, and the early hour, the plans were to get the tired travelers to bed as soon as possible.

The men arriving at 10 a.m. today will get a better break in that they will have had more sleep, and may see close relatives waiting for them at the trainhead in the post. The fort will be closed to visitors until 7:45 a.m., after which family welcomers will be allowed inside the gates.

DINNER IN DOUBT

Tell of Lindy's Part in Defeat of Japanese

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 16 [Special]—The first eyewitness accounts of the work of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the Pacific became available here today from naval officers who had served with him there. They said many of the Vought Corsairs being scrapped here were planes on which he had worked at Roi and other navy bases.

It was learned that Lindbergh had made in the welding shops equipment that enabled the Corsair, a tough, fast, high level fighter, to carry 4,000 pound bombs against near-by Jap bases, effectively neutralizing them.

Test-Flew Planes

He then test-flew these planes, loaded as they had never been loaded before or been designed to be loaded.

"He got the Corsairs with that two ton bomb load off the ground in about a third of the distance any other pilot could do it in," said one officer.

"When he came on the island as the civilian technical representative of the Chance Vought division of United aircraft, he was coolly received by both officers and men. But I want to say that when he left, he left with the respect and admiration of every officer and man on the island."

Combat Reports Denied

Asked about reports that Lindbergh had, either deliberately or by chance engaged in combat with the Japanese, and with particular respect to the report that he actually had shot down two Jap planes encountered in the course of a test flight, the officer shook his head.

"Lindbergh was a civilian," he said. "It would have been a gross violation for him to have engaged in combat."

CHURCHILL SAYS HE'D LIKE TO SEE UNITED EUROPE

BRUSSELS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Winston Churchill told the Belgian senate today that he would like to see a United States of Europe bound together "in prosperity, justice, and peace," and added that "the tragedy of Europe shocks me entirely."

World War II might have been prevented "if the United States had taken part in the league of nations, or if the league of nations, without the United States, had used force on a European basis alone," Churchill said.

The former British prime minister said he would call the last war "the unnecessary war." Hitler, he said, "could have been stopped in the early days of his aggression."

88 NAZI SCIENTISTS LAND UNDER HEAVY GUARD IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 16 [Special]—Carefully guarded by military intelligence officers, 88 Germans, said to be atomic bomb experts, arrived here today from Le Havre on the transport Argentina. They were whisked from the pier in a convoy of buses.

On special orders from Washington, reporters and photographers were kept away from the men.

The group was believed to be part of a large movement of German scientists to this country. Several weeks ago the war department announced Germans were being brought here for scientific work, but did not disclose details.

The Germans dressed in shabby civilian clothes and carried old, patched up duffel bags.

The liner also brought 4,206 soldiers, 124 nurses, and 130 civilians, including Sen. Thomas [D., Utah].

FUELING MIXUP GIVEN BLAME IN PLANE CRASH

HONOLULU, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Star-Bulletin said today it had learned from a reliable but unofficial source that the forced landing Nov. 3 of an air transport command plane in the ocean, costing 18 lives, was due to a mixup at Hickam field which resulted in the plane exhausting its supply of gasoline.

The Star-Bulletin said the plane, a Liberator transport, left Hickam without being refueled because of a change in ground crews. Each crew thought the other had put in the gasoline, the newspaper reported.

The transport, bound for the United States, went down 450 miles northeast of Oaku and broke in two. Eight persons were rescued.

Tojo Can Testify in Pearl Harbor Quiz—If Wanted

TOKYO, Nov. 17 [Saturday]—(AP)—Omori prison officials said today that Hideki Tojo, premier when Japan went to war, is physically able to make the trip to Washington, D. C., to testify before the Pearl Harbor committee if he should be summoned.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of Chicago was chosen chairman of the administrative board of national Catholic welfare conference for 1946 at a meeting of the board today.

Mayor to Fly with Son on London Plane

BY EDWARD SCHREIBER

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that he and his son Joseph, 19, recently discharged from the navy, probably would be passengers on the American Airlines Flagship Chicago when it leaves Monday morning on a Chicago to London flight. The flight will be the inaugural of regular service between the two cities.

The mayor expects to return to Chicago Nov. 27, altho the huge ship will start its return trip only a few hours after it arrives at the airport near London.

Cheerio! Mayor Invites Mayor

While in England, the mayor said, he will attend several important international conferences now going on and also support the Chicago committee that left New York yesterday by air to present arguments in London for bringing the capital of the allied nations' organization to Chicago. He already has received one invitation for luncheon while in the English capital: from the mayor of Westminster.

Besides Kelly, representatives of Chicago newspapers, several business men, and Lt. Gov. Cross will make the trip.

Arrange for International Traffic

At the airport temporary arrangements for international air traffic have already been made and supply space provided for officials of the immigration, treasury, customs, and United States public health services in the Illinois National Guard building. The army is expected to release a building 50 by 112 feet for permanent use of these services Nov. 27.

Before any passenger can leave the agencies' jurisdiction, his passport must be in order, all foreign purchases must be declared, duty paid if their value is more than $100, and other formalities disposed of.

State Street Gift a Flag

Weight restrictions thwarted plans of the State Street council to ship a 40 pound turkey to the director of the London Chamber of Commerce as a token of international good will and thanksgiving for the war's end. Instead, the flagship will carry a silken banner commemorating the historic flight, and a letter of greeting to the London merchant's organization.

Lewis King, vice president of American Airlines, will take the banner to London.

Thru air mail service from Chicago to London has been authorized to be started Monday, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday. The mail will be dispatched on the Chicago. The rate of postage will be 30 cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof and the maximum weight limit is one pound.

CHICAGO TRAINS BOTH DERAILED; 1 ENGINE BURNS

N. Y.-Bound Flyer Hits Frate Cars

Tragedy in Illinois

Lincoln, Ill., Nov. 16 [Special]—Two brothers returning from their father's funeral were killed late today in the near-by village of Broadwell when their light truck was struck and demolished by the St. Louis to Chicago bound Prairie State Express of the Alton railroad. Eleven cars were derailed. The locomotive plunged on its side into a ditch, caught fire, and burned until the Lincoln fire department extinguished the flames. The double track was torn up for two blocks. Only the two passenger cars remained on the rails. Forty-five passengers were shaken up, but not injured. The dead were Alvin T. Byrne Jr., 46, Mount Vernon, and Myler Byrne, 47, Decatur. J. W. Sharp of Springfield, the baggageman, suffered a severe hip injury when he was thrown thru the door of his baggage car.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 16 [Special]—At least 22 persons were hospitalized and others were shaken up today when the 15 car Advance Commodore Vanderbilt of the New York Central system, bound from Chicago to New York, ran into derailed frate cars at Lydick, Ind., eight miles west of here. No fatalities were reported.

Eighteen of the injured were taken to hospitals in South Bend and four to a hospital in La Porte, Ind. Others of the 214 passengers received first aid for cuts and bruises at the scene of the wreck.

Seven Cars Overturn

Seven of the Advance Commodore's cars, in addition to the locomotive, left the tracks and turned over. They included one dormitory car for the train crew, one lounge car, and five sleepers. Six cars went off the track, but did not turn over. They included one diner, one lounge car, and four sleepers. One sleeper and one diner remained on the tracks.

Mrs. Russell Clark, who lives at Lydick, saw the accident as she stepped out the back door of her home. She said the westbound frate train parted in the middle and several cars of the second section piled up on the tracks. Less than a minute later the Advance Commodore locomotive plowed into the mass and fell on its side.

Cause Is Uncertain

Railroad men at the scene said they were not certain as to what caused the frate derailment, but they theorized that the train had picked up a plank at a crossing near Lydick and the plank had damaged the couplings, causing the train to separate into two sections.

Members of the frate crew said they threw out flares as soon as the derailment occurred, but the Advance Commodore was so close to the scene that it could not stop. Nobody on the frate train was injured. The engineer was P. G. Tillman, Elkhart, and the conductor was F. R. Overlease, Elkhart.

Track Torn Up

A quarter mile of track was torn up by the impact and 10 of the 24 frate cars were demolished. Succeeding traffic was routed over the Michigan Central Lines thru Niles, Mich. Relief trains were dispatched from Chicago and Cleveland to remove the uninjured passengers. Physicians and ambulances from surrounding cities were summoned to care for the injured.

The Advance Commodore, one of the New York Central's most popular Chicago to New York trains, left the La Salle st. station, Chicago, at 1:30 p. m. and was due in New York at 7:30 a. m. Chicago time tomorrow. Indiana state police at Chesterton placed the time of the crackup at 2.58 p. m.

Overseas Tip Brought Quiz, Army Asserts

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16 [Special]—The incommunicado detention of Sgt. Frederick Bauer at Fort Benjamin Harrison, brought to wide attention by his wife's belief it resulted from secrecy over a stag party, was disclosed by the war department tonight to be the result of suspicion the German born soldier is an enemy agent.

Meantime, Gov. Ralph E. Gates, a guest at the fort party last April, emphatically denied reports he had witnessed the entertainment by nude dancing girls. He said he stayed only a short time and that "there was no nude dancing while I was there."

Bauer's wife of a year, Mrs. Wilma Bauer, 34, a native of Indianapolis, disclosed, after the army's announcement, that she had learned thru unofficial sources that her husband was under investigation as a possible enemy agent.

Deny Photos Responsible

Earlier she had expressed belief that Bauer's detention was due, at least in part, to his photography of nude dancing girls at the stag party. She said that Bauer, the post photographer, had been ordered by his superior officers to take the pictures. This was refuted by the army announcement in Washington, D. C., which said:

"As a result of information received from overseas sources, Sgt. Bauer has been under investigation for several months upon suspicion of being an enemy agent.

"The investigation will be completed in the very near future when appropriate action will be taken. During this investigation, Sgt. Bauer has been represented by qualified military counsel."

Returned to Germany

A war department officer, in a verbal addition to the formal statement, said that "photographs had nothing to do with the case."

Mrs. Bauer related that her husband had told her he first came to this country in 1930 from Germany. He was naturalized in 1935, attended George Washington university law school in Washington, and returned to Germany in 1938.

She said he divorced his German George Washington university law wife, who did not come back here with him in 1941 when he returned to the United States. He married his present wife after he was drafted into the United States army and was assigned to Fort Harrison as a signal corps photographer.

Reports Army Search

Her belief that the pictures he had taken at the stag party were involved in his closely guarded detention grew out of what she construed to be authorities' undue interest in negatives of the entertainment which he had retained.

She said in interviews that her husband had snapped shots of the nude dancers with guests visible in the background. Later, she said, an officer at the fort ordered copies made of the negatives and her husband made and kept several copies for himself, "as a matter of protection" in the event he was disciplined for a task to which he had been assigned.

Some months later, she related, an army officer and two detectives searched the couple's apartment here and confiscated the stag party pictures, along with other objects.

She revealed, however, that among the other articles confiscated

VALUE OF AGA KHAN'S WEIGHT IN DIAMONDS WILL GO TO CHARITY

LONDON, Nov. 16 [Reuters] — The Aga Khan, head of millions of Indian Moslems, next year will give to charity the value of his weight in diamonds. The weighing ceremonies at Bombay on March 20 and Dares-Salaam April 17, will mark the diamond jubilee of the 245 pound leader of the Moslem community at Ismali-Khoja.

His value in diamonds will be approximately $1,600,000. His weight in gold at the time of his golden jubilee was only $80,000.

More than half a million carats of rough diamonds will be brought from London for the occasion.

REPORT SPAIN, PORTUGAL HEAD FOR CIVIL WAR

Revolts Brewing, Hendaye Hears

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 16—The entire Iberian peninsula, Portugal as well as Spain, is boiling toward the point of political and social revolt, according to news reaching the frontier.

Clashes are reported taking place daily in northern Spain, with riots in Madrid, Barcelona, Seville, Granada, and Valencia, as well as armed clashes between republican guerrillas and partisans of Generalissimo Franco. Franco is described as literally sitting on bayonets, with his hold on power shaken by an ever increasingly hungry and angry population.

Reports here are that the western allies are allowing Franco to hold on until they see exactly what Russia's position in the newly organized Europe is going to be.

Frontier Is Closed

Along the entire frontier the French police have established a zone eight miles deep into which no one may penetrate without a special police pass. The police keep a strict watch over every one living in the zone. But public meetings sympathetic to the Spanish republicans are permitted and support is given to the republican cause.

Reports reaching here tell of 60 clashes between republicans and Franco troops in recent weeks. The impatience of Spaniards is said to have been increased by the recent elections in France and other countries.

Despite denials, credence is given here to the recent report of a plot against the Franco ministers in Madrid, details of which were suppressed by censorship. Adversaries of Franco, who succeed in getting across the Pyrenees despite the strict French surveillance, declare that arrests are multiplying thruout Spain and the jails are choked with prisoners, on the level of the civil war days.

Civil War Dormant

In other words, the picture presented is that the civil war is not finished, but just waiting to break out again. Reports also say large numbers of German soldiers are in Spain, and have been incorporated in the Spanish foreign legion. They represent soldiers who were caught in southern France and escaped across the Spanish frontier. Large numbers of German technicians also remain in Spain, from the days of the civil war.

Franco is said to be trying to stall for time. Falangist [fascist] partisans are said to be trying to find some way out that will avoid a collapse of the Franco regime.

Franco is known to have offered the throne to the pretender Don Juan, now in Lausanne, Switzerland, on condition that he be allowed to remain as head of the army, but Juan refused. Juan and his advisers drew up a manifesto, which summoned Franco to declare an end to his regime himself, and resign immediately. However, this manifesto has not been published, and negotiations are said to be continuing on "modalities for the transfer of powers."

Crisis in Portugal

In Portugal, the political situation is scarcely less acute, with elections scheduled for Sunday. Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, prime minister, has governed the country dictatorially for nearly 20 years, but with a benevolence that has distinguished his regime from some other dictatorships, according to his supporters.

Others say he has been kept in power by the British and that Portugal is practically a British colony. Anyway the urge for democracy is stirring deeply in Portugal, it appears, and Salazar has trouble on his hands, too, according to travelers.

Under popular pressure, Salazar announced in October that elections would be held Nov. 18. Opposition parties were revived, and the press allowed to carry on an electoral campaign.

The opposition parties demanded a postponement of six months to enable preparation of their election programs, but Salazar refused.

On Nov. 8, opposition party leaders were arrested by order of Salazar, in Oporto. Clashes took place, and rioting broke out in various towns, it is reported. The elections are awaited with trepidation.

MANNERHEIM'S 'NO' ON PEACE IN 1941 EXPLAINED

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 16 (AP) — Field Marshal Mannerheim rejected "for military reasons" an appeal from Winston Churchill in November 1941 that Finland quit the war, according to testimony today at the trial of eight former Finnish leaders on charges of war crimes.

Mannerheim is not on trial. The former commander in chief and present president of Finland recently went to Portugal for his health. Depositions made by Mannerheim and by former President Risto Ryti, a defendant, were read into the record.

Churchill's letter to Mannerheim urged him to cease military operations, citing the severe winter as an adequate reason for quitting. The marshal said, however, that at the time he was close to his military objective. The depositions said Ryti and Mannerheim agreed between them, without advising parliament, to seek German military aid in the spring of 1944. Ryti said he signed the pact with the German foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop, without advising parliament in order that the pact could be declared illegal when he resigned the presidency months later. Mannerheim denied any agreement existed between Finland and Hitler before the outbreak of the war with Russia providing for a joint attack.

VOTE BEFORE RIO PARLEY SEEN AS ARGENTINE PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 16 —Recognition of the Argentine people's desire to return to a constitutional government as soon as possible was the official reason given for advancing the national election from April to February. Many observers here believe, however, the change was motivated by the government's anxiety to get the election over with before the Inter-American conference in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in March. Argentina's present de facto rulers might be excluded from the military treaty to be drawn then, it is agreed.

La Prensa, Buenos Aires newspaper, today urged its readers to join in the election campaign even tho conditions are unfavorable, insisting that an attitude of defeatism is a crime.

While echoing La Prensa's advice, Socialist stalwarts admit that with the Argentine provinces in the grip of the government's police, hand picked for the occasion, the term "free election" is a hollow phrase and that balloting under such circumstances will be a solemn farce.

Finns and Reds Parley on Reparations Delay

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 16 (AP)—The soviet and Finnish governments have opened negotiations at Helsinki on Finland's request for a two year time extension for payment of $300,000,000 in war reparations to the Russians. A promise to extend the time for payment from six to eight years was reported given to a Finnish group that visited Generalissimo Stalin five weeks ago.

BELSEN COURT CONVICTS 30 OF ATROCITIES

14 Acquitted; Sentence Guilty Today

LUENEBURG, Germany, Nov. 16 (AP)—A British military court today convicted Joseph Kramer, the "beast of Belsen," and 29 others of atrocities at the Belsen, Germany, and Oswiecim [Auschwitz], Poland, concentration camps. Fourteen defendants, including 5 women, were acquitted. Sixteen of the convicted were women.

Tonight the 30 sullenly awaited their sentences, which will be passed tomorrow afternoon. The penalties may be death by hanging or shooting, imprisonment, or fines.

The major defendants convicted with the 29 year old Kramer were Irma Grese, 22, the blonde "queen" of the Belsen gang, and Dr. Fritz Klein, gray haired physician who, witnesses said, picked victims for the Oswiecim gas chamber.

Receive Verdicts Calmly

Each of the 30 showed no emotion as the verdicts were translated into German. But two of the women, Hilde Lobauer, 27, and Stanislawa Staroska, 28, later burst into tears.

The convicted Nazis arose individually in the prisoners' dock as the president of the court, Maj. Gen. H. P. M. Berney Ficklin, read the findings.

The innocent were then removed and the defending attorneys then began pleas of mitigation, which will not be concluded until tomorrow.

Specifically, the charges against the 44 defendants were committing mass murder and ill treatment of allied nationals at the two camps. Thirteen were tried on charges of committing crimes at both Oswiecim and Belsen.

BARES DACHAU HORRORS

DACHAU, Germany, Nov. 16—(AP) —An inmate who survived Dachau concentration camp today accused guards and officials of tortures and murders.

Dr. Franz Blaha, the witness, identified 17 of the 40 Dachau war crimes defendants in six hours of testimony which frequently evoked gasps from the packed courtroom.

The slight Czechoslovakian physician, first former Dachau inmate to testify, charged that:

Fifteen thousand persons died of typhus, but prison physicians were forbidden to report an epidemic because officials "didn't want a quarantine."

Stood in Line Naked

Naked prisoners were made to stand in line in front of the hospital for hours, in all kinds of weather, while doctors examined them to see if they were able to work.

Prisoners and priests were injected with chemicals in painful experiments which caused many deaths and amputations.

The heads of inmates killed in malarial experiments were chopped off, boiled and bleached as trophies for the SS guards.

Human skin was obtained for the most part from gas chamber victims. Blaha and other inmates were forced to flay bodies, treat the skin with chemicals and put it into patterns provided by the SS. Handbags, gloves, saddles, and slippers were made from the human hide.

ALLIES DECIDE TODAY WHETHER TO TRY KRUPP

British Back Plea for Trial Delay

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 16 —With only four days remaining before the scheduled trial of top Nazis, the international war crimes tribunal will announce tomorrow whether Alfred Krupp, munitions manufacturer, should be written into the indictment from which his father, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, was dropped as a helpless invalid.

Urged by U. S.

The United States, backed by France and Russia, has asked that Alfred Krupp be substituted as a defendant. Attorneys for Gustav Krupp, who is 75, have insisted, however, they should be given a 30 day postponement of the trial if Alfred is indicted "at this late hour."

British legal sources, who opposed Alfred's indictment, agreed that a 30 day postponement would "only be just," but the United States asked for only a 12 day delay, until Dec. 2, if Alfred is substituted.

Tells United States Stand

Justice Jackson, chief United States war crimes prosecutor, filed a "reminder" with the tribunal today, asserting that the United States is not committed to any additional international trials after Nuernberg. He said the United States seeks to establish now the criminal character of German organizations such as the Krupp munitions empire, so that 130,000 Germans under American army arrest can be tried "expeditiously" in American military courts on the basis of evidence presented here.

An allied source said the odds against Rudolf Hess going to trial were about 100 to one. This source said it was virtually certain that a board of psychiatrists would rule that Hess was afflicted with "true amnesia."

4,000 Pounds of GI Mail Lost in Crash in France

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 16 (AP)—Four thousand pounds of mail en route to American soldiers in Germany from the United States were destroyed on Saturday when a C-7 transport plane crashed and burned near Chateau-Thierry, France, United States army officials said today. Eight hundred more pounds of mail were salvaged. All four crew members died in the crash.

ABETZ BACK IN PARIS FOR TRIAL AS SLAYER OF FRENCH HOSTAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 16—Otto Abetz, who left Paris two jumps ahead of the French police on the eve of the war, and returned triumphantly a year later as Hitler's ambassador, today came back to Paris—but this time it was as a prisoner.

Otto Abetz

The graying former ambassador, arrived this morning, between four gendarmes, in a first class compartment of an express from Strasbourg. While reporters were directed to await his passage at the end of the platform, his police escort slipped him thru a side exit.

He was driven to the headquarters of the Surete Nationale, where he was subjected to preliminary questioning by the police. Then he was taken to the shabby little Cherche-Midi military prison. Here he will await trial by the 2d military tribunal on charges of murdering French hostages, organizing deportation of French slave workers, and looting art treasures.

REPORT TRUMAN, ATTLEE, STALIN PARLEY PLANNED

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (AP)—Diplomatic sources reported tonight that preliminary discussions were believed under way for another meeting of President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin, and Prime Minister Attlee, as a means of solving current deadlocks on high policy.

Usually well informed sources said the discussions, plus the United States-British-Canadian proposal on atomic energy kept the United States and British embassies working nearly all last night.

There were indications in Moscow that if Stalin has not already returned from his vacation he is shortly to do so.

[In Washington, D. C., high officials said they knew of no plans under way now for such a meeting.]

700 R.A.F. Airmen Escape Punishment for 'Strike'

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 16 [Reuters]—About 700 royal air force airmen who "struck" against conditions at their base at Jodhpur have escaped disciplinary action after a personal investigation by Air Marshal Roderick Carr, base force commander in southeast Asia. Complaints about poor food and unnecessary daily full dress inspections prompted the strike.

GERMAN MADE MOVIES ACCUSE HITLER'S GANG

[By Wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 16 —The man in charge of the biggest motion picture job in the world is Comdr. James B. Donovan of the United States naval reserve.

Directing the special projects division of Justice Jackson's war criminals prosecution staff, Donovan must gather, process, classify, and catalog millions upon millions of feet of movie film for possible use in trials of war criminals.

Awaits Trial Opening

Right now he's racing against time in laboratories and projection rooms to be ready for the trials scheduled to open Tuesday. Donovan doesn't know how much film he's got.

"There were 10,000,000 feet in the first batch we processed last summer," he recalled, "and it keeps pouring in."

And it's wonderful film—official German records of the war and the preparations for it, Nazi party films, official recordings of speeches by Hitler and other German bigwigs, army and air force pictures, strictly personal stuff found in the homes of nazi leaders, pictures of horror camps and other atrocities, and films of pre-war rioting against the Jews.

"The complete recording of the 1938 trial of the assassin of Von Rath [Ernst von Rath, member of the German embassy staff in Paris who was slain by Herschel Grynzpan, Polish Jew], which was made the excuse for an anti-Semitic campaign, takes 10 hours to screen and it's absolutely fascinating," Donovan said.

"Priceless Stuff"

"We have pictures of top nazi secrets also and of scientific experiments. Priceless stuff."

Some of this unique library will be shown in the courtroom and introduced as evidence. A projection room was an important feature in designing the chamber where the trials will be held.

In direct charge of the photographic evidence branch of the special projects division is Comdr. E. Ray Kellogg, who before the war was a director on the Fox lots in Hollywood. Among his assistants is Lt. Bud Schulberg, screen writer and author of "What Makes Sammy Run." Another is Heinrich Hoffman, Hitler's personal photographer, who concerns himself mainly with the work of cataloging the vast store of Hitleriana. It was Hoffman who introduced Eva Braun, his assistant, to Hitler, to set off that love match.

ITALY REGAINS ARMY CONTROL BY ALLIED VOTE

ROME, Nov. 16 (AP)—The allies have taken another step toward restoring Italy to full membership in the family of nations by giving her virtually complete control of her army.

Members of the allied military commission said administrative control of the army had been returned subject only to "certain reservations." Other military sources said the reservations had to do with supplies, maintenance, and broad supervision of future army policies.

War Minister Stefano Jacini said the return of the army of 300,000 men "constituted recognition of the army's contribution of courage and blood to the allied victory." He promised the army would be an "effective element of peace, order, and progress in Europe."

TRUMAN PLANS VAST RELIEF, WORKS OUTLAY

Over 14 Billions for the Major Items

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—Social relief and public works programs costing an estimated 14 billion 715 million dollars have been planned by the Truman administration. In addition to these major programs there are several minor programs which, if voted by congress, could add costs of a billion or two.

The principal social relief programs which President Truman has recommended relate to full employment and unemployment compensation.

The full employment program is based on the theory that every one is entitled to a job, and if private industry doesn't provide jobs for all the federal government will spend to create what work is necessary to bring about full employment. The most authoritative estimates place the cost to the government of employing 5 million persons at a minimum of 3½ billion dollars a year.

26 Weeks of Jobless Pay

The President's original recommendation for an unemployment compensation measure was for federal grants to states to provide 26 weeks of benefit payments at a maximum of $25 a week. The social security board estimates that the cost of this program for 21 months would be between 1 billion 120 million dollars on the basis of a low unemployment level of 6 million persons. The Kilgore bill follows the pattern of Mr. Truman's unemployment compensation proposals.

The house committee on post-war economic policy and planning has estimated that for the first five peace years the federal public works construction program will cost an average of 2½ to 4 billion dollars a year. A similar committee in the senate reported that the bureau of reclamation's inventory of natural resources projects planned for the post-war years totals 2 billion 952 million dollars.

Asks Highway Aid

On top of this, Mr. Truman has asked congress to appropriate 1½ billion dollars for federal aid to highway construction. He further requested a 25 million dollar appropriation for continuing the Inter-American highway.

The senate recently approved a 375 million dollar program for federal aid to airports and has pending a bill for a 110 million dollar annual federal grant for hospitals.

Pending legislation carrying out Mr. Truman's federal housing proposals would cost 133 million dollars a year, it was estimated.

For agriculture, the administration has recommended that the 500 million dollars of lend-lease funds be made available to the Commodity Credit corporation on a continuing basis, in addition to already existing farm programs, such as crop insurance and soil conservation.

LONDON, Nov. 16—A cargo of more than one thousand tons of raw rubber from Malaya—the first in nearly four years—has arrived in England, it was disclosed today.

Five hundred and eighty tons are being unloaded at London docks, 300 tons at Liverpool and 150 tons at Southampton. The rubber was forwarded by 30 British government experts who left for Malaya in July. Another cargo of 8,300 tons of rubber left Singapore Oct. 28.

PUERTO RICO VET ASKS A FAVOR: 'HIRE TUGWELL!'

If U. of C. Does, City May Get Medal

BY THOMAS MORROW

Luis F. Cuchi, chairman of the Puerto Rican American Legion delegation, arrived in Chicago yesterday with a many syllabled disgust for Rexford Guy Tugwell as governor of his homeland. Cuchi has projects to place before the Legion convention opening tomorrow in the Coliseum, but first he desires something be done about Tugwell.

"We have information," he confided in a cluster of words, "that the University of Chicago wants the services of Tugwell. You can say for Puerto Rico that the University of Chicago is welcome to him.

A Medal for Chicago

"Understand, we are not angry at Chicago. But if Chicago takes Tugwell from Puerto Rico, we will gladly give a medal to Chicago."

He jabbed an active finger at the surrounding air which, to his way of thinking, had been offended by mention of Tugwell.

"We gave 72,000 men to the services," continued Cuchi, who inevitably ends his sentences with the words, "period quote." "Yet Tugwell has vetoed every act passed by the insular legislature in favor of veterans."

Rafael Capo, delegation secretary and artillery captain who fought in Italy in World War II., made an energetic interruption.

"We have got to get rid of that governor," he announced. "We are surprised that he is against all laws favoring veterans."

Commander Snubbed

Cuchi seized the conversation again:

"National Comdr. Scheiberling came to Puerto Rico to talk over veteran problems with Tugwell. The governor would not even give him an appointment. And when I tell you these things I think I speak for the country.

"When the 65th infantry, the 162d field artillery, and the 245th quartermaster regiments got home," he continued with a vast disregard for the need of breath, "Tugwell invited the officers to lunch. And," he paused to beam, "not one attended."

Here Cuchi turned to happier subjects. Puerto Rico, he said, wants equal right with states eventualy, permanent union with the mainland, and economic security for the people. The island is not self-supporting, he asserted, and needs a federal subsidy. He is going to ask the Legion to resolve in favor of 50 million dollars, divided over five years, for public works to give employment and aid to veterans.

While Cuchi declaimed a question arose to add to the confusion of the Legion press department. It came by telephone: "Is the husband of a WAC eligible for the Legion auxiliary?"

60,000 DOUGHNUTS BEING PREPARED FOR LEGION CONVENTION

Salvation Army workers yesterday were preparing 60,000 doughnuts to be served with coffee to delegates at the four-day national convention of the American Legion opening tomorrow at the Coliseum. The doughnuts, donated by the Salvation Army, were sampled yesterday at the Legion offices, room 410, at 343 S. Dearborn st., by State Comdr. Omar J. McMackin of the Illinois department of the Legion of Illinois; Comdr. William G. Burns of the Cook county council of the Legion, and Staff Sgt. Clyde L. Choate of Anna, Ill., one of seven Illinois men awarded the congressional medal of honor in World War II.

101 Lake County Workers Given 7.8 Pct. Wage Boost

Pay increases ranging from $5 to $67 a month were granted yesterday to Lake county employes in other than fee earning officers by the county board of supervisors. The average increase, affecting 101 workers, will be 7.8 per cent. The increase was granted on the recommendation of the finance committee headed by David Van Patten. Employes in fee offices already have received increases or will get them by Dec. 1, he said.

BULGARIA TOLD U. S. THINKS ITS VOTE IS PHONY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—The United States tonight advised the provisional government of Bulgaria that it does not consider the elections scheduled for Sunday will be freely open to all democratic elements.

This country warned that because of the reported oppressive political practices in Bulgaria, the election will not promote the conclusion of a peace treaty with that nation.

The warning was the second the United States has directed at the defeated Nazi satellite which has fallen into the orbit of soviet Russia. On Aug. 18 the United States said it did not feel the Georgieff regime represented the Bulgarian people.

British Prosecutor Clears Way for Haw Haw Plea

LONDON, Nov. 16 [Reuters]—Hartley Shawcross, British attorney general, has granted his certificate for William Joyce [Lord Haw Haw], convicted of high treason in September and sentenced to death, to appeal to the house of lords.

SCHOOL BOARD SCANS 8.5% RAISE IN PAY FOR 400

The board of education yesterday approved consideration in its 1946 budget of a 15 cent an hour raise sought by 400 building trades employes.

John Howatt, business manager, estimated the raise, approximately 8½ per cent, would increase the labor costs of the school board by $120,000 next year. Building trades unions sought a retroactive raise, but Howatt said such action would be illegal.

The board also voted to ask the Illinois post-war planning commission for $258,917 to apply on the cost of preparing plans for 58 projects the board has set up as a $16,000,000 building and improvement program.

JAP ADMIRAL SCORES POINT FOR YAMASHITA

Testifies General Ordered No Fight in Manila

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 16—Vice Adm. Denshichi Okoochi, former commander of Japanese naval forces in the southwest Pacific testified today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Yamashita. He stated that Yamashita after last Jan. 6 was in tactical command of 20,000 naval troops largely responsible for ravaging Manila and slaughtering hundreds upon hundreds of noncombatants early in February. Nevertheless, he testified, Yamashita previously had issued an order that there was to be no street fighting in Manila whatsoever, but that the troops withdraw to the mountains.

The admiral said he thought that the American bombing, which cut communications and wrecked transportation, prevented the evacuation from being carried out. The witness added another point in Yamashita's favor by saying the general did not have disciplinary control over the naval troops.

Command Laid to Chief

Okoochi said he knew Yamashita had issued the order to evacuate Manila because when he [Okoochi] suggested it he learned the order already had been issued.

Okoochi said that his command included Burma, Sumatra, French Indo-China, and Malaya but that he had moved his headquarters to Manila last November. After Yamashita left Manila early in January, the witness said, the ground forces in Manila, including the navy, were left in command of Lt. Gen. Shizuwo Yokoyama while the naval administrative [but not the tactical] command was vested in Rear Adm. Iwabuchi, later killed in action.

Tells of Execution

The death of a gallant American flyer who, even when tied to a tree, peered beneath his blindfold and cooly evaded the first three bayonet thrusts of Japanese soldiers, also was told. The witness was Misaki Kawachi, who was an interpreter with the Japanese forces on the island of Bataan in the northern Philippines. There he saw a captain and two other flyers who had reached Bataan after 14 days in a rubber boat when their plane had been shot down last November and they had been betrayed to the Japanese by natives. The captain was executed, Kawachi testified.

There is evidence that the other two flyers also were killed altho there were no eyewitnesses.

A Filipino witness testified that he was told by a Japanese captain, a Japanese lieutenant, and two Japanese soldiers that Yamashita had sent a telegram to the Bataan Island commander directing that all American prisoners be killed.

who won the praise of other riders was Lt. [j.g.] Arline Winifred Hardy, 25, Revere, Mass., a navy nurse. Altho suffering from a shoulder injury that brought tears to her eyes each time she moved, she went thru the train and gave first aid to fellow victims. Assisting her was Lt. [j.g.] Helen Nicholson, 22, of Massachusetts, who was not injured.

Before the ambulances arrived, housewives in the neighborhood threw open their homes for the injured and helped administer first aid. Among them were Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. Thomas Goodman.

La Rue Morris, 33, La Grange, Ill., a diesel expert for General Motors corporation, who was a passenger, helped remove the engineer and two firemen from the locomotive, which had tipped over in a cornfield.

Rail Impales Car

The force of the collision tore up a rail and speared it thru one of the passenger cars. High tension wires crackling on the ground added to the hazard until workmen from the Indiana and Michigan Electric company removed them.

Among the victims were:

Frank P. Davidson, 66, Elkhart, Ind., the engineer, possible skull fracture; Boyd C. Silver, 41, Millersburg, Ind., fireman, skull fracture; Maybell Stevenson, 28, Negro cook, 4834 South Park way, Chicago, broken arm; Joseph J. Of the 18 victims brought to South Bend, 14 were taken to Memorial hospital and four to St. Joseph's hospital.

CHARGES REDS RAVAGED AND SACKED DANZIG

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—The soviet regime of rape and rapine in Danzig, described in the current issue of the British magazine "The Nineteenth Century and After," is being studied in congressional circles here.

The Russian terrorism in the former free city, which was a powder keg of World War II., is detailed by F. A. Voigt, editor of the magazine.

Statements by Eyewitnesses

It is explained that the publication has 17 statements by eyewitnesses of what happened when the Russians entered Danzig. In addition there are firsthand reports by three British officers and numerous reports by clergymen, doctors and others.

"Danzig was taken and sacked by the Russians on March 27," Voigt wrote. "The greater part of the city had been destroyed by bombing and artillery fire. About a third of the central area was standing. The Germans, on leaving, ordered a general evacuation, but the Danzigers, for the most part, were convinced that the allies would reëstablish the city as a free state.

Rape and Pillage

"The Russians entered every shelter, cellar, and basement and, under menaces, demanded and took watches, rings, and other valuables. Nearly all the women were raped—among the victims were old women of 60 and even 65 and girls of 15 or even 12. Many were raped 10, 20, or 30 times. Most of those that suffered in this way contracted venereal disease.

"All the houses left standing were ransacked—according to one eyewitness, the Russians gave orders that the doors should remain unlocked. Furniture, wireless sets, pianos, sewing machines, and so on, were taken away.

Boys Shot Down

"There was much drunkenness among the Russian troops, and the officers, many of whom took part in the excesses, seemed to have little control, tho some showed consideration for the civilians and tried to exercise authority. The excesses went on for days. Boys trying to protect their mothers against outrage were shot down. There were many suicides.

"Danzig cathedral was plundered of all movables and left in a condition of indescribable filth. It was reconsecrated by Dr. Behrendt.

"There were similar scenes in other towns. At Olivia, the Russian officers lost control over their men, all of whom seemed to be drunk. One Russian officer went to several shelters and advised inmates to take refuge in the church. They did so and remained unmolested for a night and a day.

"Wild" Church Orgy

"The next night the church was invaded and became a scene of wild outrage while some of the soldiers played, or tried to play, the organ and others tolled the bells. The inmates then took refuge in the vicarage, where they were undiscovered for two days. On the third they were again subjected to outrage—among the victims were Sisters of Mercy and a girl of 13.

"The principal hospital in Danzig was looted of everything. The nurses and women doctors were outraged."

RULING DOESN'T AFFECT TRUMAN, SAYS A BAPTIST

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 16 (AP)—An official of the Baptist general convention here expressed belief that a resolution approved by the group yesterday would not affect Baylor university's offer of an honorary degree to President Truman.

The Rev. Roy L. Johnson of Canyon, Tex., convention secretary, referred to the resolution which took note of the President's "reported attitude as a Baptist toward gambling and drinking." The convention instructed trustees of all Texas Baptist colleges and universities not to confer an honorary degree on persons holding "to such a position."

Johnson said he believed Baylor trustees may interpret the action as applying to future invitations and not to the bid already extended to the President. The chief executive had been invited by Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor, to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at Waco on Dec. 5. Mr. Truman, after tentatively accepting the offer, canceled the trip recently.

CHINESE PUNCH INTO MANCHURIA AT GREAT WALL

Minor Skirmishes Mark Nationalist Entry

CHINWANGTAO, Nov. 16 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist troops punched thru the Great Wall of China into Manchuria today, Nationalist army headquarters announced.

Headquarters said this action followed withdrawal of the communist 8th route army forces from Shanhaikwan, coastal terminus of the wall. The entry was reported achieved with only light skirmishing. There was no heavy fighting at any time, the report said. [Earlier there had been reports the Communists were massed in strength at Shanhaikwan and were prepared to wage a large scale battle.]

The announcement came from Gen. Tu Li-ming, commander of Nationalist forces for Manchuria.

Stalemate Ends

The abrupt end of the armed stalemate along the Great Wall came three days after it had been reported in Chungking that Shanhaikwan had fallen to the Nationalists. Actually at that time, the Communists had pushed down from the gate city and had reached within seven miles of Nationalist headquarters at Chinwangtao, the Nationalist commander said.

Tu explained that his forces recovered their former positions after one division was sent on a wide enveloping movement, passing thru the wall at the virtually undefended town of Chiumen, six miles west of Shanhaikwan, and then sliced down to threaten the rear of the Communists.

Fire on U. S. General

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 16 (AP)—Shots fired from a communist held village upon a train bearing a United States marine general brought a threat of punitive air attack today.

United States China theater headquarters announced that the shots were fired yesterday at the train of Maj. Gen. Dewitt Peck, commander of the 3d amphibious corps, from a village near Lwanhsien, on the line between Tangshan and the port of Chinwangtao on the gulf of Chihli.

Maj. Gen. Keller Rockey, commander of the 3rd amphibious corps, said he had directed an emissary to inform the Communists that "if firing continues I will order an air strafing mission against the village."

Army Takes Cautious Tone.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of the United States army forces in China, took a more cautious tone, directing Rockey to give "considerable" warning to the village, including air borne leaflets, and only then to take "appropriate military action."

Wedemeyer said he was informing both Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and communist leader Chou En-lai of the incident.

A spokesman at Chiang's field headquarters in Peiping said that Nationalist troops "quite soon" would begin a mass movement into Manchuria aboard planes obtained from the Americans.

Principal destination of these forces will be Changchun, Manchurian capital, which is said in unconfirmed reports to have fallen into communist hands after withdrawal of the Russians who took it from the Japanese.

The Communists themselves announced without confirmation that they had "liberated" all of the big northern provinces of Jehol and Chahar except for one town which they were attacking.

BRITISH SEIZE KRUPP'S GREAT ARMS EMPIRE

LUENEBURG, Germany, Nov. 16—The huge Krupp munitions empire was seized by the British today, and an official said this kingpin of German armed might would cease to exist.

"There will be an end for all time to the traditions and influences so long associated with it," the military government officer added.

The British took possession and control of all property owned by the firm of Friedrich Krupp of Essen, its subsidiaries and affiliated undertakings, and appointed a controler with headquarters in the main Krupp office at Essen. The Krupp plants are in the British occupation zone.

The British said the present management would be dissolved. Persons holding managerial positions will be required to place themselves at the disposal of the controler and carry on their duties until further notice.

Gustav Krupp Boss in War

In the Hitler regime, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach was the boss of the giant arms and steel works.

The Krupp firm grew to power under Friedrich Krupp, and Gustav, his son-in-law, was permitted by Kaiser Wilhelm II. to add "Krupp" to his name after he married Bertha Krupp, Friedrich's daughter in 1906.

A senior British officer explained that the firm of Friedrich Krupp was by Hitler's order in 1943 reconstituted as a family undertaking after operating for 40 years as a limited liability company.

Tells Company History

The officer went on:

"The Krupp firm was founded in the early part of the 19th century, but its earlier activities were purely of a commercial nature, developing later into feverish efforts to produce steel of the quality that was produced in England. The efforts of the firm ruined the original founder and came near to bankrupting the business as well.

"Friedrich Alfred Krupp was a business man first and a German citizen next, and he sold guns to any one who would buy them. When Kaiser Wilhelm II. refused offers of mediation which might have prevented war in 1914, and when Hitler rushed to war in 1939, each knew that he could rely not only on the products of the mighty Essen plant but on the effect on the minds of the German people of the tradition which the Krupps had done so much to foster."

DENIES SWISS HELPED NAZIS SECRETE ASSETS

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Swiss government denied today that it had helped Nazi Germany secrete its assets in Switzerland.

"We have nothing to hide regarding Nazi assets," Dr. Walter Stucki, undersecretary of foreign affairs, told newsmen.

He commented on a statement Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] made before a senate finance subcommittee in Washington, D. C., Wednesday, that he had found "evidence of collaboration between the Swiss government and banking officials and the Nazis" early in 1945. Stucki asserted the accusations raised before the subcommittee "are rejected as completely groundless." He remarked that his government did not have a complete account of the evidence referred to by Kilgore, who said it consisted of letters written early this year from Switzerland by Emil Puhl, then German reichsbank vice president, to Dr. Walter Funk, then reichsbank president.

NAMES FOR BABY ZEBRA DELUGE BROOKFIELD ZOO

The zebra born a week ago in the Brookfield zoo won't be without a name long, Robert Bean, acting director, said yesterday. Suggestions for names have been pouring in for the youngster.

Many of the suggestions are formed of combinations of the names of his parents, Roscoe and Belva. Typical is Robel, Belro, and so on ad infinitum. One little boy, who apparently had a sudden inspiration, got Bean out of bed early one morning to suggest "Brookie." "It's not a bad name at that," Bean mused.

Mrs. George W. Everett, a patient in Grant hospital, preceded her trip to the operating room with a call to Bean suggesting the baby zebra be called Mac in honor of Gen. MacArthur. Bean said he would let the suggestions pile up awhile, then name the youngster.

DUTCH SUMMON INDONESIANS TO PEACE PARLEY

British Widen Grip on Soerabaja

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 16 (AP)—Acting governor general Hubertus Van Mook tonight summoned the new Indonesian Nationalist cabinet to meet with him in an effort to save Java from economic ruin and starvation.

The Nationalist premier, Sutan Sjahrir, and his minister of information, Amir Sjarifuddin, "moderate" leaders of the unrecognized Indonesian republic, said they hoped members of the new cabinet would arrive in Batavia from the interior tomorrow.

While the British reported they were extending their control in embattled Soerabaja against diminishing Indonesian resistance, Van Mook told newsmen that further delay in attempting to end strife in Java "would be most harmful."

Urges Coöperation

"On our side we have been trying to make contact with the nationalist leaders for some time, because we believe coöperation between the Dutch and Indonesians is the only way out of the present difficulty," Van Mook added. "Java by itself cannot come out of the economic spiral it is in."

The governor general said the task of arranging a compromise with nationalist leaders was difficult because of pressure from extremists against conferences with the Dutch, but he took a favorable view toward the new cabinet, thru which President Soekarno was pushed out of the limelight.

Two Million Face Starvation

Van Mook promised that the Dutch would not use food and medicine as a bargaining lever in negotiations with the Indonesians, who seek independence from Dutch colonial rule.

A government survey said 2,000,000 persons in western Java were in danger of starvation because of lack of transportation facilities for food.

The military situation in Java appeared quiet for the moment. This afternoon the British said there was "nothing to report" in Soerabaja.

REVEAL 1,040 DIED IN FLIGHTS ACROSS THE HUMP TO CHINA

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 16 (AP)—Cargo hauling over the hump between India and China ended officially yesterday but the army transport command will continue to fly passengers over the Himalayas in a daily service.

After Dec. 1, 1942, 776,532 tons of war materials were flown to China. Twenty-four hour all weather ATC cargo flights were made over six routes ranging from 12,000 to 20,000 feet altitude. Some were thru gorges where at one time an actual trail of crashed planes was visible. The over-all hump activity cost the lives of 910 members of crews and 130 passengers. Five hundred ninety-four planes were lost. Hundreds of personnel were rescued by search units.

Four types of planes hauled jeeps, trucks, horses, bulldozers, tractors, bombs, steam rollers, mines, and troops and their supplies.

1,500 U. S. FLYERS STILL MISSING IN JAP ISLANDS

TOKYO, Nov. 16 (AP)—More than 1,500 American airmen still are listed as missing after combat missions over Japan, it was disclosed today.

Between 2,200 and 2,300 B-29 pilots and crewmen were entered as missing. Of these, 837 have been recovered alive from prison camps on the main islands. The fate of an unannounced number of navy pilots and crewmen also is unknown.

Since the occupation the graves of only about 20 American flyers have been found. As the search continues more graves may come to light, but investigators held out little hope of finding any more of the men alive. A force of 25 investigators is engaged in the country-wide search.

Calls on Japs to Turn In Valuables to Buy Food

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Economics has called for the public to turn in pictures, sculptures, lacquer wares, pottery, porcelain, gold, silver, jewels, ivory work, glass wares, screens, armor, and fineries to help pay for imports of food and provisions.

HUNGRY JAPS IN HOKKAIDO RAID FOR FOOD

TOKYO, Nov. 16 (AP)—Riotous food raids by citizens of Hokkaido and a Japanese government admission that its system of controling prices of fish and vegetables had collapsed marked the hunger situation of conquered Japan today.

The newspaper Asahi said that on two successive days a total of 2,300 residents of the Hokkaido coal mining district invaded the village of Tone and took food away from farmers, mills, and storehouses. Some of the raiders left money for what they took, but storekeepers formed a defense corps for future action, the paper said.

Military authorities ordered abolition of retail price controls on fish and vegetables. This was expected to cause price increases but to provide more food at less than black market levels. Controls were retained on wholesalers, however.

SEES BIG PROFIT ON INVESTMENT IN ATOMIC BOMB

Scientist Tells of Radium Substitute Work

Dr. Frank H. Spedding, director of research at the government metallurgical project at Iowa State college, Ames, Ia., yesterday predicted that as the result of new techniques developed by American scientists working on the atomic bomb during the war, the United States possibly within the next 10 years may get back even more than the two billion dollars it spent bringing the bomb to completion.

Dr. Spedding, who spoke before the 50th anniversary technical conference in the Chicago section of the American Chemical society at Northwestern university in Evanston, in an interview said atomic scientists have learned how to radioactivate numerous substances as cheap substitutes for radium in the future treatment and detection of disease.

Vast New Field Opened

Radioactivated copper, he explained, can be used to chart the growth of plants whose roots will pick up the chemical from the soil. In similar manner, he said, penicillin and a host of other substances also can be activated for use as tracer elements to locate the seat of cancer and other diseases in the body. Use of such relatively cheap materials in the future, he declared, opens a vast new field to agriculture and medical science and is destined to relegate costly radium to a minor role.

As another example of the benefits which he said have come as a by-product from research on the bomb, Dr. Spedding described a method devised at Iowa for the cheap and abundant separation of elements known as rare earths. Some of these substances, used in the production of fine quality optical glass and for making high grade steels, until recently, he said, have been available only in minute quantities costing up to $2,000 for just a pinch of the material.

The separation process, he explained, has been known for some time, but was brought to a state of perfection at Iowa State as the result of research on chemical problems having to do with nuclear studies in developing the atomic bomb.

Warns of Outlaw Action

Earlier Dr. Charles D. Coryell, a member of the University of California faculty and chief of the fission products section of the atomic bomb project at Oak Ridge, Tenn., said the world is too small to contain both human beings and the atom bomb. Unless something is done in the next three years, the speaker predicted, it may be possible for outlaw nations to build atomic bombs on a piece work basis.

He pointed out that when the first atomic bomb exploded over Hiroshima, Japan, mankind achieved a source of power 20 million times greater than that ever used heretofore.

Discovery of two new elements, as yet unnamed and designated by the numbers 95 and 96, was announced at the meeting by Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, a chemist who played a key role in developing the atomic bomb.

The elements, he said, were found as a result of bombardment of uranium 238, the abundant isotope of that element, and plutonium 239, with high energy ions, or alpha particles, of 40 million electron volts in Prof. Ernest Lawrence's cyclotron at Berkeley, Cal.

KEEPING A-BOMB TO AVERT ARMS RACE — BYRNES

Use as Military Threat Denied

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 16 (AP) — State Secretary Byrnes declared tonight that the Anglo-American atomic control program is the first step "in an effort to rescue the world from a desperate armament race."

He predicted that the allied nations' atomic energy commission proposed in the program could be set up within 60 days, and he denied any suggestion that an attempt was being made to use the bomb as a "diplomatic or military threat against any nation."

He spoke at the mayor's dinner in celebration of Charleston's "Jimmie Byrnes homecoming day." His speech was broadcast.

Must "Act with Boldness"

Byrnes summed up the program announced yesterday by President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada by saying:

"It is our purpose and grave duty to act in our relations with other nations with the boldness and generosity that the atomic age demands of us.

"No officials of government have ever been called upon to make a decision fraugnt with more serious consequences. We must act, but in a manner that will not undermine our safety or the safety of the world."

Worse Devices Possible

While it is necessary, in the Anglo-American-Canadian view, to hold atomic production secrets for a time, Byrnes said that "this period need not be unnecessarily prolonged."

He cited bacteriological warfare as another kind of warfare which could be "an even more frightful method of human destruction" than atomic energy and he declared that it was not enough to rub out any one kind of warfare.

"We must banish war. To that great goal of humahity we must ever rededicate our hearts and strength."

SCIENCE SCARED, BEGS FOR WORLD ATOMIC CONTROL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—Scientists recommended today that President Truman immediately invite Russia to sit in with Britain and the United States at a new conference on ways of controling use of atomic weapons.

Hundreds of names were signed to a resolution urging the parley in the hope that a system could be devised for submission to the allied nations organization. The action was announced by Doctors J. H. Rush of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Francis D. Bonner of the Mannhattan project, who worked on the atomic bomb.

Scientists "Scared"

Rush told a news conference that every scientist who worked on the bomb "was scared" the minute he found out what lay ahead. That is what prompted so many to take on "this civic responsibility," he added.

Rush said they were supplementing the stand taken by Mr. Truman, British Prime Minister Attlee, and Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The three have decided to retain atomic bomb secrets until control measures are worked out.

Shuns Political Angle

Asked if he thought Russia should be given atomic secrets, Rush said that was "political," and the scientists do not want to enter that discussion.

The resolution reiterated that atomic energy is "the most destructive force known to mankind," and warned against "an atomic armaments race" which would lead to "a world of fear and hatred," in which all nations face sudden destruction.

Signing the resolution were 90 per cent of the men who worked on the bomb, numbering between 1,000 and 1,500; 1,100 Philadelphia scientists, and a number of independent physicists.

RED DEAN WARNS A-BOMB SECRET OFFENDS RUSSIA

Soviet Russia's foremost apostle to the English-speaking world, the Very Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, dean of Canterbury cathedral, told a press conference in the Ambassador East hotel yesterday that the refusal of Anglo-American nations to release production methods of the atomic bomb had "stung the pride" of the Russian people.

The "Red Dean" spoke at Orchestra hall last night under auspices of the council of Soviet-American friendship. In the earlier interview he declared Russians, as former allies "who had suffered at least 14 times as much as other allied nations," to be "deeply hurt" by the withholding of the production methods used in A-bomb manufacture.

He said leaders do not fear bombing by Anglo-American allies, but such action, by inference a measure of intimidation, "gives the Russian people a great feeling of insecurity and fear of the capitalistic world."

Dean Johnson, who left Russia in July, used the word "emphatically" when affirming that religious freedom exists in Russia.

U. OF C. OPPOSES U. S. CONTROL OF ATOM RESEARCH

Warning that government control of atomic research may shackle all science, the University of Chicago, in an unprecedented action yesterday, approved a resolution protesting such control, and sent copies to President Truman, members of his cabinet, and all members of congress.

The resolution was approved by the council of the university, its supreme ruling body, and signed by 51 professors, Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins, President Ernest C. Colwell, and Vice Presidents Reuben G. Gustavson and Wilbur C. Munnecke. Special concern was expressed over the control proposed in the Johnson-May bill.

"Nuclear studies occupy such a pivotal position in science today," the resolution stated, "that discoveries in this field may be expected to revolutionize many collateral oranches from astronomy to medicine. By controling nuclear research, all science may be shackled."

AIR FORCE ASKS TO TEST A-BOMB WITH NEW B-36

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—The army air forces hopes to use the gigantic B-36 in tests of the atomic bomb on such targets as naval vessels.

The B-36, which will dwarf any aircraft now flying, is well along in construction. It is described as having range and bomb carrying capacity far greater than the B-29 Super Fortress.

Air force officials told newsmen today they believe their organization is the logical group to make the atomic bomb tests. Their argument is that the only atomic bombs used so far—on Hiroshima and Nagasaki—were carried by B-29s; they have the exeperience, and that the B-36 and other world ranging bombers are on the way.

Must Be Tested Quickly

The air force wants to test both its new aircraft and the bombs. One official explains that when a new weapon is developed it is desirable to exploit the use of it to the utmost. In doing this, they said, the possibilities of the planes to carry the bombs must be determined quickly.

They added, however, that they assume all the services—the navy, ground forces, and the air forces—will participate in the atomic experiments. Each of those services, they explain, will have its own lessons to learn.

Other Targets Suggested

In the opinion of the air force men naval ships, such as captured German or Japanese craft, are only one of the targets which should be given a trial. The two bombs used against the Japanese cities provided valuable information on blast effect against structures, on heat and ray activity against humans. Airmen still would like to know the result of atomic blasts against the deep, subterranean factories found in Germany.

The B-36 which they hope to use in the tests can take off with 20,000 gallons of fuel and a normal bomb load. It is powered with air cooled engines presently capable of developing 3,000 horsepower, and equipped with 3 bladed, 19 foot propellors. An indication of the B-36 range is shown by the fact that the B-29 carries only 8,000 gallons of fuel.

The presentation preceded the opening of the 39th annual Christmas seal drive which will begin Monday. Phipps, also head of the department of advertising and printing of the Art institute, was the first Chicago artist to win the tuberculosis design award.

ADVISORY GROUP O. K.'S M'ARTHUR RULE OF JAPAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—The far eastern advisory commission today informally approved the basic American political policies being followed by Gen. MacArthur in the control of Japan.

A committee under Foreign Minister Evatt of Australia reported to the 10 nation commission on basic policies carried out in directives sent to MacArthur and in orders given by him to the Japanese government.

The commission studied the report and made only minor changes, according to information made available by a spokesman when the session ended.

LOCK EIGHT IN ICE BOX

Two armed men who entered the tavern of Irving Goldstein, 36, 1456 S. Pulaski rd., forced eight patrons into a walk-in ice box and fled with $1,000 from the cash register and safe, Goldstein reported to police yesterday.

A-BOMB SECRET WILL BE FORCED OUT: MRS. F. D. R.

The United States will be forced to share the secrets of the atomic bomb with the other nations of the world in the future but at present should guard the details of its destructive mechanism, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said in Chicago yesterday.

The late President's wife, dressed in mourning, held a press conference in Roosevelt college, 231 S. Wells st. Later in the evening she dedicated the college, the only memorial in the field of education to Franklin D. Roosevelt, at a banquet in the Stevens hotel.

After giving her views on the atomic bomb, Mrs. Roosevelt maintained that compulsory military training will be necessary for the next two years in order to police the conquered nations. She added that any plan concerning military training must be open to readjustment as the world changes.

Before two assemblies in the college, Mrs. Roosevelt commended the work of the school and stated that it set a pattern for this nation and for the world to follow. The school has an enrollment of students descended from 50 foreign nations who range in age from 16 to 60 years.

French Town's Springs Solve Heating Problem

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DAX, France, Nov. 16—Dax is one French town not interested in whether France gets its quota of Ruhr or Saar coal. The heating problem is solved here by the hot springs that gush out of the ground at 147 degree temperature. Outside of medicinal uses, this hot water is used to heat radiators in the houses. Residents also can step out to fountains in the street and get cans of hot water.

YANKS PATROL SOUTH FRANCE TO NAB GERMANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BIARRITZ, France, Nov. 16—American military police in jeeps are patroling the roads in southern France to break up a wave of escapes by German prisoners. Homesickness, together with improved railroad transportation and reports that conditions are good in the American zone of occupied Germany, accounts for the increasing number of escapes, it was said.

A German prisoner who had escaped two days ago from Biarritz was arrested today by a French policeman in a village 90 miles north of Biarritz. Civilians get $30 for each prisoner they help recapture.

NAVY EXPECTED IT—'BUT NOT AT PEARL HARBOR'

Ready Everywhere Else, Probers Informed

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—The tiny island of Oahu, where the fleet lay bottled up in Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, apparently was the only area in all the broad expanse of the Pacific where the United States navy did not expect the Japs to strike, a congressional committee learned today.

Extracting its information bit by bit from two reluctant witnesses, Rear Adm. T. B. Inglis, chief of naval intelligence, and Col. Bernard Thielen, of the army's general staff, the joint senate-house investigating body drew out a story of tense anticipation of imminent warfare and last minute preparations against the enemy blow—everywhere but at our main Pacific outpost.

Unthinkable to Navy

In later phases of the inquiry, several committee members noted, the question must be explored whether the lack of preparedness at Pearl Harbor was the result of wilful neglect by Washington to put Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short on the alert against a Japanese attack.

Both Kimmel and Short were again present and, as yesterday, followed the proceedings closely. Deprived of the right to wear their uniforms, they appeared in civilian clothes. Their lawyers, who are sitting with them, are to be permitted to ask them questions under direct examination after they testify and their cross examination by the committee and its counsel is concluded. This is in line with the rules governing the procedure which were announced last month.

On the bare, factual evidence as presented today, the conclusion could only be drawn, Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said, that the navy just couldn't imagine an attack on the eight battleships, six cruisers and destroyers, and four auxiliary vessels lined up in the cramped confines of Pearl Harbor.

Pre-War Convoys Revealed

Today's testimony brought forth the following evidence that war was expected momentarily for days before the actual attack:

1. Adm. Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, ordered Pacific fleet commanders on Nov. 25, 1941, to provide armed escorts for merchant shipping. At least two such convoys, blacked out at night and following a zig-zag course, cruised the Pacific in the week before Dec. 7.

2. Radio silence, imposed on the Pacific fleet, prevented a possible warning to Pearl Harbor of the approaching Jap fleet. Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] said he had been informed by a high naval officer that the cruiser Boise, en route from Hawaii with a convoy near the Philippines several days before the attack, sighted the Jap fleet proceeding toward either Guam or Hawaii, but because of the radio silence the captain decided against sending a warning. Inglis said his information was that the Jap fleet was not sighted and Gearhart demanded that the log of the Boise be produced for the committee.

3. All trans-Pacific shipping was ordered to proceed on a southern course by way of the Torres straits, north of Australia.

Constant Watch Kept

4. The aircraft carriers Enterprise and Lexington, the former proceeding east toward Hawaii and the latter steaming toward Midway, kept constant reconnaissance by planes over wide areas surrounding their course, under full battle conditions. The carriers were escorted by battleships, cruisers, and destroyers.

In striking contrast were military and naval conditions on Oahu, testimony of which was elicited in the cross-examination of the witnesses by Senators Ferguson and Brewster [R., Me.], and Representatives Keefe [R., Wis.] and Gearhart [R., Cal.]. Democratic members of the committee played little part in the questioning. The following was brought out:

1. The anti-aircraft batteries were unloaded. Ammunition for fixed batteries was in boxes and had to be unboxed after the attack. Ammunition for 10 mobile units was stored in an abandoned volcano crater a mile from the nearest battery.

No Air Watch on Dec. 6

2. On Dec. 6, the day before the attack, no aerial reconnaissance whatever was conducted from Pearl Harbor. The army was under alert No. 1 [against sabotage only] and the navy on "condition No. 3," described as "routine."

3. A radio station on Oahu played Hawaiian music all night preceding the attack and may have helped guide the attacking Jap planes to their target.

4. The radar warning system against approaching planes, which functioned until 11 a. m. on weekdays, was cut off at 7 a. m. Sundays. The attacking Jap planes, possibly aware of this, came into the radar's orbit at 7:02 a. m., Dec. 7. Two enlisted men, electing to practice with a radar unit after hours, spotted the attacking force, but their warning was disregarded until it was too late.

Planes Take Off at 6 A. M.

Rep. Keefe questioned Adm. Inglis at length about the take-off of a fleet of 18 scout bombers from the carrier Enterprise at 6 o'clock on the morning of the attack. These planes eventually engaged the enemy after the attack. Keefe wanted to know if the commander of the Enterprise suspected an attack on Pearl Harbor that morning.

Adm. Inglis said he couldn't answer the question. He was requested to produce the log of the Enterprise and its "action report," and promised to do so.

"I'm advised it was just a routine fleet training flight," he added, "but I'm not very well informed."

Hearsay Evidence Hit

This frank admission brought forth a repetition of squabbling which marked the hearing thruout the day. Rep. Gearhart bitterly assailed what he termed "hearsay evidence" when the two witnesses repeatedly said they had no personal knowledge of what they were talking about but were merely reading statements prepared for them by the army and navy about events at Pearl Harbor on the day of the attack.

"This is a trial being presented as the army and navy want it," complained Sen. Ferguson. Brewster repeated his charge that the committee's legal staff and the Democratic majority was attempting to weary the committee and the press with lengthy testimony by witnesses who took refuge, when cross-examined, in the excuse that they were not supposed to discuss "controversial matter."

HELD OUT FIRST DAY

The disclosure that blacked-out convoys under naval escort were sailing the Pacific at least a week before Pearl Harbor was drawn from Adm. Inglis under the cross-examination of Sen. Ferguson.

This piece of information had been withheld from the committee on the first day of the hearing by Inglis when he reluctantly admitted the existence of a "top secret" order on Nov. 25, 1941, over the signature of Adm. Stark, chief of naval operations, which instructed "all trans-Pacific shipping" to be routed thru the Torres straits, far south of the Hawaiian area.

A photostatic copy of the order, produced by the navy and introduced into the record, revealed that Stark had also included the phrase "provide necessary escorts" in his directive. Ferguson pounced on this, demanding to know why the witness had not informed the committee yesterday that the navy had ordered escorts for convoys 12 days before the Jap attack.

Role That of "Narrator"

The witness said he had been instructed to avoid "controversial" subjects. His role was merely that of a narrator of the happenings on Dec. 7, he said, about which there could be no "debate."

Committee Counsel Mitchell then confessed he had not seen the Stark order until "10 minutes ago" and Ferguson barked: "Apparently they're not giving you anything you don't ask for."

"Will you get me all the information the navy has regarding these escorts?" Ferguson asked Inglis.

"I'll search and if it's available, it will be produced," was the answer.

Report Jap Force Sighted

Ferguson asked if the cruiser Boise, attached to the Asiatic fleet, had not acted as escort to a convoy of merchant ships, including the American leader, which left Honolulu Nov. 20 and arrived in Manila Dec. 6. The convoy was reported to have traveled blacked-out at night, he said, and on a zig-zag course. He said that an unverified report had it that the Jap task force was sighted by this convoy.

Inglis answered that he had no information on the Boise's actions, but volunteered: "There were two convoys within two to seven days before Pearl Harbor. The heavy cruiser Pensacola escorted eight ships in the Samoan area." [The second convoy was not identified.]

"What reasons were there for convoys in the Pacific after Nov. 25?" asked Ferguson. "Were there German submarines in the Pacific?"

"The navy department must supply those answers," said Inglis.

Another Blank Wall

Ferguson encountered a similar blank wall when he endeavored to discover why the army at Hawaii had not been placed on the No. 3 [war status] alert until 9 a. m. Dec. 7, more than an hour after the first Jap bombs fell at 7:55 a. m.

"I can't answer that," said Col. Thielen. "The official report states that the first bomb caused so much surprise that the situation was not grasped by any one for three or four minutes. Then Gen. Short ordered all troops out under alert No. 3. The division received this order at 8:50 a. m. and it went into effect at 9 a. m. I cannot discuss the reason for the delay, because it is a question of debate."

Col. Thielen volunteered that he had not prepared the statement on the Dec. 7 happenings which he was giving to the committee but that he was merely before the committee "to read it."

Navy at Routine Condition

Inglis said the navy was on the "routine condition No. 1" at the time of the attack and went to "condition No. 3" [battle stations] within an average of three minutes on each ship.

Ferguson asked why the radar warning system was cut off by army orders at 7 a. m. Sundays but continued until 11 a. m. week days. Thielen refused to answer the question because it involved "highly controversial" matter.

Rep. Gearhart took up this line of questioning, noting that the attacking Jap planes flew into the scope of the apparatus two minutes after 7 a. m.

"It is significant that the Japs must have known our schedule for radar operation," Gearhart remarked, and Thielen admitted, "That is a very definite possibility."

Maneuvers Held Tip-Off

"There were many army-navy maneuvers in the Hawaiian area which proved that the best time for an air attack on the islands was when planes could approach in the glare of the sun," Gearhart continued. "It took no imagination for the Japs to know when to strike. All they had to do was read newspaper reports of our maneuvers. Were there any orders from Washington or elsewhere that there should be no fire on Japanese planes or installations unless the Japs fired first?"

Thielen said he knew of no such orders nor of any similar orders to Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines.

Dissatisfaction with the two witnesses was repeatedly expressed by the Republican members of the committee. Chairman Barkley defended them, asserting the procedure which had been agreed upon was to begin with factual testimony, to be followed by eyewitness accounts.

"Developments show the inexpediency of such procedure," said Sen. Brewster. "We have listened for two days to witnesses who have no familiarity with the records. We are wasting time."

Summing up, Gearhart asked Inglis whether it was not significant that:

1. All American ships had been directed to avoid Japanese waters in the Pacific.

2. Radio silence had been imposed on the fleet.

3. Radio beams to guide Flying Fortresses from the mainland to Hawaii were in use when they could be used by the Japanese.

4. Radar installations were ordered shut down during the most dangerous hours for attack.

Covers "Lot of Territory"

"What efforts have been made by the intelligence services to correlate these significant points, all of which helped our enemy?" demanded Gearhart.

Inglis protested that Gearhart's question "covered a lot of territory" and that he desired to leave out of his testimony any information about the functions of navy intelligence.

"These matters can be accounted for by the tense relationships in world politics at the time," Inglis said. "It is only natural that information about movements of our fleet should be denied any country with which our relations were strained."

Inglis was questioned at length about the presence of one or two Japanese submarines in Pearl Harbor shortly before the time of the attack. He cast doubt upon the authenticity of the "log" of a Japanese commander of a two man submarine which was captured when the vessel was beached Dec. 7.

Log Tells of Cruising

This account, Inglis said, indicated the submarine had entered Pearl Harbor at 4:30 a. m. on Dec. 7, cruised around Ford Island, and emerged at 5:30 a. m. after charting the position of various American ships.

"There was some confusion in translating the Japanese future and present tenses," Inglis said. "The Jap may have been writing down what he intended to do, not what he had done."

Brewster said this was the first time he ever had heard doubt expressed of information in the captured Japanese document.

"The question is whether the torpedo nets at the harbor entrance were neglected," Brewster remarked. "There is some question whether the nets were in position. Now, for the first time, we seem to have a denial of the presence of the Jap submarine in the harbor."

"This illustrates the difficulties encountered by the committee because it has not access to the official records," said Ferguson.

"Adm. Inglis is not a witness by any standard and can give only partial presentation of the case. Why can't we have eye witnesses?"

Inglis said he had "no information" on reports that the navy's medical supplies had been found locked up after the attack and that private physicians had to be called to treat the wounded until the supplies could be secured.

Asked whether he had left anything out of his statement at the suggestion of the committee counsel, Inglis said:

"Yes, I left out one paragraph at his suggestion which gave my opinion that the country as a whole was not unified just before Pearl Harbor and that the people were to blame for our unpreparedness."

"President Truman said something like that," remarked Ferguson. "Did you get your opinion from that source?"

"No, I just knew that when the navy asked for anything, appropriations were cut," said the witness.

"Don't you know the President's budget department cut you down and that congress had to restore the cuts?" asked Ferguson.

"I do recall some such instances," Inglis admitted.

Wrangling Starts Again

Wrangling over procedures broke out again between committee members as the afternoon session opened. Barkley placed in the record a memorandum outlining what he said was the committee agreement—to open with army and navy witnesses who would give factual data on the attack.

Brewster and Ferguson reiterated they had not agreed to the procedure. Brewster said he had been in favor of hearing the case chronologically, beginning with diplomatic negotiations and army and navy movements months before the attack. Ferguson asserted the inquiry was "at trial with evidence being presented as the army and navy want it."

Fleet Weakened

"My objection," said Gearhart, "is that people are being brought here to give only hearsay evidence. I never heard of a court procedure where hearsay witnesses are permitted to testify when there are living eyewitnesses."

Rep. Gearhart drew from Adm. Inglis an admission that altho the American fleet in the Pacific was already below the strength of the Japanese fleet in May, 1941, it was further reduced by an order from Adm. Stark for the transfer to the Atlantic of three battleships, one aircraft carrier, four cruisers, and nine destroyers.

"Did Adm. Stark get that order from a higher authority?" Gearhart asked.

Inglis said he did not know.

Prior to the transfer, Inglis said, we had 105 fighting craft in the Pacific compared to 162 in the Jap fleet.

NAVY COVER-UP FOR HULL'S ROLE IN WAR CHARGED

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—Charges that the navy is taking a partisan stand in its testimony before the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee were hurled tonight at a press conference called by the four Republican members of the committee.

"The navy is under investigation, yet it is selecting the only evidence on its part in the disaster," Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] told reporters. "It is going to use the Japanese story of the attack on Pearl Harbor to protect former State Secretary Hull. That is obviously a partisan stand."

Brewster charged that Hull's ultimatum to the Japanese peace envoys in Washington on Nov. 26, 1941, "pulled the trigger" on Japanese war plans. Similar charges were contained in the report of the special army board of inquiry which studied events leading up to the disaster.

Exoneration Is Aim

However, Brewster predicted, attempts will be made in forthcoming navy testimony to prove that Hull's ultimatum had nothing to do with the attack on Pearl Harbor. Navy witnesses will point out, he said, that the Japanese had completed war plans and that the date for the attack had been set long before Hull made his demands on the Japanese.

Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.], a committee member, said the Japanese had their envoys in Washington in attempt to reach a peaceful agreement. Had their negotiations been successful, their fleet would have turned back from Hawaii and other points scheduled to be attacked, he said.

"The only question," said Gearhart, "is what precipitated the war. I am not saying whether it should have been precipitated." This statement was made in response to a query from a reporter for the left wing press on whether Gearhart thought the United States should have yielded to Japanese demands for a free hand in Asia.

Opposed to Ultimatum

"It has been made clear," Brewster said, "that the army and navy opposed Hull's ultimatum because neither was ready for war, and high military officials knew its only effect could be war."

Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] told reporters that pre-ultimatum plans of the Japanese were merely a proposal to be put into effect only if the Washington negotiations failed. Brewster added that all military staffs, including our own, have various war plans ready, but that their existence does not always mean war is actually intended.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said committee members are hampered in their efforts to get at the truth because insufficient time is permitted them to study exhibits and other data on which witnesses base their testimony.

Jap Version to Be Heard

Ferguson said he was particularly concerned about the testimony the navy is to give, possibly tomorrow, on the Japanese story of the Pearl Harbor attack, reportedly culled from intercepted messages, interviews with prisoners, and data collected after the Japanese surrender.

"As yet we have no idea of the evidence on which the navy will base its testimony," Ferguson declared. "Committee counsel apparently wants us to make a separate request for each piece of evidence prior to its presentation."

KERST AWARDED SCIENCE PRIZE FOR BETATRON

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16 (AP)—The National Academy of Sciences tonight presented Prof. Donald W. Kerst, 34, of the University of Illinois faculty, with the $3,000 Cyrus B. Comstock prize in recognition of his invention of the betatron, a new instrument of atomic science and the world's most powerful X-ray machine.

Prof. Kerst

The award is given every five years for "the most important discovery or investigation in electricity or magnetism or radiant energy." Kerst was selected for the honor in 1943, but the presentation was forbidden by war time secrecy.

Others honored included Dr. Vannevar Bush, director of the office of scientific research and development, and Dr. Arthur H. Compton, president of Washington university, for scientific work in the war.

UNIFIED THRUST DEFEATED NAZIS, SAYS GEN. IKE

Allied Commander Calls for Service Merger

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—Gen. Eisenhower today told congress that a merger of the army, navy, and air branches under a single command would give the United States greater military power with 75 per cent of the men needed under separate forces.

The man who led more than 5 million allied soldiers, sailors, and airmen in the defeat of Germany declared the same unity of command that hastened that war victory is essential in peace time.

Making his second appearance in two days on capitol hill before another packed, applauding audience, Gen. Ike said a unified leadership in the field is not enough.

Proposes "Unity at Top"

He told the senate military affairs committee, which is considering a bill for the army-navy merger, that "unity must start at the top."

"Separation at the top necessarily fosters separation all along the line," he said. "It is in time of peace that this nation must preserve a balanced, adequate measure of our land, sea, and air power, lest we lose the peace which we have so dearly bought."

The general said he did not question the good faith of opponents of the merger, which include navy department officials, but he declared the allied fight against Germany "would have met with failure without unity of direction."

Atomic Era Cited

He declared the era of atomic weapons and other new means of warfare makes "unity more necessary than ever."

Asked by Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.], acting committee chairman, about the navy's argument that separate services foster competition and contribute to more alert preparedness, Gen. Ike said:

"Competition, like some habits, is good in small doses. But too much competition is ruinous. If we do not integrate the executive management of the three members [army, navy, air] of our fighting team, our postwar security establishment will become the patchwork improvisation that is inevitable where independent departments at different times compete before congressional committees.

Fears Three-Way "Scramble"

"Without a merger, we run the danger of a situation where each of the three branches considers itself solely responsible for the defense of the United States. The result is a three-way scramble.

"The three pieces, acting separately, can no more fit together than a tom cat and bull dog pulling on the same team."

The general said that with the air arm "grown up" to a point where it deserves equal status with the ground forces and the navy, future confusion will be worse than in the past, when only two main branches were involved, if unified direction is lacking.

Citing "wasteful duplication," during the war, he said the army and the navy each perfected similar rockets but that the army's was a 4.5 inch weapon and the navy developed a 5 inch missile. This, he said, was needless overlapping of research at extra expense.

URGES BRITAIN CUT IMPORT OF AMERICAN FILMS

LONDON, Nov. 16 [Reuters]—Great Britain should "make an immediate application for entry as a 49th state in the U. S. A." in order to derive some of the advantages of "complete economic domination by the U. S. A." if the Labor government decided to borrow from the United States and return to the gold standard and multilateral free trade. This remark was made by Conservative Robert Boothby in the house of commons today.

Boothby contended that Britain could no longer afford to pay an estimated $80,000,000 a year for Hollywood films. His theme was the necessity for frugality in the spending of Britain's small supply of dollars. He said he favored spending the dollars for bacon rather than for Bogart.

Pocket 50 Per Cent.

Boothby said Hollywood producers pocketed 50 per cent of the revenue from the showings of their films in this country.

Only a small percentage of this was considered by the British treasury as revenue of the operating company in this country, and thus liable to the British income tax, and that, again, was subject to deduction for operating costs here, Boothby continued.

If, he said, only 10 per cent of the revenue was subject to income tax here, a major American film company with total earnings in this country amounting to $10,000,000 a year would be assessed for income tax on only $1,000,000 from which the operating expenses of its subsidiary company in Great Britain would be deducted.

Urges Cut in Imports

Boothby recommended that Britain should cut her annual importation of Hollywood films by 50 per cent and bargain for better distribution of British films in the American market. He also recommended that American film producers should be called upon to reduce their charges from "the present enormous figure of 50 per cent of total bookings to about 33⅓ per cent.

"The dilemma which confronts the government is inescapable," Boothby asserted. "On the one hand it is trying to build up a planned internal economy. It is, we know, under very heavy pressure from the United States to revert to an unplanned external economy. In the situation in which we find ourselves one thing is certain—that you cannot have a planned production and an unplanned trade."

BURGLARS GET $1,200 HUNTING WARES

BRITONS CHARGE U. S. OVEREATS, OTHERS STARVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 16—Members of parliament today condemned Americans for overeating while millions face starvation in Europe. The British also came under fire for giving themselves increased rations for Christmas instead of sending all available food to Europe.

A discussion of what can be done to feed Europe's hungry drew from Minister of State P. P. Noel-Baker the promise that Britain will contribute another 285 million dollars to UNRRA. The country's first contribution was $323,000,000. The contribution was based on the rate of 1 per cent of Britain's national income.

[The United States authorized expenditure of $1,350,000,000 for the fiscal year ending March, 1946, and congress allotted $800,000,000. The house voted appropriation of the remaining $550,000,000 with the stipulation that it be spent in nations which give Americans free access to news of UNRRA activities there. This measure is pending in the senate. On Tuesday President Truman asked congress for a second authorization of $1,350,000,000.]

Claiming that charges of waste, extravagance, and inefficiency in UNRRA are unfounded or exaggerated, Noel-Baker attributed Europe's tragic condition mainly to the length of the war, the nearly complete destruction of transport, and the Nazis' vast pillage.

TAKE 1ST STEPS TO REVIVE REICH FILM INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Nov. 16—The German film industry which, before the advent of nazism, was the largest in Europe, now is apparently the nation's lowliest business. However, the first steps toward its rehabilitation have been taken after its 10 years of nazi domination, according to a story in the New Zurich [Switzerland] Zeitung.

The first step has been the effort to cleanse the industry of all nazi taint. In Berlin, where the business had reached its largest proportions, the relics of 25 years of creation are 25,000 diapositives [reprints from original negatives] and about 70,000 still pictures now badly needed for teaching aids in the public schools. Allied authorities are superintending the recovery of the industry.

The larger Berlin film studios were badly damaged by bombings but some of the studios still are standing in Johanniestal, Tempelhof, and Babelsberg, and rebuilding has started to bring them up to their former productive capacity.

EASE TEL AVIV CURFEW; RIOTS COST $800,000

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Nov. 16 (AP)—British authorities announced tonight that the military curfew would be eased tomorrow in riot scarred Tel Aviv, where a sixth Jew died of injuries.

All inhabitants of the city went to their homes at 4 p. m. today in observance of the curfew, which had been lifted for nine hours. Tomorrow the curfew will be lifted between 5:30 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Six British planes flew reconnaissance missions over Tel Aviv during the day, while Mayor Israel Rockach urged the populace to heed a military warning that any one violating the curfew "does so at his own peril."

Violence ended last night after two days of rioting that caused property damage totaling $800,000. The riots broke out during a strike protesting the new British policy on Palestine.

OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC:

It is with sincere regret that the ILLINOIS TELEPHONE TRAFFIC UNION announces that "The Voice With a Smile Will Be Gone for a While."

This Union represents 8,500 Telephone Operators employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone Company. These workers have decided to exercise their right to strike. This strike is being called in the endeavor to awaken the conscience of the Telephone Company to its responsibility to the workers and the public in general.

The question in dispute is simple. These workers are striving to secure their rightful war-time wage increase. Their last wage increase was in March, 1943. Throughout the war period, they performed their duties faithfully and well. Even the Company will readily admit this fact. The workers, however, did not participate in the enormous war-time profits earned by the Company (1941, total revenues, $104,766,979; 1944, total revenues $129,729,139). It appears from the Company's action that, although it is ever ready to glamorize the outstanding services of the Operator, it is struck with a spirit of selfishness when it comes to the sharing of the harvest of war-time profits.

The wages of Operators are shockingly low. The present starting rate in Chicago is $20 a week. An Operator in Chicago is required to serve a nine-year apprenticeship before reaching the maximum rate of $32 a week. Due to the very nature of the work, the close confinement, the nervous tension, and the split-second precision required in the performance of their duties, the employment life of an Operator is short. Of the 1,712 Telephone Operators in the Chicago Toll Office, only 335 have completed their nine-year apprenticeship and are receiving the maximum wage. Over 900 of these 1,712 employees have less than two years' service. The wage rates in other communities throughout the State are even lower than the Chicago rate. The starting rates throughout the 116 communities range from $16 to $20; the maximum rates in these communities range from $20 to $31. An eight-year apprenticeship is required before the Operator receives the maximum rate for the community.

If you are inconvenienced as a result of this strike, please remember that this drastic action is being taken only in the effort to unshackle the Operator from what might rightfully be termed "slave wages."

NAVY IS UNEQUAL TO BIG BATTLE, SAYS ADM. KING

Release of Men Blamed; Urges Peace Training

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—The navy has been weakened by demobilization to such an extent it couldn't fight a major battle now, Adm. King asserted today in indorsing peace time military training for all youths of 18.

Adm. King

Questioning about demobilization by members of the house military committee, which is holding hearings on President Truman's request for universal training legislation, led to the admiral's appraisal of the navy's present situation.

The chief of naval operations was talking about the speed with which the navy is releasing key men, breaking up combat teams, and disintegrating the units that smashed the Japanese fleet.

"Disintegrated," Says King

Rep. Johnson [R., Cal.] asked whether demobilization was of such character that the fleet was unable "to fight a major battle" now if necessary.

"I'm afraid I will have to say 'yes' to that question," King said.

He added that the navy isn't the "going concern" he hoped it would be during the reduction process. "Disintegrated" is the word for it, King said. He explained that the navy still has many men and many ships, but that combat teams are broken.

Certain of Reaching Goal

King told the committee the navy with the army in full support of peace time military training for young men. He said the navy is certain it can recruit its 666,000 officers and men for the immediate post-war fleet strength."

"If there would be enemy action, the navy would be the first to be called on," he said. "It is essential that our fleet be capable of prompt expansion from peace strength to war strength. There is no way to accomplish that save thru the existence of a trained reserve. I do not think a sufficient and efficient reserve is possible save under universal military training."

Atom Bomb a Factor

King said he was basing his testimony on conditions "as they exist rather than on the future of firm peace which we hope to see in due time."

The atom bomb "may require us eventually to build stronger ships quite different from those we have now," he said.

He said some questions of the future may be cleared up "when we are ready to make tests of the effect of the atomic bomb on ships. We will then strive to work out counter measures."

The present atomic bomb, he said, cannot prevent fleets from operating.

GREEN ASSAILS NATIONS KILLING BY LEND-LEASE

Tells U. S. to Guard Its Ideals

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 16 [Special]—Gov. Green tonight took a strong stand against sacrificing American ideals to nations who are using lend-lease weapons to massacre colonials. He also warned against bartering American concepts for so-called security on the domestic front.

Speaking before the annual banquet of the Scottish Rite bodies, Gov. Green noted that despite the dearly bought victories over Germany and Japan there is war or the threat of war on every continent but this one.

"Slavery or Destruction"

Enslaved nations of eastern Europe have been freed from one foreign oppressor only to be terrorized by another, he said. Subject Asiatics hoping for the status of the Filipinos instead have been offered a choice of return to imperial slavery or destruction by lend-lease weapons from the United States.

Midwest pioneers had ideals that barred forever from the Northwest territory the institution of slavery, he said, and these ideals are as strong as ever.

"Our national conscience must be as sharp in our dealings with our allies as it is with our enemies," he said. "Lip service to our ideals is not enough.

"Noble Words Mocked"

"Noble words of the Atlantic Charter are mocked—not by the record of the things we have done, but by the things we have suffered to be done by others when it was in our power to prevent them.

"America must quickly revise and redeem a foreign policy which has delivered prisoners of war, taken on the field of battle, into economic slavery by the French government. This policy has given official approval to the looting of private property in western Europe by another ally, and has permitted lend-lease weapons to be used in the wanton slaughter of the subject peoples of Polynesia.

"Appeasement may be as dangerous today as at Munich, and it is particularly dangerous when it means compromise with the conscience of America."

MARSHALL PUPIL NAMED HEAD OF CHICAGO YOUTH

New officers were elected yesterday at a meeting of the Chicago Youth conference in the council chambers of the city hall. Jerry Katz, 17, of 3902 Wilcox st., from Marshall high school, was chosen president. More than 500 delegates and alternates representing 150 county, public, and parochial high schools attended.

Elected vice president was Robert Wise, 17, of 5646 S. Christiana av., from Gage Park High school. Marion Pyka, 17, of 2526 Medill av., from Josephinum High school, was elected secretary. Marion Egan, 17, of 1219 N. Euclid av., Oak Park, of Trinity High school, was elected treasurer.

Judge Jacob M. Braude of Boys' court told the group they could prove a forceful good in the community and termed the conference a "war baby that survived V-J day." Other speakers also addressed the conference urging racial tolerance in the schools.

GRAVE DIGGERS POST PICKETS AT CEMETERY GATES

Sixteen grave diggers at St. Casimir's Lithuanian Catholic cemetery, 1100 S. Pulaski rd., who went on strike a week ago, yesterday established a picket line at the entrance to the grounds.

Miles E. Barry, secretary of the Cemetery Workers and Greens Attendants' union [AFL], said the line was established because the cemetery officials threatened to fire the striking workers.

Since the strike was started no graves have been dug. The caskets of nine deceased persons, for whom funerals have been held, have been placed in the cemetery receiving vaults, which have a capacity of 20 caskets. Five more funerals are scheduled for today. The union is striking for recognition and higher pay.

VOTE FOR STRIKE IN 11 HARVESTER COMPANY PLANTS

Members of the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers [CIO] in 11 International Harvester company plants, including five in Chicago, yesterday cast sizable majority votes for a strike, in balloting conducted by the national labor relations board.

Board officials announced the result: for a strike, 16,194; against, 3,777. Of 23,622 eligible to vote, 20,136 cast ballots. Of these 165 were cast out as void. The union is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

Results of a similar poll among 2,000 Chicago telephone toll operators were to be announced today. The Illinois Telephone Traffic union, which is asking a $6 weekly wage increase, has rejected a $4 raise recommended by the telephone panel of the war labor board. A telephone company spokesman said prospects for a settlement were slight. He predicted the union soon would call the operators out on strike.

ARMY, NAVY CUT POINT SCORES FOR RELEASE

Expected to Add 806,000 to Those Eligible

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 [Special]—The navy and the army today announced revisions in their discharge procedures that would add more than 806,000 men and women to the number eligible for release.

The navy's revised system, affecting 23,810, will go into effect Jan. 1. The army's new plan, affecting 783,000, is to take effect Dec. 1.

Besides revising points for officers and enlisted personnel, the navy said that certain officers heretofore ineligible for release except on approval of the chief of naval personnel would be eligible for automatic discharge the first of the year.

3,435 Officers Eligible

Approximately 3,435 officers and 20,375 enlisted personnel are affected by the revisions. Of these, the navy said, 2,350 officers and 7,392 enlisted personnel will have sufficient points to qualify for release or discharge by Jan. 1.

Enlisted personnel of the following classifications, heretofore ineligible for demobilization under the point formula, will became eligible Jan. 1 on the basis of point scores effective on that date:

Specialists, shore patrol, 38 points; storekeeper, disbursing, male, 44 points; female, 29 points; specialists, key punch operator, male, 38 points, female, 23 points; specialists, punch card accounting machine operator, male, 44 points; female, 29 points; hospital corpsmen with specialty in occupational or physical therapy, assigned to duty in continental United States naval hospitals or United States naval special hospitals, male, 44; female, 29; specialists, transportation, male, 44; female, 29.

Shore Patrol Listed

Officers of the following categories automatically will become eligible for release on Jan. 1, upon acquiring sufficient points: Shore patrol officers; officer specialists business machines or other electric tabulating machines; postal officers; officer graduates of naval schools or oriental languages; officers, officer candidates, and enlisted personnel studying for commissions in naval schools of oriental languages; officers of cost inspection service, and officers specializing in physical or occupational therapy in continental naval hospitals.

Under the army's new policy effective Dec. 1 men with three or more dependent children under 18 years of age will be eligible for release. Length of service will not matter. Previously 12 points were allowed for each child up to a maximum of three.

Reduce Point Score

The new point score for enlisted men will be 55, instead of the present 60.

In addition, a soldier with four years of honorable service can ask for discharge regardless of his age. Retained are the present provisions under which a soldier with two years' service and who is 35 to 37 years old can be discharged or if he is 38, regardless of length of service.

WACs also benefit under the new order. If they are married, regardless of when, and enlisted before May 12 of this year they can apply for discharge. This applies to both WAC officers and enlisted personnel. The point score for WAC enlisted women will be reduced from 34 to 32, but remain unchanged at 37 for officers.

Medical Officers Excluded

Male officers, except those in the medical department, will be able to ask for release if they have four years and three months' service. Their point score will be cut from 75 to 73. The army said it would have an announcement before the middle of next month regarding discharge requirements for both men and women medical officers.

The war department said that by Dec. 1 the army will have either discharged or made eligible for release approximately 5 million men. This will include more than 3½ million discharged and 1,483,000 eligible for discharge.

This will mean that of the 8,300,000 men in the army on V-E day, 3,300,000 will be in service. That figure, however, will have been increased by inductions and enlistments.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 17—Allies' Victory March

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago today, the 350 mile front held by the allies in northeastern France and Belgium was stirred into action again.

In some ways, it was like the great offensives of the preceding September and October, with American, French, British, and Belgian armies pushing north and east toward German strong points.

There were great differences, tho. This time, the strong points were empty and the German armies in full retreat. Allied progress was measured in miles rather than in yards, and the cheers of the inhabitants of liberated towns replaced the sullen roar of artillery that had been the constant accompaniment of the earlier advances.

This new advance was not war, but peace. The armistice had been signed six days earlier, and the allies were moving toward Germany to take possession of the Rhineland areas that they had won the right to occupy.

More than 200,000 Americans participated in the movement. The main body was the American 3d army, which on that historic Nov. 17, 1918, stepped forward on a 50 mile front extending from Mouzon on the Meuse river southeast to Fresnes and beyond.

Two weeks after the march began, the Americans were on German soil. Twelve days later they reached the Rhine at Coblenz.

MOTHER DIES; BABY DELIVERED 20 MIN. LATER

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16 (AP)—A baby girl was delivered at Jefferson hospital today 20 minutes after the death of her mother, Dr. Irving Uram, attending physician, reported.

Dr. Uram said the mother of the child, Mrs. Mary Zaccario, died of a heart ailment. Dr. Allison Price of the hospital medical department saw Mrs. Zaccario's body immediately after the death and said he realized the baby might still be alive.

Dr. Price ordered the body moved into the operating room, where Dr. Uram had just completed another delivery. Dr. Uram said examination disclosed Mrs. Zaccario's child would have been born in six weeks had the mother lived. He delivered the baby by Caesarian section.

The child weighed four pounds. Dr. Uram said her condition was excellent.

Ex-State Finance Chief Divorce Action Defendant

Samuel L. Workman, 45, of 31 E. Elm st., president of the Workman Calculating and Typing service, 58 E. Washington st., and former state finance director, was named defendant yesterday in a divorce bill filed in Superior court by his wife, Marcella, 40, of 900 N. Michigan av. The couple married Nov. 14, 1925, according to the bill, and separated Oct. 26. They have no children. Mrs. Workman's bill asked for suitable alimony.

25,000 POUNDS OF FISH KEEP MARSHAL BUSY

Joseph E. Tobin, chief deputy United States marshal, discovered yesterday that it is harder to dispose of 25,000 pounds of spoiled fish than to arrest criminals.

The fish was condemned by Judge Walter J. La Buy, of the federal District court, on a showing by the federal food and drug administration that it had deteriorated while in a cold storage warehouse. The court ordered the fish destroyed.

Yesterday Tobin had the fish, contained in 1,675 boxes, loaded into three trucks. Then he started out for a private dump on the southwest side. The dump refused to accept the fish. Tobin then tried half a dozen more dumps and an incinerator in Oak Park. None would handle the fish. The fish was still on the trucks last night, and today Tobin will make a new effort to dispose of it.

Jurors Hold Estranged Husband Was a Suicide

Verdict of suicide was returned yesterday in the death of James Mead, 41, of 6237 Cottage Grove av., a decorator whose body was found Thursday night in a garage at 6137 Drexel av. His estranged wife, Lucille, of 6225 Drexel av., said she saw her husband a month ago. Mead had been dead several weeks when his body was found. A farewell note said his wife should have listened to him instead of "other people."

ABSOLVES ARMY OF BLAME FOR DELINQUENT GIs

The majority of discharged veterans who are arrested for violations of law have not become delinquent during or because of their military careers, Capt. Leo A. Kaplan, of the army's Mayo general hospital, Galesburg, Knox county, yesterday told the 6th service command neuropsychiatric conference. When detailed case histories are taken, he said, most of the veterans who have run afoul of the law give indications of a social and anti-social behavior both before and during their army period.

The two day conference, which ends today, is being held in the John B. Murphy Memorial auditorium of the American College of Surgeons.

Anger at the Japs during the Bataan and Corregidor battles and the hope of quick succor during the time of captivity served to stabilize the soldiers in the Philippines during the first years of the war. Lt. Col. Stephen C. Sitter, of Vaughan general hospital, said at the morning session. Emotional disturbances were few, he recalled. He himself was at Bataan and was taken prisoner by the Japs.

Gardiner Hospital Tells of Racket in Yule Cards

A racket in the sale of Christmas cards with the proceeds supposedly going to Gardiner General hospital was disclosed yesterday by Col. John R. Hall, commandant of the hospital.

BRITISH AIRLINES IN ITALY SPURN ITALIAN MONEY

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, Nov. 16—American and other non-British civilians needing transportation on British air lines may now be forced into the illegal purchase of money at black market rates to build up England's foreign exchange. A new royal air force regulation provides that passage fare will not be taken only in British, Canadian, American, or Swiss currency.

Two correspondents [myself and Edgar Clark of United Press] were among the first Americans to encounter this latest twist in international monetary dealings. When we bought tickets last week in Rome for an R. A. F. flight to Belgrade, Yugoslavia, we paid in lire, the British booking office then stating that the fare was acceptable in the currency of the country where the travel originated.

Stranded Without Cash

Unable to get thru to Belgrade because of bad weather we were stranded in Bari on the Italian Adriatic coast and sought air transport back to Naples. We were told that the 4 pounds fare [$16 or 1,600 lire] was now acceptable only in pounds, Canadian or American dollars or Swiss gold francs.

We said we had none of the latter types of currency; in fact, it isn't permissible for us to have them.

The R. A. F. clerks said there was nothing they could do; the new regulation had become effective Nov. 10. As for our suggestion that the Bari-Naples fare be debited against the refund due us from the uncompleted portion of the flight between Bari and Belgrade, the clerks said they couldn't do that.

A British captain who overheard the discussion said he agreed with us that the ruling was unfair and ridiculous, and finally on his authorization our tickets were sold us for lire at the standard rate. But it was emphasized that an exception was being made.

Success to Chicago's Delegation!

ON NOVEMBER 23rd the Preparatory Commission of the United Nations, meeting at Church House, Dean's Yard, London, will receive the official Chicago Delegation with our city's offer of beautiful Northerly Isle as permanent Headquarters of the United Nations.

Our world-famous lake front would be a home worthy of a world organization dedicated to liberty and peace.

We join with all our civic and business organizations in wishing our delegation Godspeed and all success in their undertaking to make the heart of America the permanent home of the United Nations.

ARMY TO REVIEW SENTENCES OF 27,500 TROOPS

Special Boards Set Up, Patterson Says

New York, Nov. 16 [Special]—The army will review findings in 27,500 courts martial handed down "under the stress of a war fought around the world and to adjust unnecessarily severe or disparate sentences," War Secretary Patterson disclosed tonight.

Speaking before the Congress of Correction sponsored by the American Prison association at the Hotel Pennsylvania, Patterson said this task is being undertaken by special clemency boards working under the supervision of the advisory board of clemency established last June in the office of the undersecretary of war. It was announced last week that former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts would serve as chairman of the advisory board.

Individual Review

"It is an enormous task," Patterson said, "but the review is to be systematic and thoro. Cases will not be disposed of in blocks and categories, and there is to be no general jail delivery. Each case will be reviewed individually."

The special clemency boards will consist of a civilian, an officer with combat experience, and an officer from the judge advocate general's office.

Patterson said that "the army was surprisingly well behaved, its discipline was good, and its morale high."

Patterson cited figures showing that the total intake of 60,000 general prisoners was only a little more than half of one per cent of the 10,000,000 men who passed thru the army, and that the total in confinement on V-J Day, 33,500, was less than half of one per cent of the army strength of 8,000,000 at the end of hostilities.

2,700 in Federal Institutions

Of the 33,500 in confinement in this country and overseas, 13,500 were in disciplinary barracks; 6,000 in rehabilitation centers; 2,700 in federal institutions; 900 in guardhouses in this country awaiting transfer to disciplinary barracks or rehabilitation centers, and 10,500 overseas, largely in disciplinary training centers where they still had an opportunity for restoration to duty.

Backbone of the army's program for restoring as many men as possible to duty was an institution of a new type, the rehabilitation center, Patterson asserted. There are five centers which have received about 35,000 men, of whom about 14,000 have been restored to duty. Only about 10 per cent of those restored are known to have become general prisoners again, he said.

10 SHOTS FIRED; TWO BURGLARS SEIZED IN CHASE

Two ex-convicts fleeing after burglaries of two apartments at 7558 Crandon av. were captured yesterday by two police squads led by Sgt. James L. Sullivan of Gresham station. The captives, Joseph Fredzinski, 39, of 4543 S. California av., and John Elwell, 23, of 1101 E. 65th st., were held for investigation in other burglaries.

The squads, summoned by Mrs. Edward E. Eichenbaum when she returned from shopping and found her apartment door jimmied, arrived as Fredzinski and Elwell climbed out of a first floor window in the apartment of Paul Herbert. Fredzinski was caught at 77th st. and Crandon av. after four shots were fired. Elwell, who leaped into a sedan, was overtaken at 77th st. and Merrill av. after six shots were fired.

Two pistols were found on Fredzinski and one on Elwell. Their pockets yielded $50, four watches, and costume jewelry taken from the apartments. Police said both were released from Joliet penitentiary in February; Fredzinski after serving 10 years on five robbery charges; and Elwell after a three year term for violating parole on a burglary sentence.

SLAIN AND PUT IN AUTO TRUNK BY HITCH-HIKER

Kemmerer, Wyo., Nov. 16—(AP)—Henry Edward Wallace, 33, of Dexter, Ia., was killed and his body stuffed in the trunk of his car, Sheriff Earl Ellsworth said tonight, by a hitch hiker near Cokeville, Wyo., 30 miles northwest of here.

Ellsworth said he was holding a suspect and two material witnesses while he investigated the killing, which happened Wednesday night. Wallace was killed by a hitch hiker he had picked up in North Platte, Neb., Ellsworth said, as two other hitch hikers from Nebraska looked on.

The car crashed into a ditch farther along the road, the sheriff said, and the two witnesses made a break from the wrecked car and reported the slaying.

Gov. Gates' name entered the involved matter following published reports that some of the pictures made at the fort party showed the governor and state department aids smilingly attentive to the girls' entertainment.

"I learned about this matter only a few hours ago and have since been checking back to remember the incident referred to," Gov. Gates said. "I remember the evening distinctly.

"Some 20 South American repretatives visiting America had come to Indianapolis. They had something to do with the justice department or the legal part of the war department. They came to my office, where I greeted them and they responded.

"That night the colonel at Fort Harrison put on a dinner for them and I was invited. I arrived just before the dinner and I stayed only about an hour and a half before leaving to keep another engagement I had that night.

"There was music by an orchestra, some singers, and dancing by entertainers. They danced something like the rhumba, I believe. There was no nude dancing in my presence.

"I remember the dinner distinctly, for I had a pleasant evening. I sat next to a South American representative who spoke English and with whom I was interested in discussing affairs of his country. I left before 9 p. m.

"I understand a woman claims something about pictures. I haven't any idea what she is talking about. I know nothing about the case involving her soldier husband."

Mrs. Bauer had appealed to President Truman, her congressman, Rep. Ludlow [D., Ind.], and army authorities in her efforts to remove what she termed a cloud of secrecy from her husband's detention.

HUNT OUTLAW IN ROBBERY; ON PRISON 'LEAVE'

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 16 (AP) Matt Kimes, notorious "kid outlaw" of the 1920s, is being sought for questioning in a $17,000 Texas bank robbery, D. A. Bryce, head of the federal bureau of investigation here, said today.

Matt Kimes

Bryce said Kimes was being sought in connection with the robbery of the First State bank of Morton, Tex., last Sept. 5. The outlaw is on leave of absence from the Oklahoma penitentiary where he was serving two life terms for the murder of two police officers during bank robberies in 1927.

Kimes was granted a six months leave two months ago so he could gather evidence to present to the pardon and parole board to support his request for executive clemency. The bank robber had asked that he be pardoned, contending he had served enough time to be convinced crime did not pay. Soon after the pickup order was issued the state pardon board said Gov. Kerr had revoked Kimes' leave a week ago.

Flies to Chicago

[TRIBUNE Photo]

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wattman with granddaughter, Lillian, in Chicago last night.

After an airplane trip from Seattle, Wash., to Detroit, Mich., and an automobile ride from Detroit to Chicago, Lillian Wattman, 3 weeks old, daughter of Carter Wattman, former army flyer, last night lay sleeping in the home of her grandparents at 6448 S. Claremont av.

The baby's mother, Lillian, 22, died in a Seattle hospital soon after the birth. Wattman brought her body to Chicago, but he was unable to return for the infant. Dr. Louis C. Llewelyn, Seattle physician, who planned a trip east by airplane, volunteered to be nursemaid to Detroit.

When Dr. Llewelyn handed the baby to her father, he said she was an "ideal traveling companion." He added that she slept all the way except during diaper changes and feeding of prepared formula. Wattman, aided by his brother, Roland, a sailor, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Savage, 2351 W. 65th st., brought the baby home from Detroit. Lillian weighs 6½ pounds.

ROBNETT LIBEL SUIT TESTIMONY IS COMPLETED

Testimony was concluded yesterday in the $100,000 libel suit brought by George Washington Robnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, against E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers of the book, "Under Cover," written by Avedis Arthur Derounian, alias John Roy Carlson. Judge Walter J. La Buy, who is hearing the case before a jury in federal District court, instructed the attorneys for both sides they would each be limited to five hours of argument, beginning Monday.

Robnett took the witness stand yesterday to rebut testimony offered earlier by Derounian. He described a conversation the two men had in July, 1942, and denied saying that Jews were behind the Communist movement, that Jews held too many leading positions in Washington, and that it would be "too bad" for the Jews when soldiers and sailors return to civilian life.

Robnett's wife, Florence, was another witness. She testified that the league had spent a total of $15,280 on postage since it was organized in 1937 and that Robnett had received payments of $7,867 during the same period, plus $1,308 for traveling expenses.

WOMAN'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE

MARINE LEAGUE OPPOSES MERGER OF ARMY, NAVY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16 (AP)—The Marine Corps league's national convention today opposed the proposal to merge the fighting forces into a single administrative department.

Delegates adopted a resolution contending unification would impair military efficiency and might result in discontinuance of the marine corps as a separate institution. The convention approved a resolution recommending compulsory peace time military training.

Delegates also adopted a resolution opposing sale or lease of American merchant shipping if the vessels would be used to compete with American shipping.

GIs COMPLAIN THEY FREEZE AT CAMP CHICAGO

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 16—Yanks at Camp Chicago, 20 miles from Reims, agreed today that it was the best organized camp in the European theater of operations but said that the approximately 15,000 GI's there were so cold they could not sleep.

Sgt. Samuel Miomillo, 2320 Grand av., Chicago, acting as spokesman for one group, said that the temperature had been below freezing for some time.

Have No Coal

"We have no coal. We are given very little wood, for which we have to wait in long lines. After we have chopped it we build a bonfire, but the ground is so muddy and the tents so wet that we get only smoke. At 4 o'clock in the morning every one gets up freezing.

"When we were transferred to Camp Chicago, we found a Yacht club and the latest Hollywood pictures. Furthermore the officers were considerate and arranged mess hours that did not conflict with entertainment, as is the case in most camps. However, months of crowded, icy tents and powdered eggs morning, noon, and night are getting us down.

Wants Pass to Paris

"We were promised a boat next Monday, but we have heard that one before. In fact, we hear it regularly every week-end."

Iomillo said he wanted a pass to Paris so he could warm himself at the Red Cross Rainbow corner.

Another major complaint is that the GI's have only two pairs of worn trousers and one field jacket. They do not have extras to send to the cleaners, who take from two weeks to a month to do the job. Enlisted men in Paris are wearing overcoats, but they also go about with chattering teeth.

JEWS DENOUNCE BRITISH POLICY IN MIDDLE EAST

British imperialism in the Middle East was assailed by the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation in statements released yesterday. It charged British policies were basically responsible for recent anti-Jewish outbreaks in Egypt and in Tripolitania.

The committee made public a letter sent to Anis Azer, Egyptian charge d' affaires in Washington, D. C., protesting the Egyptian anti-Jewish riots, and his answer giving assurance that the situation is under control. The documents were released by Dr. B. E. Rabinowitz, executive director of the American League for a Free Palestine, 139 N. Clark st.

"The outbreaks in Tripolitania, where the Jews suffered some 500 casualties, including more than 100 dead, are a grim proof of where the British policy in the Middle East leads," the committee stated. "Only one of the attackers was killed, altho the disturbance lasted for several days. The Arabs cannot fail to understand the implication of this deliberate negligence as a go-ahead signal for further attacks."

THE CRIME UNCOVERED

Disclosures at the first day's hearings of the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster provide final confirmation of the culpability of Mr. Roosevelt and his inner official circle in failing to put the Hawaiian command on warning against known impending attack. Every American now knows that the real defendants are not Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short, but the administration leaders who wanted war even at the price of a national calamity.

We say that the evidence in confirmation is final, not in the sense that it is the last proof that will be spread upon the record, but in the sense that it is conclusive as to guilt. Further evidence, no doubt, will confirm this judgment again and again and again. When the suppressed portions of the report are pried loose from the administration we believe that the army's own board of inquiry will be shown to have reached the same conclusion, even if it dared not make direct accusations against the Pearl Harbor commander in chief and his cabinet officers.

The Jap secret messages, intercepted and decoded by American cryptanalysts, are now an official part of the Pearl Harbor record. They contained secrets which the Roosevelt and Truman administrations succeeded in hiding for almost four years and attempted to suppress for all time.

At first the strategy was to slip a bill thru congress specifying 10 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 for disclosing any coded messages, either ours or the enemy's. Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, one of the chief figures in the scandal, gave the legislation his blessing. When that failed and some of the messages were read in the house last week by Rep. Gearhart the tactics changed.

Administration spokesmen first tried to discredit the source of the messages, implying that they had come from a columnist who has no great reputation for veracity. Rep. Gearhart replied that they were from a document classified as top secret and entitled "Memorandum of the Judge Advocate General of the Army for the Secretary of War." This in itself was sufficient evidence that Stimson knew exactly what he was trying to conceal when he asked imprisonment for any one disclosing messages which would make clear his own part in the catastrophe.

Having flopped again, the administration and its kept press next attempted to pooh-pooh the importance of the messages and the evidence in them that is plain to any eye. The faithful Sen. Lucas of Illinois said that Republican members of the committee were "going out on a limb," and hinted darkly that "some faces would be red." He can be considered his own chief exhibit today.

From the beginning every effort has been made to minimize the Pearl Harbor investigation and to gloss over the facts. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was one of the first to counsel that Pearl Harbor be forgotten because, as she said, "in varying degrees every one of us has been to blame." In taking this tack she followed President Truman, who said, "I think the country is to blame as much as any individual." The attempt to court martial the American people failed and the guilty are now being unmasked.

The Jap messages in code not only informed Mr. Roosevelt and his circle exactly when war was coming, but pointed precisely to the target for attack. On Sept. 24, 1941, the Jap agents in Hawaii were directed to divide the waters of Pearl Harbor into five subdivisions in reporting on warships at anchor or tied up at wharves, docks, or buoys. On Nov. 15 the spies were told to report twice a week on ships in harbor. On Nov. 29 Honolulu was informed by Tokyo, "We have been receiving reports from you on ship movements, but in the future will you also report even when there are no movements." On Dec. 2 the spies in Hawaii were informed: "In view of the present situation, the presence in port of warships, airplane carriers, and cruisers is of the utmost importance. Hereafter, to the utmost of your ability, let me know day by day. Wire in each case whether or not there are any observation balloons above Pearl Harbor or if there are any indications that any will be sent up. Also advise me whether or not the warships are provided with anti-mine nets."

Our intelligence had placed in the hands of the Roosevelt administration and its military leaders not only these reports, showing an intense Japanese preoccupation with the berthing of the fleet at Pearl Harbor and at no other port in the Pacific, but also the responses of the Jap agents in Hawaii, with their detailed accounting of the ships in harbor.

On Dec. 6, one day before the Japanese carrier assault in Pearl Harbor, the spies reported to Tokyo: "The following ships were observed at anchor: nine battleships, three light cruisers, three submarine tenders, 17 destroyers, and in addition there were four light cruisers and two destroyers lying at the docks. The heavy cruisers and airplane carriers have all left. It appears that no air reconnaissance is being conducted by the fleet air arm."

On Dec. 4, and again the following day, Washington intercepted the "East Winds Rain" code report that apprised Mr. Roosevelt that Japan had determined upon a state of war with the United States, omitting a formal declaration. After the decoding of the long series of messages from the Jap spies telling of the fleet disposition in Pearl Harbor, there could be no question where the attack would come. The spy message of Dec. 6 set up our warships in harbor for the attack of the following day. Yet no word of warning went from Washington to Kimmel and Short until almost the hour of attack, and then it was so bungled in transmission that the commanders did not receive it until seven hours after the blow had fallen, the great base was in ruins, our warships were exploded or resting on the bottom, and 3,000 Americans were dead.

The huge crime has been utterly uncovered. The great lie that shifted responsibility from Mr. Roosevelt and his co-conspirators to two men who were their unwitting victims has collapsed. Such of the guilty as still live must answer for their misdeeds.

NAVY PIER

The navy's decision to remain in possession of Navy pier thru next year is singularly inconsiderate. When the war ended, arrangements were made by the Chicago convention bureau with four large trade associations to hold their annual expositions and conventions at the pier in the course of 1946. No other building in Chicago can accommodate these shows. Accordingly, unless the navy reconsiders its decision, the conventions will have to be held in another city, if at all, with resultant losses to Chicago business men.

Chicago gave the navy everything it asked for during the war and more beside. On frequent occasions, spokesmen for the navy said their service would never forget its debt of gratitude to Chicago for coöperation and kindness. Evidently this was just pleasant conversation, for the only thing Chicago has asked of the navy has been refused.

Navy pier is being used as a school for radio technicians and airplane mechanics. It is a big school, with some 5,000 students, but there is no reason why they can't be accommodated equally well some place else. The pier was not designed for use as an educational institution and is none too well adapted to the purpose. If there isn't room at Great Lakes or Glenview to house the students, the shops, and the classrooms, there is no lack of idle war plants for the purpose.

The navy's need for technicians now that the war is over cannot be as pressing as the nation's need for the resumption of normal business. The navy's dog-in-the-manger policy will not win friends for the service, but it will cause needless losses to this community and, more particularly, it will hamper the industries to which this country must look for the creation of new jobs.

ATOMIC DIPLOMACY

Mr. Truman stands by his decision not to divulge to other nations, for the present, at least, the details of how atomic bombs are made. He announced his views first in a message to congress, and again in his Navy day speech; they were not greatly altered as a result of his conference with Premier Attlee of Great Britain and Premier King of Canada.

For this the country can be grateful. It is said that Mr. Attlee wished to barter the bomb secrets for Russian pledges to cause no further trouble to the British empire. Mr. Truman didn't think well of the proposed deal. The results of the conference were announced in a communique which said that the secrets—if that is the word for them—will be divulged only when everybody who gets them will have given adequate assurance that they will be used only for peaceful purposes. That puts the burden on the prospective recipients and seems to postpone the broadcast indefinitely.

Mr. Truman thus appears to have resisted the British thesis and likewise the pressures from the left wingers in this country, who have been employing all their arts to get him to open the atomic plants to Russian copyists. The argument of the left wingers has been a curious one. They say that as we have only a five or 10 year start on the Russians they will surely catch up anyway. The argument assumes, in face of the plain facts regarding Russian activity in middle Europe, the Balkans, the Baltic area, and Korea and Manchuria, that the Russians have no aggressive intentions at present, and it assumes, further, that the soviets will become aggressive if we don't give them the most potent offensive weapon the world has ever known. The whole thesis is self-contradictory on the face of it and Mr. Truman has been well advised to pay no attention to it.

Thus far, Mr. Truman's diplomacy with regard to the atomic bomb has been satisfactory. It is to be hoped that he will not fail to take the further step of acquiring control, at least in the military sense, of Greenland. If the new weapons can be delivered over long distances by rocket, as many scientists predict, Greenland offers an excellent launching site for attacks upon this country. We don't want any unfriendly nation to have a secret base in Greenland and under present conditions nothing would be easier than to get one. The protection of this country requires that we have the right to patrol Greenland to see that it is not being used against us.

One other aspect of the atom bomb conference may deserve mention. Owing to the curious organization of the British empire, Britain and Canada have an interest in the invention, arising from their participation in the researches, but this interest is not shared by their partners, New Zealand, South Africa, and Australia. It will be interesting to see how these dominions conduct themselves when the subject of bomb control arises in future international conferences. Will they stand with Britain and Canada or with the others?

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. If you invited the following four people to dinner at your home, which one would be most likely to leave food on his plate?
   Epicure Glutton Gourmand Gourmet
2. The "Dying Gaul" refers to which one of the following?
   Statue, Painting, Poem, Musical composition
3. Leaf springs would most likely be found in Beds, Southern swamps, Automobiles, Watches
4. A singletree should make one think of which sound?
   Chirp Whistle Whinny Purr
5. Which one of these contains the largest number of square miles of area?
   Canada U. S. A. Mexico Central America
6. In this problem you are to answer each question below with a type of stone. For example, "Which stone is found in a cemetery?" might appropriately be answered with "headstone." Follow this method with the five queries below. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

   [a] Which stone suggests a bathing beach? ——
   [b] Which stone is a natural magnet? ——
   [c] Which stone does flour suggest? ——
   [d] Which stone usually accompanies a scythe? ——
   [e] Which stone sometimes falls during a thunderstorm? ——

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

MR. PEPYS DINES

17th Nov.—Prepared for today's Northwestern-Notre Dame football tussle by dining off ferocious creatures of the woods and waters—to-wit: filet of pike, ragout of venison, steak of bear, with white and red wines to wash them down. Felt so stuffed with savage vitamins I dreamed that night I had become an enormous totem pole, planted behind the Notre Dame goal posts to encourage Northwestern touchdowns.

After this small and select gathering of hardy bucks, held in a rockbound snuggery which prevented its friendly talk from being reported as disorderly conduct, I concentrated, between spells of work, on plans for banquets to come, such as the Press Veterans' annual and the Line o' Type contributors' roundup. Then encountered the harvest home dinner at my senior club. With Thanksgiving day imminent, am thinking of launching a new slogan: "Are these dinners necessary?"

Feel sorry for the American generals who have to run the gantlet of Russian military and diplomatic dinners, and float their powerful brains on vodka. Have noted that they prepare for such ordeals by priming themselves with milk and olive oil, which retard absorption of alcohol, and I hope the trick works.

In my experience, however, nothing will slow down vodka but a fire hose. The Russians escape scorching only because they toss the stuff down their gullets with a quick jerk, like throwing water out a window. The answer to their screaming for the atomic bomb should be: "You big schoolboys would use it for mixed drinks."

LADY IN GRAY

No gypsy flaunts her vivid charms today,
With hoyden laughter from her carmined lips,
Gold earrings jangling as her shoulders sway,
And sunbeams darting from red fingertips.
She flings no jeweled leaves into the air
And scorns to eye the earth with artful glances,
While posed with purple asters in her hair
Or swirling scarlet flounces as she dances.

In gracious gray and muted beauty now,
This lady strolls each morning thru the mists.
Pale light finds frosty silver at her brow
Or glistens on her brooch of amethysts.
And from her shoulders in rich ripples fall
The mellow colors of a Paisley shawl.

Craftsmen of the Past

All that is left of their past glory is the faint outline of the gold leaf lettering on the shop window. The brothers, Adolph and Anton, were custom boot and shoe makers. They located themselves on a street where, they assumed, business would build up, but business settled elsewhere. The townfolks could not afford their type of high class merchandise, so the brothers finally resorted to shoe repairing.

Often after school we kids would watch them. Adolph would repair only the top parts of the shoes, and Anton the soles and heels. It was years before they consented to use rubber heels; they claimed that nothing could take the place of leather. When machinery was introduced, they would not accept the change. They still clung to their hand method.

The shop windows displayed potted geranium plants that seldom bloomed, and a sweet potato vine whose prodigious growth added a deep gloom to the interior. In this forest a black cat had her batches of kittens. The brothers sat, patiently waiting for repair work. Their service was too slow for a world that had passed them by.

The brothers have grown old and worn thin. When they depart, I wonder if the new tenant will adopt the black cat and take care of that window forest?

This is Chicago. These are its towers,
Exquisite, arrogant, goring the sky.
There on its avenue jewels and flowers
Glow in the windows for those passing by.

Long are the streets that go backward and onward,
Thru crowding that stifles and vice that depraves.
But turn, for your hoping; look eastward, look dawnward—
Heaven-wide sky and the music of waves!

It strikes me as strange that in all this spoken and printed discussion of international administration, supposedly necessitated by the atomic bomb, no mention has been made of Kipling's story, "As Easy as A B C." Chicago is very much in the story, too.

S. G. writes: "My son has been in the army for three weeks less than a year. He likes the army and is considering staying in service. He is not yet 20. What advantages does the army offer to a boy and for how long will he have to enlist?

Your son may be enlisted in the regular army for one year [because he has been in service for more than six months] or for 1½, 2, or 3 years. If he is discharged as a private and reenlists before Nov. 21 he will receive the grade of private first class immediately. If he has a higher rank and applies for discharge now for the purpose of reënlisting he can retain his grade in the regular army provided the reënlistment is within 20 days of date of discharge. This may be done at any time up to Jan. 31, 1946. If your son waits until he has completed one year of service and then reënlists he can get a 30 day reënlistment furlough and a bonus of $50. Furlough travel will be paid from his station to his home and back. He also can get his mustering out pay in full at time of discharge to reënlist. Upon completion of his enlistment he will be eligible for benefits under the GI bill and may obtain family allowance for dependents for the term of his enlistment. If he enlists for three years he can have his choice of service and overseas theater in air, ground, or service forces. He also may continue to carry his national service life insurance. If he remains in the army for 20 years he can retire at half pay of his grade for life and if he stays for 30 years he can obtain three-fourths of his monthly pay for life.

A SIEGE OF WHOOPING COUGH

WHOOPING cough [pertussis], in the beginning, is likely to be puzzling, as the child may exhibit symptoms of bronchitis. During this period, the causative bacilli are present in the sputum and transmission to others is possible. Were it not for protective vaccines, the disease could spread quickly thruouta community.

The responsible organisms invade the bronchial tubes, the larynx, and sometimes the nose and throat where they set up irritation. As a rule, the secretions teem with these germs and, with each cough, they are sown in all directions.

After five or six days, instead of improving, the "chest cold" becomes more severe especially at night. Ultimately, the typical whoop is heard. From this point on, a distinctive series of events occurs. Periodically the victim suffers a series of explosive "barks" 10 to 15 in number, which are so rapid that the tot can hardly catch his breath between them. The face becomes red or purple, the eyes prominent, and the veins on the scalp dilated. Between bursts a deep breath may be taken and, as air passes thru the narrowed windpipe, it produces a crowing or whooping sound.

Finally a small mass of thick mucus is raised and the attack is over. It is almost impossible to cough so hard without vomiting and, when this ensues with every episode, it may be difficult to supply the youngster with sufficient nourishment.

Should an overwhelming infection exist, the spells may vary from 12 to 50 during a 24 hour period. Eating, exertion, cold drinks, or tobacco smoke may be all that is needed to start them. They are more commonly observed in a stuffy room, and less so out of doors.

After three or four weeks the symptom subsides gradually and again resembles bronchitis. This period may continue for another three weeks during which time whooping may be noted. By habit almost the child often mimics this phase during subsequent colds for months afterward.

Once the infection is set, treatment is directed toward the control of the paroxysms with cough mixtures and sedatives. Because of the frequency of vomiting, it may be necessary to administer these rectally. Fresh air is important and older children may go out even in winter weather but it is better that infants or those who have been weakened avoid exposure. Quarantine rules must be observed but, in many cases, the victim is no longer infectious after the fourth week.

If the youngster is old enough, he can stifle the cough for he soon learns that giving way to the impulse is sure to be followed by a paroxysm. Since feeding is a problem, frequent small meals are recommended. In infants, milk can be fed after each bout in the hope that some of it will be retained. An abdominal support may add to comfort. Occasionally convalescent serum is of value but large amounts are necessary and all that can be expected is modification of the malady.

Because in children under one year of age the disease may be serious, early immunization with pertussis vaccine is advised. This is administered in the first few months of life. Altho it usually gives complete protection, should the disorder appear, it is mild and of little consequence. Preparations are also available for susceptible individuals who have been exposed.

HEART BEAT

Mrs. H. writes: Is a fast heart to be expected during pregnancy?

REPLY

This depends on the rate prior to this time. In general, a slight increase can be anticipated.

COMFY?

The woman at the Russian Trio concert was bitterly plaintive: "I don't know why I'm applauding. I can't see a thing without my glasses."

The General Couldn't See It

Glenn T. Seaborg, the great chemist from the University of California who has been working on the atomic bomb project at the University of Chicago, looks like the Ishpeming, Mich., farm boy he was born. At 33 he is probably the greatest chemist in the world today, yet is as matter-of-fact when talking of his tremendous discoveries as tho he were saying that water is two parts hydrogen and one part oxygen. Yesterday, in just that manner, he told of discovering the 95th and 96th elements, revealed that he had found plutonium, which he discovered in 1940, existing in a natural state, and announced that he and a co-worker had found a new isotype of neptunium much more stable than that used in making the atomic bomb. [See news section for details.]

But going back to the problem presented when he first went to work on the atomic project, designing a process for separating plutonium was, he said, without precedent from almost every standpoint. At the time that designing plants to use it was under consideration, no one had ever seen any plutonium. The chemical properties attributed to it then had been deduced solely from what might be called secondary evidence—i. e., experiments on the tracer scale. To set up the final Hanford [Wash.] plant on a basis of these experiments, he said, involved a scale-up by a factor of 10 to the 10th degree. That is, they had to design an industrial plant to 10 billion times greater than the microscopic bit—half a milligram—which represented the world supply of plutonium.

The preliminary design of these plants, he said, was under way when Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who was in charge of the entire atomic bomb project, paid them a visit. When shown this microscopic bit, he remarked, with justification, "I don't see anything."

This Age of Ours

A news story in the Chicago Daily News about the new riots in Palestine stated:

"Several military vehicles were set on fire. Warplanes marched thru the streets, booing and stoning soldiers and police."

The performance of modern airplanes sometimes approaches the fantastic.

The News Gets Around

Twenty-two Jap soldiers and an 18 year old geisha girl came out of the wilds of Guam on Nov. 5 and surrendered. They had learned of the war's end when they saw a picture, in an American magazine they had found in the jungle, of the surrender ceremonies in Tokyo. Only one spoke or wrote English and after persuading his comrades that he was interpreting the picture correctly, he sat down and penned a note:

"The War end! Comes peace in the World! We are join! We had been lived in this Jangle from last year, but now we known by this book that the war end—now we comes from this jangle. Please give me answer of next word. No. 1 When came ship we ride on from Japan? No. 3 Where we go from this land?"

They then tacked the note onto a coconut tree beside a path. When eight days had passed and no one had found their message, they became impatient, ripped the note off, rushed to the nearest highway, flagged down the first truck they saw, and handed it to the considerably amazed driver.

LETTER FROM A GOOD BOY

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 5—You may think I am rather early in writing this letter, Santa, but I just want to say that I've been a good boy, and I'm hoping you won't forget me this year, because it seems that almost every one else has. Last year our presence was requested overseas, so I wasn't at home to get my Christmas packages.

You see, Santa, it's like this: There are thousands of good boys just like me in this area who are eligible [a war department term] and all we want for Christmas is a boat, just any old kind of a sea-going tub will be okay. If not a boat, Santa, we could maybe squeeze in your sled. You know, Santa, the one headed for the United States. Please, Santa, grant us "eligible" boys this present. I remain, a good boy [four times winner of the good conduct medal].

WE NEED THE SEABEES AT HOME

Chicago, Oct. 22—I have been informed of a labor shortage in all building trades here. Why should the construction battalions of the navy be held under the point system? The majority of these men enlisted because their country needed them. Now, likewise, they are needed to build homes for returning veterans. I believe the average citizen is unaware that these men were all skilled building tradesmen or apprentices who are anxious to return to their respective trades.

My son has served 36 months in the Seabees, 32 of them overseas, yet must still be held for such unnecessary construction as clubhouses and bars for the gold braid.

"I WILL"

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 3—If Chicago's motto is "I Will," why do so many of the citizens who write to you whine that federal, state, or city governments should do this or that to fix this or that situation? What's the matter with the whiners? Let them show proof that they are actively doing their proportional part in cleaning up the alley or are voting for public servants instead of the grafters they complain of. Then one could lend credence to their asserted virility in causes. Or does "I Will" have a "mañana" sense. "I Will, Tomorrow?"

A TRADEMARK FOR MURDER

Coalport, Pa., Nov. 12—Secretary of State Byrnes has received protests from the colonial peoples of Asia and the Southwest Pacific because the British, French, and Dutch are using American lend-lease weapons to suppress the aspirations of these peoples for liberty. The secretary tells them that it is all right for lend-lease weapons to be so used, provided the name of the United States has first been removed from the weapons.

Would there be room on these American weapons to inscribe in place of Uncle Sam's name, the following utterance made upon his behalf by the Nobel peace prize winner, Cordell Hull on March 21, 1944, as the policy of this country toward these colonial peoples? It would look nice there.

"There rests upon independent nations," said Mr. Hull, "a responsibility in relation to the dependent peoples who aspire to liberty. It should be the duty of nations having political ties with such peoples, as of mandatories, of trustees, or of other agencies, as the case may be, to help aspiring peoples to develop materially and educationally to prepare themselves for duties and responsibilities of self-government, and to attain liberty."

THE AUDITORIUM

Chicago, Nov. 11—THE TRIBUNE'S opinion that many Chicagoans would be happy to hear opera again in the Auditorium is a triumph in understatement. The Civic Opera house is allergic to sound. That it has been tolerated so long—just as the Ravinia Roundhouse has been tolerated—indicates that sufferance is the badge of even the snootier levels of our citizenry.

There may be good reasons why it takes so many years to solve Chicago's problems of local transportation, drinking water, foul alleys, etc., etc. But the Auditorium is here now—ready to fill an important need now. Why not use it now?

4 INDEPENDENTS BACK PLAN TO FORM NEW UNION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—At least four independent labor unions today lined up behind the proposal to form a new national federation of labor headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

While Lewis withheld any commitment to these unions, he told reporters he was giving serious consideration to the plan.

The influential independents that have approached Lewis include the National Federation of Telephone Workers, which has 250,000 members.

Others are the National Federation of Independent Unions of Indianapolis, Ind.; the Mechanics Educational society of Detroit, Mich., and the National Watch Workers' union. Matthew Smith, head of the MES, tried to form a similar federation thru his Confederated Unions of America but is reported ready to drop this organization and join Lewis if the latter will head the movement.

300 Members of A.W.V.S. Get Bond Sale Citations

Three hundred members of the American Women's Voluntary Services received treasury department citations for their work in bond drives at a dinner last night in the Chicago Yacht club. The event marked the completion of three years of work in which the A. W. V. S. has sold 51 million dollars of stamps and bonds. Arnold J. Rauen, administrative officer of the treasury, also presented a patriotic coöperation citation to the Chicago A. W. V. S. chapter.

THE QUESTION

Would you like to have price controls lifted now?

WHERE ASKED

Board of Trade building.

THE ANSWERS

David Annan, grain broker, 1035 N. Sheridan rd., Lake Forest—All price controls should be removed. Let supply and demand be the sole factor. This might result in temporary upsets in some fields, but should prices go too high, production in those fields will increase to drive the prices back into line.

Frank R. Johnson, grain buyer and seller, 2842 Sheridan rd.—Absolutely no! Price control at the present time is the salvation of the white collar man. Lifting office of price administration price ceilings would create an inflation which would be disastrous. The controls should be left in effect until supplies increase.

Pvt. Tom Tierney, 746 Highland av., Oak Park—I think if the controls were abolished labor would be forced to go back to work. This would create a larger supply of goods and services, and prices would automatically stabilize themselves. There may be a little confusion but that could be ironed out.

Pvt. Robert J. T. Moran, 804 S. Harvey av., Oak Park—I'm in favor of no price control. But this is not the time to throw off control. We should wait until there are adequate supplies to meet the demand or prices would go sky high. I doubt if our country could absorb the shock at this time. That's my opinion.

Bernice Wylie, stenographer, 5513 N. Glenwood av.—I know one thing. I wouldn't want to see our rent raised because I don't think salaries would go up as fast. Salaries never do go up as fast as rent and food. Retailers would probably be in favor of release of control, but white collar workers would suffer.

Edward A. Praeger, commission merchant, 1529 Rosemont av.—Let the law of supply and demand govern prices. When the supply is great enough to take care of the demand the prices will settle down to normal. In the meantime the person who bids the highest will get the goods. Prices would soon regulate themselves.

REPORTS UNION YEARLY INCOME 389 MILLIONS

Treasury Makes Public Survey of Groups

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—The treasury department today made public a survey on tax-exempt organizations showing that 23,638 labor unions took in $389,686,000 in gross income and receipts in 1943. The report also disclosed that 4,397 farm cooperatives received $2,233,904,000.

Compilation of the report was directed by the revenue act of 1943. While the bill was on the senate floor, Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.] said he had no information as to what promoted the insertion in the bill of a section requiring a report from tax-free organizations.

Source of Income

He added: "The press has emphasized the alleged fact that this section was aimed at labor organizations in the endeavor to ascertain the contribution which they made to political campaigns, what their income was and its source."

There also had been criticism from some sections of industry of the tax-exempt status of farm cooperatives. Sen. George [D., Ga.] emphasized that the tax bill's special section was "simply a request for informational returns so that the committees of congress may know whether they ought to proceed to tax any one now tax-exempt."

George said: "It may well be that every return made will show such structure and such a course of business as to persuade congress or satisfy congress they ought not to be interfered with at all and no tax ought to be levied."

THEATER OF AIR TO GIVE FRIML'S VAGABOND KING

"The Vagabond King," one of the most popular operettas, will be presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from the stage of Medinah temple from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight before 4,500 guests.

Bruce Foote, baritone, will sing the role of Francois Villon, poet and soldier of fortune; Marion Claire will sing the role of Lady Katherine, and Ruth Slater that of Hugette.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, will speak.

WAR VET, HURT IN TRAIN WRECK, GRANTED $135,000

A jury in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe last night returned a verdict awarding Richard Stoddard, 22, of Jackson, Mich., a former tail gunner on an army bomber, $135,000 against the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad. The damages were for injuries suffered in a train collision near Terre Haute, Ind., in which Stoddard's twin brother was killed. Attorneys Luis Kutner and Philip Kelly, representing the former gunner, said that Stoddard's right leg was broken in the accident, and now is 1¾ inches shorter than the other, and that both of his arms were injured.

W-G-N to Record, then Broadcast 33d's Arrival

A special broadcast depicting the arrival of the 33d division from the west coast at Fort Sheridan today is to be recorded and then broadcast over W-G-N from 7:30 to 8 o'clock tonight. There will be interviews with Chicagoland men of the division and their families. Music will be provided by the post bands.

NAVY CUTTING UP ITS PLANES TO GET ALUMINUM

Proud of Program for Saving Money

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 16—The navy was systematically scrapping wrecked and surplus war planes here today. Three million pounds of aluminum from the planes, piled high at the Jacksonville air station, was the navy's proud exhibit. The metal is being sold and loaded by prisoners of war, so that the taxpayers may get back every dollar that can be salvaged from the 43 billion dollars that the nation's war planes cost.

A smelting furnace is now being built, and after its completion about the first of the year, the aluminum will be melted down and sold in ingots at a higher price than is received for scrap aluminum.

Every Facility Available

Planes which cannot be flown to the government surplus plane disposal plant at Walnut Ridge, Ark., are brought here, where there is every facility for removing engines and valuable equipment in such a manner that they will bring the highest market price if they cannot be utilized by the navy.

Among the planes here to be wrecked are 150 Corsair fighters furnished the British under lend-lease. Worn out and ready for the junk heap, they have been returned by the British for credit on their lend-lease account, in case the United States demands a dollars and cents accounting.

Navy officials had no knowledge as to whether or not the British would seek credit on the basis of original cost prices or junk value.

Know-How and Equipment

The navy takes especial pride in its program here because officials say they have the know-how and equipment to get the most in salvage prices from every scrapped plane.

The work was explained to correspondents by Capt. H. C. Stoa, supply officer. Among the other officers who took part in the navy's economy demonstration were Capts. Roark Montgomery and Daniel B. Ventres, and Comdr. Paul E. Emrick, acting commander of the station.

Capt. Stoa emphasized that the navy's surplus in planes and parts has been kept low because of the navy's careful estimates of its needs and its surveys of the life expectancy of planes.

Cut by Torches

Reporters saw the great planes of war cut into sections by acetylene torches today, and witnessed systematic dismantling of the planes with derricks that lifted the heavy motors out.

The day's most spectacular demonstration, however, was of the way the navy saves pilots from planes that catch fire after crashes.

"With Bated Breath" . . . . By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

SYNOPSIS: Avis Marriott accepts a job as companion-housekeeper to Maud and Erica Bolles, wealthy spinsters. Maud, a local autocrat known for her charities, has grown strangely penurious in her home. Erica, a semi-invalid, is dominated by Maud. A couple of guests and an evacuee family live with them at Turrets. Dr. Bruce advises Avis against accepting the position. Turrets is an isolated English manor with an abandoned underground passage. Avis' predecessor, Agatha Trimble, left under a cloud, suspected of theft. Robin Grier, Maud's godson, has been invalided out of the army. Mrs. Marks, a widow and family connection, seems too sophisticated for her surroundings. Avis arrives during a violent domestic scene, with the departing cook calling Maud a cheeseparing sinner. Avis' room is in the turret where Erica insists upon living. An unexpected guest, Oscar Moravian, arrives on Erica's invitation. From Mrs. Marks, Avis learns he is an East indian half brother of her dead husband and has a criminal reputation. Apparently Maud dares not send him away. In the night the soldier husband in the evacuee family slips and falls downstairs to his death. Dr. Bruce saves Agatha Trimble from an attempted suicide. Smears of wax polish make the stairs even more treacherous. Did some one want to kill Erica? Ten one-pounds notes are found on the victim. Erica had intended this money for Agatha. Checking a low, buzzing sound, Avis finds an alarm clock in Maud's room and wonders if the alarm was set so some one could wake up and wipe off the wax. Maud cautions Avis never to cash a check for Erica, and to keep watch over her. Avis takes the alarm clock from Maud's room. Going to the turret, she finds Erica hanging over a parapet. Erica points out a tunnel running from the barracks to the factory, which Avis later explores. At the inquest Agatha Trimble approaches Avis. Erica asks Avis to deliver a note to Agatha. Dr. Bruce informs Avis that for some time Maud has been trying to have Erica adjudged mentally incompetent.

INSTALMENT XII.

PURPOSEFUL LIES

Longing to escape, Avis began to take in a few details of Agatha Trimble's appearance, chiefly the long, fleshy nose, the ropy twist of rich brown hair, and the old fashioned opulence of an almost majestic figure. A plain woman, definitely, yet with some strange aura of dignity about her.

Speaking again: "They've told you about me, of course? Ah, there's no need to pretend. I can see you've been given the whole revolting tale. All Wyfforde knows that Agatha Trimble is a thief. Tho born and bred in a vicarage, at 49 she has blotted her life's copybook by betraying her trust, removing articles of value from those she has so faithfully attempted to serve."

Avis' two hands were being seized, pressed feverishly between soft flabby palms. "Lies, lies," Miss Trimble was hissing; "but lies with a deliberate purpose. Surely a clever American girl understood."

"Who, I ask you, put new life into Erica? Coaxed her to read books, to find interest in the birds, the flowers? But for me, let me tell you, she would be as I found her—crushed like a worm under a hobnailed boot. But I had rescued Erica, don't you see? Therefore I had to go. Not decently, not amicably. Erica and I could then have remained friends. No, I must be blackened and besmirched in Erica's eyes, shamed, broken, thrust deep into the mire——"

"Do please read your note," Avis begged desperately. "You may want to send a reply."

"A fool, too, mark you," Miss Trimble rushed on. "A poor witless imbecile, who having stolen pearls knows no better than to hide them in her room! There, you perceive, lies the flaw. Unrealized at first, I was too numbstruck, too overwhelmed. What was my word against hers? My life in ruins—who would employ me, offer me a chance to earn a stipend for my miserable keep? So—I acted foolishly. I'd forgotten Saturn, don't you see?"

Saturn? That had torn it. This woman, Agatha Trimble, was bats.

"Saturn in the Fourth House," Miss Trimble nodded, her rings biting deep into her victim's flesh. "Small wonder that evil was afoot. All but lifeless, on this couch, I drew my chart toward me—and saw. Then I knew why my pulse was still beating. Venus, Goddess of Love, had intervened. If I die, what will become of Erica? The bird with the broken pinion, you know . . . Yes, for her sake, hers alone, I had been saved. And then, in a flash, I saw the way."

"The way?" Avis faltered faintly, and Miss Trimble's head nodded again.

"Just so, Miss Marriott. Pressure of course must be used—by some one undaunted, not afraid. Here, tho, was the point; I, only I, the discredited, was holding the power in these two hands!"

Aquiver and tearing the seal of her note, she began to read. Small croons of satisfaction escaped her, but abruptly her complacency fell away. "Oscar Moravian?" she was frowning.

"So," she intoned, "Why did I not guess? That is the idea. Ah, well, we shall see. Much may happen before Aggie is cast aside like an old shoe."

Avis couldn't let this pass. "I can't conceive what you mean, Miss Trimble, but you've no right to say things like this. Miss Erica has been most horribly worried about you—"

"Indeed? Really too kind."

Pity was fast altering to exasperation. Avis noticed the wide straw hat just beside the lamp. Some longish metallic object protruded from under the brim—was it a big flashlight the owner was fingering? And face up, on a blotting pad, a square envelope rested, flowingly addressed in violet ink. Not to Erica. The name leaping at her was Miss Bolles.

"Thank you very much," Miss Trimble said, "for your great thoughtfulness. Some one, you say, is waiting? Gentlemen dislike waiting. Thank you, goodnight."

Even as Avis fell into the black passage, the woman was putting on her hat.

Breathless, Avis scrambled into the car.

"Talk of wedding guests and ancient mariners," she gasped. "Have you ever been welcomed like the flowers in May and two jumps later walloped with a wet towel? You might have warned me this patient of yours is just plain nuts."

"What's this?" Bruce demanded, and then when he had heard: "Humph, jealous. What can you expect? Knows, poor devil, it's quite on the cards that Erica will promptly transfer her sentimental attachment to you. Trimble exhibits a typical case of frustration."

"Yes, but why take it as read, I was meeting a man?"

The inference, he said dryly, was highly natural. "She didn't put a name to him, I suppose?"

"No, but I can guess who she thought it was. Robin Grier."

"O! Yes, quite. Personable lad, Grier. You find him so, do you?"

"I do." On the off-chance she made it cheerfully emphatic. "He's so quick on the uptake, you never have to draw a map to make him understand. He's touchy, of course. According to Olive, he suffers from a permanent grouch from having, in his opinion, been sent to the wrong kind of school; but I say, he's had a rotten deal straight thru. After all, to have taken that amount of punishment at his age, only to find his best girl giving him the air. . . ."

"Isn't your friend Olive a thought feline?" Bruce asked.

"Olive? N-no. Why," Avis demanded, "talk about Olive? It's this Trimble creature I'm interested in. There was one item I left out when I was spilling things back at Bracken, and it just may be a pretty big item at that. Has any one told you how a few hours before the historic raid on your noble Aggie's mattress Aggie herself had been on the phone, arranging for the family lawyer to come round?"

"Is this a fact or assumption?"

"Olive says it's true. Maud got wise, called off the appointment. Now, then, doesn't it look suspiciously like stopping Erica from making a will in Aggie's favor? I suppose,"—dubiously—"Erica is free to will her money to please herself?"

"I haven't the foggiest idea," Bruce declared stiffly.

"Biff! Well, if you ask me it's high time some one took the trouble to find out. When I think how horribly certain I was it would be Erica I'd see huddled stone-dead at the bottom of that stair. . . . What's biting you?"

"Wait here," Bruce muttered.

She saw him cross the wide somber spaces to the far side of the square, pass the town hall, and vanish into a passage entrance leading into the second of three compact old Georgian houses. Geoffrey Treadgold's office? Mr. Treadgold was Jill's lawyer, too.

Pauline Palmer to Be Married Today in Mother's Apartment

BY JUDITH CASS

THE marriage today of a member of one of Chicago's oldest and most prominent families, Miss Pauline Palmer, and Lt. Col. Arthur MacDougal Wood of the army air forces will draw a small but fashionable circle of relatives and close friends to the apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. Potter Palmer, for the ceremony at 4:30 p. m. and a small reception following. The Rev. Herbert E. Prince of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, will officiate.

The ceremony will be read in the drawing room before some large windows across from the entrance. The improvised altar will be banked with white chrysanthemums and tall candelabra bearing lighted tapers. The pretty, slender bride will be escorted by her brother, Lt. Comdr. Gordon Palmer of the naval reserve. Her other brother, Potter Palmer III., also a naval reserve officer, will send his good wishes from the Pacific, where he is on duty.

Something old in the bride's costume will be the antique family heirloom lace with which her gown is trimmed. Altho the bride will have only two attendants, her sister, Mrs. Oakleigh L. Thorne and their former sister-in-law, Mrs. Movius Palmer, Col. Wood, who is on terminal leave, will have 17 close friends serving as ushers. His best man will be his brother, Lt. Col. Robert M. Wood. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood of Highland Park.

After a wedding trip, Col. Wood and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Engagement News

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newberry Taylor of Miami Beach, Fla., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eunice Cornell, to Lt. E. Morgan Stanley of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stelle Stanley of Los Angeles, Cal. The wedding will take place Dec. 5 in the garden of the Taylor home.

Miss Taylor, who has been active in Red Cross work in Chicago, Washington, D. C., and Miami Beach, was named for one of her aunts, a daughter of Ezra Cornell, founder of Cornell university. Lt. Stanley, who has served overseas for 20 months, attended the University of Southern California. He and his bride will live in Los Angeles.

At a cocktail party recently Mr. and Mrs. Erwin O. Freund of Ellis av. announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Lt. Eliot I. Snider of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snider of Boston, Mass. The wedding will take place Dec. 19 in the Freunds' home. Lt. Snider and his bride will live in Boston, near his post at Hingham field. Miss Freund attended Sarah Lawrence college, and her fiance was graduated from Harvard university.

On the Calendar

The giant 45 foot Christmas tree to be erected in the Walnut room of Marshall Field & Co. will be decked with tinsel and lights at a tree trimming party from 6 to 9 p. m. tomorrow, with members of the Community and War Fund's women's special gifts division as senior hostesses. When the last ornament has been hung, there will be a buffet supper and dance for more than 300 service men, who will have young volunteer U. S. O. workers as their partners. Mrs. Otto Madlener and Mrs. Philip D. Block Jr. are in charge of arrangements for the party. They are co-chairmen of the division, which has reached 94 per cent of its $330,000 goal in the current campaign.

The Arts club will be crowded tomorrow night at its first evening program of the season, a dinner at 7, followed by the first Chicago appearance of Ellabelle Davis, Negro singer, who has come from New York.

Today's Events

The guests whom President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university and Mrs. Snyder have invited to luncheon and the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game today in Dyche stadium are looking forward to meeting Maj. Arthur [One Man Army] Wermuth and his wife, who will be with the Snyders. Some of the others in the Snyders' box will be the Rawleigh Warners, the Louis Wares, the Walter Dill Scotts, Mrs. Burt J. Denman, and Max Hurd.

The first of the series of North Shore fortnightly dancing parties will be held tonight in the Michigan Shores club.

The Knollwood club will hold a Thanksgiving dinner-dance in the club at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Christmas fair which the Cordon club has been holding this week in its headquarters will end today. Refreshments will be served from the French booth.

Board members of the Third Presbyterian church will give a tea for the benefit of Presbyterian hospital's Thanksgiving offering committee tomorrow in the church. Mrs. Robert H. Thompson will be in charge, with Mrs. David W. Graham, Mrs. Ernest E. Irons, and Mrs. Alvyn R. Hickman, whose husband is pastor of the church, among those assisting.

The board members of the Chicago Monticello college club will give a tea tomorrow in honor of the college's new president, Dr. John Ripley Young, and Mrs. Young. More than 500 Chicago alumnae of the college have received invitations to the party, to be held from 3 to 5 p. m. in the Orrington hotel in Evanston.

Thru the Looking Glass

Poise is an integral part of charm, but what constitutes poise? Webster's definition gives the story neatly: "State of being balanced; the bearing or carriage of the body or head; suspension of motion due to exact balance." So now, how is your poise rating and what can you do to improve it?

Starting with the first statement, you can achieve greater poise by striving for inner balance. And that means that we try to develop a sense of calm which sets things in their proper place, and helps us to think clearly and analyze situations in their true light. All of us have problems, big and small, and not letting them upset us is a lot easier said than done, but at least we can try to achieve a working degree of emotional equam.

"The bearing or carriage of the body or head" is something any one can figure out—a nice, easy carriage which makes you look like somebody worthwhile. There's nothing more charming than an easy, proud carriage which reflects a sense of repose and quietude without lassitude. Just pulling one's self up tall and straight helps immeasurably to increase a sense of well being and assurance. Try it the next time you feel yourself getting jittery about entering a room at a social function and see how well it works.

For the third quotient, try to weed out twittery, unbecoming mannerisms. Twirling a lock of hair, pulling at the lips, tapping a foot nervously, fiddling with rings or bracelets, all these are distracting to ourselves and those about us. Catch your own pet fidget and start immediately to curb it. With that out of the way you can concentrate on the subject at hand and those about you.

To sum it up, if you have poise, you've acquired the knack of forgetting about yourself and have time to be interested in others, the most attractive quality any woman can have.

Birthday Party for Maternity Center Is Gay

BY NANNETTE McCARTHY

The luxury and gayety of the '90s was revived in all its elegance last night in the Casino club, where the South Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity Center celebrated the 50th anniversary of the center it supports. The compact oval room of the club was crowded to the walls with well-wishers who came to celebrate the Jubilee and to see the newest in fashions as well as the distinctive styles of their grandmothers.

Mrs. Leo A. Mason in gay '90s costume at party.

Vying for honors with the Victorian chapeaux were Mrs. Ben Aaron's mound of shaded red roses, Mrs. Henry Hafer's graceful cartwheel of white ostrich feathers, and the matching white fur hat and muff worn by Mrs. Gene Thompson, who arrived at the party with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Otte.

The party, from which the committee headed by Mrs. Otto L. Mast hopes to profit more than $10,000, went off with only one flaw. Much to the consternation of Mrs. D. Cameron Baker, program chairman, only a small number of the thick gold and black programs arrived in time for the fashion show. The remainder drifted in, a few at a time, as they came off the presses during the evening.

Among those who jostled for a view of the models were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hoskins, whose pretty daughters, Yvonne and Jamee Clare, took their turn on the runway; Miss Sue Ellen Loucks, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herendeen, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cahill, Paul Galvin and his fiancée, Miss Virginia Critchfield; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Callahan, Mrs. Frank J. Lewis, Mrs. Ralph Bengston, Mrs. William E. Thoresen, and Mrs. Bernard Brennan. Mrs. Joseph J. Cavanagh is president of the league.

Mrs. Hobart was the first president of the auxiliary and is the only woman who has been both its president and president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Tomorrow at the opening of the convention in the Stevens hotel, she will receive special recognition for her 25 years of service.

Others of Mrs. Gilbert's dinner guests will be Mrs. Robert Walbridge, Petersborough, N. H.; Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, Douglas, Ariz.; Mrs. Frederick C. Williams and Mrs. Laurence H. Smith, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn, Versailles, Ky.; Mrs. William H. Biester Jr., Drexel Hill, Pa.; Mrs. Albin C. Carlson, Willmar, Minn.; Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, Chicago; Mrs. O. W. Hahn, Lincoln, Neb.; Mrs. James Morris, Bismarck, N. D.; Mrs. William Corwith, Rockville Center, N. Y.; Mrs. Louis J. Lemstra, Clinton, Ind.; Mrs. Mark W. Murrill, Scituate, Mass., and Mrs. Alfred J. Mathebat, Alameda, Cal.

Mrs. Gilbert also entertained a party of auxiliary leaders in the Ambassador last night.

The auxiliary's honorary society, the 8 et 40, corresponding to the Legion's 40 and 8, will hold its 24th marche nationale today in the Gothic room of the Continental hotel, with Mrs. Madeleine Swanner, chapeau nationale, presiding. Chairman on arrangements is Mrs. Rose Erickson, chapeau of the Cook county salon.

ON THE RECORD

By Claudia Cassidy

Ormandy's Beethoven Ninth, Beecham's Schubert, Garbousova, Lawrence, and Kreisler

Beethoven: Symphony No. 9, D minor, played by the Philadelphia orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, with Stella Roman, soprano; Enid Szantho, contralto; Frederick Jagel, tenor; Nicola Moscona, bass, and the Westminster choir, John Finley Williamson, conductor [Columbia M-591; eight 12 inch records]. The Choral Symphony is larger than life size, usually defeating most attempts to cope with it in concert, so recording it comes under the head of herculean effort. Mr. Ormandy has done a creditable tho not a completely convincing job. His orchestra dwells on the tonal richness of the score but sometimes misses its ineffable utterance. In the "Ode to Joy," the choir comes off best, doing some brilliant work, tho at the end there is a dryness that verges on barking. Mr. Jagel's solo is a human effort to sound super-human. On the whole, this album does not match Columbia's older recording by Felix Weingartner and the Vienna Philharmonic.

Schubert: Symphony No. 6, C major, played by the London Philharmonic orchestra, Thomas Beecham conducting [Victor M-1014; four 12 inch records]. Technically, this is not up to the average Beecham recording, usually so much gold on the shelf. Engineering often is inferior, with bad breaks on some record sides, notably side four where the scherzo is choked off, and while much of the music emerges in full radiance, you often feel that a cloud has come up in a performance intended to be light, as fresh air, and as crisply bracing. The final side holds far more typical Beecham, a silkily smooth recording of the rondo from Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik."

Cello Melodies: Played by Raya Garbousova, with Erich Ifor Kahn at the piano [Victor M-1017; three 12 inch records]. The Russian girl who plays with the Chicago Symphony next week has lavished her smooth rich tone on an album of velvety music that may turn cloying in spots if your taste revolts against some of the selections. It holds Saint-Saëns' "The Swan," a vivid arrangement of Albeniz's "Malaguena," Feuermann's version of Chopin's A minor waltz, the largo from K. P. E. Bach's Concerto in A major, Wagner's Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger," and the "Evening Star," from "Tannhauser."

Marjorie Lawrence Sings for the Boys: An album of songs sung overseas by the Australian soprano, recorded with male quartet and orchestra conducted by Sylvan Shulman [Columbia M-579; three 12 inch records]. Courageous Miss Lawrence, whose fight against infantile paralysis won the world's admiration, possesses a big dramatic soprano more suited to Handel and Wagner than to these songs, in which she sounds rather like an opera hater's idea of an opera singer. Anyway, the songs are "Waltzing Matilda," "The Lord's Prayer," "Annie Laurie," "Danny Boy," "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier," and a Maori Farewell that suggests "Aloha" from Hollywood and ends with "Auld Lang Syne."

These Are My Favorites: Fritz Kreisler's popular album is available again [Victor M-910; three 12 inch records]. With Charles O'Connell and the Victor Symphony orchestra he plays his newer versions of "Caprice Viennois," "Tambourin Chinois," "Liebesfreud," "Liebesleid," "La Gitana," and "Schön Rosmarin." In other words, your private recital of favorite encores.

'Carmen' Sung Competently by Lily Djanel

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

When in doubt put on "Carmen," seems to be the profitable but not exactly resourceful policy of the Chicago Opera management. Last night in the Civic Opera house the Bizet-Merimée heroine went thru her familiar routine for the third time in a brief six weeks, and the mixture was as before, save for a new Carmen in the person of Lily Djanel. An avid public, which appears only tacitly and reluctantly to admit the existence of other operas, again was on hand in capacity numbers.

Miss Djanel's Carmen is no stranger to Chicago, having been on exhibition during both the 1943 and '44 seasons of the Metropolitan opera here. It has undergone no important alterations since then, except that Miss Djanel's vocal amplitude has not increased with time.

Her Carmen is not fashioned on the voluptuous, insinuating model. It is direct and angular, a near vixen with a streak of tomboyishness not far beneath the surface. She is as purposeful in getting her man as that other Carmen, surnamed Jones, tho with nothing like that primal, animalistic urge. She paws Don José, and if neckties had been the vogue in old Seville, she is the type who would have gone about straightening them. You felt like warning Don that she would be more apt to turn out to be a shrew than a hussy.

Since this was not a conception based on glamor, it followed logically if there was no considerable vocal allure. Miss Djanel traced the vocal line competently, sometimes with sufficient emphasis to obtain an audience reaction, but her singing could hardly be said to have illuminated any dark corners.

The remainder of the cast was that of previous performances, with Giovanni Martinelli in his better vocal condition, Elvira Helal in what appears unfortunately to be her permanent vocal estate, and Richard Bonelli, like many of his colleagues, none too happy as the Toreador, but turning in a workmanlike job anyhow.

Colorful Scarf Can Double as a Gay Blouse

BY REA SEEGER

Colorful scarves, bigger than any seen in years, double as neck scarves and fake blouses, depending upon how they're tied and draped. For example, a square yard of material can be folded in a triangle and tied snugly around the waist, with the ends tied around the neck. There are a good half dozen ways of using this size scarf as a blouse, even cutting cleverly and making such a huge square into a sleeveless blouse with under arm seams. Such a scarf-blouse is worn under or over the skirt belt.

Printed scarves with hand blocked designs are sensational in color, contrast, and design. There's a stunning chessman scarf with a border of light brown, the chessmen in vivid scarlet and white. Another white all silk scarf has vivid prints of soldiers in dress regimentals, another of fashionable ladies out of Godey's lady book fashion magazine of a decade ago. Huge florals in exotic colorings are splashed over lush background colors, such as tea green, salmon pink, mauve, old blue, and so on. Because the flowers are so large [some a good six inches across], you can imagine the effect of bright colors.

Spangled scarves are inevitable follow ups to spangled dresses, blouses, and hats. You'll find long, narrow scarves of silk [expensive] and others of rayon [much less costly] in a fascinating array of colors, tints, and patterns, with all sorts of background contrasts. Formalized designs, all-over baroque scrolls, Dali-like abstracts, precise brocadelike florals, and all kinds of stripes, dots, and checks make a most complete display. These are the newest scarves for immediate wear as well as Christmas gift items, to be purchased now while the assortments are so complete.

For further information call Rea Seeger, Superior 0200.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 16—Loretta Young gets the lead opposite David Niven in "The Perfect Marriage." David, who as a major in the British army has been giving his all to the war for the last six years, will return here in December to begin work. After Hal Wallis gets this picture underway, he'll fly to England to start on "Whenever I Remember," a fantasy, which will include a mixed British and American cast. Betsy Drake, presently an understudy for Broadway's "Therese," will have the feminine lead. . . . Richard Greene, also returning from the English army, is hotter than hot for the lead in "Forever Amber"—script of which is still trying to find its way out of the Eric Johnston office. . . . Joe Pasternak finally got "A Date with Judy." Jane Powell will play the title role, while Margaret O'Brien and Elizabeth Taylor will have top spots.

Notes About the Women

Doris Duke doesn't think she'll ever marry again. The poor thing—she's so disillusioned. . . . Dorothy Spreckels, San Francisco society matron, is here looking for a career. She told one of our biggest agents the other day, "I'm 21. I've got a beautiful home in Burlingame, and now I'm ready to be an actress." That's being qualified. . . . I believe it will be either Ann Sheridan or Maria Montez in "Serenade." . . . Seeing Fritz Lang, James Cain, and Walter Wanger lunching together, I had to snoop and discover they were talking of doing a picture about the lost mines of Arizona. Incidentally, that trio would make a good picture combination.

The Hollywood Corn Is Ripe

A prominent actor working with Edward Arnold and Van Johnson in "No Leave, No Love," said, "The picture's so corny that when I go home at night I feel like shucking myself." . . . Eugene O'Neill has told friends that the cycle of plays on which he's been working for the last five years will be ready for production in 1946. . . . With the title "The Dream of Home" changed to "Until the End of Time," sounds like some weary GI waiting shipment to the States might have suggested it. . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald is now resting in Florida, but will return to New York soon to start rehearsals for "Portrait in Black," Leland Hayward's new play. . . . Thomas Gomez, who was with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne before coming to Hollywood, has a six months' leave of absence from Universal so he can return to New York and do "Hamlet" with Maurice Evans. . . . Helen Seamon has left Twentieth Century for a comedy role in "Of All People," now in rehearsal for Broadway. . . . Kate Smith may also join the footlight trek. She's wanted for a musical, "Just a Little Fond Affection," whose title was taken from a song she's helped popularize.

All That Goes Up — — —

Gene Raymond, who served several years in the air forces without a spill, toppled off the roof of his house while lopping off limbs and wound up with a fractured rib. . . . Angela Lansbury's mother, Monya McGill, has landed a housekeeper's role in "Black Beauty." . . . Richard Barthelmess will hit town next week. His wife, still decorating, will do the Ronald Colman place at San Ysidro. . . . Ginny Simms will take her radio show east for a month. . . . Now it's Joan Newton and Huntington Hartford. . . . Arnold McGuire's 14 year old daughter, Susan, won five first prizes out of eight at the Pickwick stable horse show. Papa's so proud he's purring. . . . Carl Carmer, who's been out here conferring with Walt Disney on a series of pictures dealing with American folklore, returns to New York this week. . . . Pine & Thomas have just signed Byron Barr for the lead in "Big Town."

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Every so often we deserve a treat to supplement our budget meals, and one of the best treats is a well cooked, tender, juicy steak. With the lowered point values on beef and the possibility of earning extra red points by turning in used fats, a steak feast probably could be arranged.

For a broiled beefsteak dinner, choose rib steaks, club steaks, porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, or rump from good quality beef.

Rib steaks are cut from the beef rib section which is next to the short loin. Club steaks are the smallest cuts from the short loin, taken from next to the T-bone. Porterhouse cuts usually are obtained from the larger end of the short loin toward the ribs and T-bone cuts next to them. Sirloin steaks are cut toward the round end from the large end of the loin, and may be recognized by their bones—wedge, round, double, and pin bones. The wedge bone and round bone sirloin steaks are the largest; the double bone probably is the choicest. In buying beef, learn to recognize best quality by its good marbling, firm, velvety appearing, lean, and fineness of grain. The bones in young beef are porous and red, and in older animals, white and flinty.

Depending upon the likes and dislikes of the diners, a steak should be from one to two inches thick, altho many a steak fancier insists that he has had steaks at least three inches thick! A steak which is cut too thin will be done thruout before the exterior is sufficiently browned.

The best temperature for broiling steaks is about 350 degrees. To cook the steak properly, pre-heat the broiler. Cut the fat edges of meat. Place the steak on a rack so that the top of the meat is 3 to 3½ inches under the heat. Broil for half the required time, season the cooked side with salt and pepper, turn once, and finish broiling. Stick fork into the fat [not the lean] to turn the steak. The time allowed will depend upon the thickness of the cut, the surface area, the broiling temperature, and the degree of doneness desired. A one-inch thick steak will require about 12 to 14 minutes to be medium-well done; a two inch steak will take about 45 to 50 minutes to reach the medium-well done stage.

Some persons prefer steaks with a brown, crisp exterior. This can be accomplished by searing the steak at 450 degrees until the desired color is obtained and then broiled at 350 degrees until done. This method is especially good for thin steaks.

If your ration points cannot be stretched for the period, and your taste for steak cannot go unheeded, serve a Swiss steak prepared as follows:

Swiss Steak, Mushroom Gravy

[Serves six]

- 2½ pounds round steak [1½ inches thick]
- ⅓ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 medium sized onion
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup

Sprinkle meat with ⅓ cup flour and seasonings. Pound this into the meat with a meat hammer or edge of a thick plate. Turn the meat and repeat on other side. Brown on both sides in hot drippings in a heavy skillet, browning onion at the same time. Add mushroom soup. Cover lightly and cook slowly on top of stove for one hour. If necessary, add a little water during cooking.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"What can I do with the juice left from canned peaches and sweet pickles?"

If you haven't a ham on which to use the peach juice for basting, combine it with cranberry juice or grape juice for a tasty and colorful fruit drink. Or use it to dilute fruit salad dressing. The juice from the sweet pickles is wonderful for stretching your homemade French dressing.

"How is pumpkin canned?"

Remove seeds, cut pumpkin into small pieces, and steam or bake until tender. Scoop pulp from shell and mix with water to the consistency of pie filling. Pack into clean, hot jars and add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Seal and process at 10 pounds pressure 105 minutes for quarts, 85 minutes for pints.

"What size turkey should I buy to serve 10 persons?"

Estimate the weight by the number of persons you are going to serve, allowing a pound per person. An 18 pound turkey wouldn't be too large. This would give 10 generous servings and allow for turkey sandwiches later.

"How are artichokes cooked and eaten?"

Wash, remove discolored outer leaves, and cut off stem about ½ inch below base of leaves. Cook in boiling salted water about 25 minutes, or until tender. Turn artichokes upside down to drain. Serve whole or in half with individual dishes of melted butter. To eat pull off a leaf, dip large end in butter, and eat fleshy part, discarding the rest. When all leaves have been removed, cut hairy growth or "choke" from the bottom and eat heart with a fork.

Learn What to Expect of the Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It so happens that I've done, at one time or another, practically everything there is to do around a house and in connection with raising a family. Usually I've found that, provided you use your head, of course, and are willing to expend untold energy and limitless patience, you can get by. But that doesn't always turn the trick.

I remember the first time I was left with a furnace fire. I was told to check the fire in 15 minutes. And of course, since I was taking care of the baby and he had a cold, I forgot it.

When I did go down I closed the lower front door of the furnace and then went around in back and closed the pipe damper. Then I thought I'd see how the fire looked, so I opened the big front firing door, to be met by a sheet of flame and gas which leaped toward me. Fortunately I reacted quickly and was not burned. The next time I knew what to expect and always opened the back draught before looking in.

Like a furnace fire and a lot of other everyday things, children can be managed best if you know at least something of what to expect of them, as we were saying recently.

If you have set your heart too relentlessly on making your child conform to certain standards, you are bound to be disappointed while he is going thru the emotional trials and physical changes of the in-between and adolescent ages.

You have to go with the tide quite a lot where children are concerned—meaning that you cannot go against nature, buck the current, and make any real headway.

The thing to do, then, is to get a general idea of what natural urges a child has at different ages, how he responds to his environment [meaning both persons and material things], and then channel his energy in the way best for him.

Boy Is Told: Girl May Like the Next Date

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

The best laid plans of mice and men often turn out in such a way that both halves of a dating duet wish they'd stayed home with a good book instead of stepping out to share the evening. A fellow may have big plans for a supersmooth evening complete with name band and bright lights, only to discover that his date can't bear the band they've set out to hear. Or a girl may be full of exciting ideas for the big Thanksgiving dance until she finds out that her invited date doesn't like to dance.

ON THE SOLID side

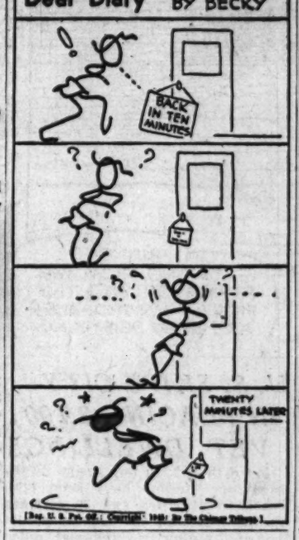
Here's a letter from a shy guy who has trouble along these lines:

"I've only been out on two or three dates in all my 18 years. The first of these was for our senior prom last June. I went with a girl who had been my classmate all four years, tho I hadn't any particular interest in her until then. The prom wasn't a success for us, thru no fault of mine or hers. I made a movie date with her later, but on the night she had a bad cold. She went anyway, principally because I sounded so disappointed when she wanted to break the date. That evening wasn't exactly gala either. —she felt that miserable. I haven't had the courage to ask her out since, tho I'd like to. I'm sure we could have fun together if all the circumstances were right. . . ."

Then the next time you ask her out [and do ask her out again!] make sure that everything will be right. Offer her the choice of several ways to fill the evening—movies, a play, bowling, dancing, roller skating—to make sure she'll enjoy what you've planned. Pick her up on time [you might even bring her a flower for her hair to let her know this is a very special evening] and set out to have fun.

But if, even with all these preparations, the evening isn't something to dream about, maybe it's the girl. Perhaps she isn't the exciting young thing you imagined. So, if that's the case, why not wander out and pick another rose, bud?

Dear Diary BY BECKY



Colwell Explains Ban on Fraternity Pledging in College of U. of C.

The action of the University of Chicago in prohibiting fraternities pledging in the college of the university after March, 1947, was clarified yesterday by President Ernest C. Colwell. He explained that the college is a separate and complete four year unit, with its own social and guidance program, which begins and ends two years earlier than those of other colleges in the United States.

"Because of the younger age of the students in the college, fraternities have not been allowed to pledge any one in the first two years," President Colwell said. "They have, therefore, been operating in the last two years of the college. This created a difficult situation which tended to impair the unity of the college."

It has been left to the fraternities to decide whether they will move up into the divisions of the university. The divisions, constituting a three year program above the college, are the humanities, and the social, biological, and physical sciences. The action against pledging was taken on the recommendation of a faculty committee and a university ruling board. Of the university's total enrollment of 6,000, about 2,200 students are in the college.

Mrs. Georgia N., Indianapolis, Ind.—I've learned never to try to remove dry paint spatters from a window glass with a razor. I soften the paint first with a little turpentine—or rub paint with just plain water if I have no turpentine. Then when the paint has softened I can use the razor without scratching the glass.

Mrs. Ethel H., Chicago—To play safe when pressing woolen skirts, jackets, etc., I always place a dampened pressing cloth over the garment, press down with iron lightly, and then stop before the steam stops rising!

LANDLORDS OPEN REVOLT AGAINST OPA 'STUPIDITY'

File Petitions to Evict 95 Tenants

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16 [Special]—An organized landlords' revolt against onerous OPA rent rules was launched here today. Apartment house owners filed 95 eviction petitions to back up their threats to withdraw more than 21,000 housing units from the rental market.

Owners said they would let their property remain unoccupied or permit returning service men to use it rent free rather than continue to try to operate under "stupid" OPA rent control.

Among the 95 renters in petitions seeking their eviction was Ben C. Koepke, head of the local OPA rent control office. He rents a $35 a month single unit in one of several apartment buildings owned by Atty. Fred I. Richman, who filed the eviction petitions. The attorney appeared personally at Koepke's office to deliver the petitions.

Would Rent to Vets

The eviction applications was the result of a meeting of 1,500 landlords Thursday at which owners of 21,474 units voted their willingness to withdraw their property from the market. Eighty-five per cent asserted, however, that they would rent to war veterans.

At a meeting last night property owners swarmed to the platform to sign a telegram addressed by Edward C. Peach of Hollywood, a landlord, to President Truman, which read:

"I am withdrawing from the rental market one or more housing units in protest until such time as OPA's vicious abuse of property owners is stopped. Implore you to order housecleaning in OPA rent department in Washington."

"Anti-OPA League"

At another meeting a plan to found an "Anti-OPA league" was approved by 700 members of the Apartment Hotel and Motel Association of California. A speaker before that group asserted price stabilization "could have been a godsend," but was "operated stupidly by stupid people."

Property owners have expressed the following charges against the OPA:

There is no uniform method of determining rent ceilings. Most OPA departments are headed by nonresident persons unfamiliar with local conditions. Landlords who appeal to the courts from OPA rent rulings "subsequently are subjected to persecution." OPA employes have represented themselves as FBI agents and incited tenants against landlords.

Given Wrong Information

"Many of our members have sought information from the OPA only to learn later that they were given the wrong information, as a result of which they have been charged with violating OPA regulations and called into court," declared David F. Culver, president of the Apartment Association of Los Angeles County, Inc.

Richman cited his troubles as an example of conditions that have caused owners to decide to remove their property from the market. He gave the following account:

At the time of the rent freeze in March, 1942, dwelling units in his buildings rented for $30 to $55 a month, depending on size. His help cost then was $210 a month, plus four apartments to house the help. Now his help cost is $535 a month, plus the four free apartments.

Earnings Decrease

Tho he formerly spent $700 a month on repairs and now spends virtually nothing because of material shortages, earnings on his buildings have shrunk from $1,800 to $1,500 a month. Added to this loss is an increase in income taxes from 37 to 56 per cent, due partly to the fact that the $700 he once spent for repairs is now counted as earnings.

Moreover, under OPA control his housing units are not used to capacity. In one of his buildings he has 180 persons but could house 290. In another he has 124 but could provide housing to 190.

BURGLARS GET JEWELRY AND CASH

Jewelry valued at $90 and $50 were taken from his home by burglars, Thomas Cook of 3303 Maypole av. reported yesterday.

U. S. SKIPS CITY IN PLACING 2,700 VET DWELLINGS

More than 2,700 temporary dwellings for veterans have been allocated to 24 cities and 30 colleges in the midwest, the federal public housing authority's regional office here annouced yesterday. Chicago, which has been talking for three months about the need of housing for 32,000 returned service men and their families, was not on the list.

The reason, it was explained by Orvil R. Olmstead, FPHA regional director, is that Chicago neglected to make an application.

Mayor Kelly said that while the city has not applied for the FHPA units, he has been assured by FHPA officials in Washington that Chicago can have 2,000 when it takes the necessary action. Kelly made that disclosure after the council finance committee acted favorably on his request for authorization of a one million dollar loan to the Chicago housing authority to provide a working fund for veterans' housing.

Vet Loses Papers Needed to Get Army Discharge

While Sgt. Bill Berns of 562 West End av., New York City, paused in Chicago yesterday en route from Tokyo to Fort Dix, N. J., to get his discharge his baggage kit, containing his army records, without which he cannot be released, disappeared. Sgt. Berns said he checked the kit at the Union station yesterday morning and that it could not be located last night.

BURNED IN BED FIRE

Roy Gleason, 58, of 6208 Princeton av., was severely burned on the right arm and side last night when he set fire to his bed while smoking. Other tenants carried him out before firemen arrived.

HIT-RUN DRIVER WHO HURT COP IS FINED $149

Walter Michonski, 30, of 2604 Carmen av., a machinist, yesterday was fined a total of $149 on charges of leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, defective brakes, and lack of a safety sticker.

Michonski's car struck and injured William Dwyer, a policeman, on Oct. 8, 1944, at Western and Fullerton avs. A passing motorist took Michonski's license number when the car failed to halt after the accident.

Since then the case has been continued six times before five judges as Dwyer was unable to appear in court until yesterday because of his injuries. In addition to the fines, Judge Joseph B. Hermes, at the hearing in Safety court, suspended Michonski's driving privileges for 90 days.

Gunmen, 17, Takes $3,600 Mink Coat from Autoist

A gunman about 17 years old boarded the automobile of Benjamin Schiller, 1635 Touhy av., as he stopped for a red light at Lawrence av. and Sheridan rd. last night, and forced Schiller to drive to Touhy and Crawford avs., Lincolnwood. There he stole a mink coat valued at $3,600 which Schiller, a furrier at 190 N. State st., was delivering to a customer; a diamond ring worth $500; a $65 wristwatch, and $6. He escaped in a car driven by companions who had followed him.

LAUNDRY DRIVER ROBBED

Charles Wruck of 7729 Halsted st., a laundry truck driver, reported to police yesterday that two Negroes robbed him of $11.75 in a hallway.

PATENT MEDICINE STOLEN

Fifty bottles of a patent medicine and miscellaneous papers were stolen from his automobile at Western and Armitage avs. yesterday, Thomas Shanahan, 517 W. 57th st., reported to police.

PORTUGAL CUTS ILLITERACY

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 16 [Reuters]—Illiteracy in Portugal has decreased from 62 per cent in 1930 to 49 per cent in 1940, the Portuguese National Institute of Statistics said today

DR. IRA FRANK LEAVES $603,670; TAXES $141,419

Two state inheritance tax returns were filed yesterday with County Clerk J. B. Morse in Lake county. The first was the estate of Dr. Ira Frank, 1705 S. Sheridan rd., Highland Park, nose and throat specialist who died in January. The return showed a gross estate of $603,670. Federal estate tax was $131,010 with $10,409 claimed due as state inheritance tax. The net estate amounted to $434,264. A major share of the estate will go to the widow, Sylvia, and a son, Ira Jr.

The second return was the estate of Mrs. Fannie S. Freiler of Ravinia. The gross estate amounted to $135,783. Federal estate tax was set at $12,095 and the state inheritance tax claimed due was $1,161. The estate was left to three grandchildren.

An inheritance tax order was entered by Judge Perry L. Persons on the estate of Van Wagenen Alling, 450 N. Washington rd., Lake Forest, who died May, 1944. A gross estate of $667,842 was subject to a federal tax of $84,993 and a state tax of $26,306.

N. U. TRIES TO UPSET NOTRE DAME TODAY

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 16—There was at least one among the 76,000 spectators at Yankee stadium last Saturday who didn't think Army's Glenn Davis was one of the greatest running half backs in recent gridiron history. . . . We refer to Slip Madigan, former football coach at St. Mary's and Iowa, who saw his first Army-Notre Dame game since he played 60 minutes at center for the Irish in the 1919 game at West Point. . . . "I'll take Buddy Young, Illinois' great sprinter of 1944, over Davis any day," Madigan reflected. . . . "In fact I would give two Davises for one Young," he added. . . . "Young performed his heroics behind an ordinary line," Slip averred, "whereas Davis deploys behind one of the greatest walls of flesh football has known." . . . Madigan gave the Army line major credit for the showing of Davis and Doc Blanchard, the Cadet's All-America full back. . . . He pointed out that both men frequently were 10 yards beyond the line of scrimmage before a Notre Dame tackler could reach them. . . . "That's the result of expert blocking," Madigan observed. . . . Notre Dame's line, by the way, isn't a pushover. . . . Navy tried 31 running plays against the Irish at Cleveland and got past the scrimmage line only 15 times. . . . Hockey writers still are at the rinkside at Chicago Stadium, altho it was announced two years ago that a press box would be built at the west end of the building in a location comparable to the organ console on the east end. . . . The writers say they hope steel for the proposed "improvement" never is fabricated. . . .

The National Football league disqualified Special Delivery Jones of the Chicago Bears because he had signed to play with the Cleveland club of the All-America conference in 1946. . . . Wonder why it doesn't take similar action against other men operating with various N. L. teams who also will play in the All-America next season. . . . There's a minor feud simmering between the Buffalo and Chicago clubs of the new league over Elroy Hirsch. . . . Buffalo thought it had completed a deal with the former Badger back field ace who finally signed with Chicago. . . . Northwestern university's annual football dinner, which was discontinued during the war, will be resumed Saturday evening, Dec. 8, at the Continental hotel. . . . A feature of the program will be the election of a player to represent the university for THE TRIBUNE'S Most Valuable Big Ten Player award. . . . Bo McMillin, this department's candidate for the coach-of-the-year, succumbs to superstition once in a while. . . . He has worn the same pair of socks with the same pair of brown and white golf shoes during all of Indiana's practices this fall. . . . Vincent Flaherty, sports columnist for the Los Angeles Examiner, who recently transferred there from the Washington Times-Herald, is the highest paid sports writer on the Pacific coast.

Jazbo's Journal

Last week a large sign on the marquee of the Grand theater here read: "Over 21." Two ladies, each with a couple of children in tow, rounded the corner of 8th on their way to the first afternoon performance. "O, look!" cried one of the ladies, pointing to the sign, "they won't let the children into this one. What in the world will we do with them while we're at the show?"

I read today that an alarm clock which sounds a few strains of the reveille when it goes off will shortly be placed on the market. Its manufacturers could hardly be said to be making a bid for the ex-GI trade, could they?

I see by the papers where a carrier built for the United States navy can't go thru the Panama canal. Forgot the password or something, do you reckon?

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16—Michigan's Wolverines and Purdue's Boilermakers, who have fingers in the Big Nine pennant pie and serious about going thru to the finish without being bounced out, will get together here tomorrow before 60,000.

The expectation is that neither the Wolverines nor Boilermakers will be in the least way backward about putting up a brisk battle in the interests of good clean fun and the chance to remain a title contender.

Each has won three and lost one in conference competition, Michigan's trimming being a 13 to 7 treatment from Indiana, which remains unspanked, and Purdue's setback representing what happened when Cecil Isbell took his boys to see Northwestern's Wildcats, 26 to 14.

Face Speedy Attack

The Wolverines are quite proud of their sturdy defense, which has yielded only 20 points in conference competition, but can hardly be regarded as smug about what they will do in the case of the Boilermakers. The Michigans are fully conscious that they are going to be tossed up in front of a versatile, powerful and speedy attack that involves a few of the Big Nine's choicest ball carriers, catchers, and pitchers.

For instance, Ed Cody, Purdue fullback, is the conference tops with an average gain of 96.4 yards per game. Bob De Moss, the freshie quarter, leads the league in passing with 99.2 yards per game. In total yardage Left Half Back Bill Canfield leads with 474 yards, Cody following with 453. Canfield has caught 14 passes for 208 yards, has punted for an average of 38.9 yards, and leads with six touchdowns. Cody has scored four.

Michigan Has Injuries, Too.

The Boilermakers claim to be slightly out of kilter because of bruises, but in this respect have nothing on their opponents of tomorrow. It is thought that Quarter Back Howard Yerges will be in better trim than last week against Navy. Left Half Back Walter Teninga had to leave the Navy game because of a shoulder injury and just how much he will be worth as a ball handler tomorrow is questionable. Because of Teninga's condition it may be necessary to shift Jack Weisenburger back to left half.

Another pre-game annoyance for the Wolverines is the fact that with Center Harold Watts transferred by the navy, the position will be in the hands of a 17 year old freshman, Tony Momsen of Toledo, O. The remainder of the line will be the same that Navy ripped apart by 33 to 7 last week.

Tomorrow's game will be the eleventh meeting between the two schools and the record speaks against Purdue's chances. The Wolverines were winners in eight of the previous games.

STRIKE!

And you'll see plenty of tenpin variety when 144 of the nation's leading bowlers compete for the fifth annual national individual match game championship on the alleys of the Auditorium Service Men's Center from Saturday, Dec. 1, thru Sunday, Dec. 9. Prices:

PREP SEMI-FINALS TODAY; TILDEN VS. FENGER, SCHURZ VS. AUSTIN

BY DAVID CONDON

The battle for the 1945 City league prep football championship will be narrowed to two contenders after today's semi-final contests, which pit Tilden Tech against Fenger in Soldiers' field and Schurz against Austin in Hanson park.

The victors today will clash for the league crown in Soldiers' field next Saturday, with the winner representing the public school circuit in the annual Kelly bowl game against the Catholic league champion Dec. 1.

Tilden, coached by Chuck Harvey, won the league championship in 1941 and 1942, and last season was co-champion with Austin, which played the Blue Devils to a 7 to 7 tie in the semi-finals but lost a place in the championship game when the flip of a coin favored Tilden.

Fenger Seeks Revenge

More than 10,000 are expected in Soldiers' field as Fenger attempts to atone for a 16 to 14 defeat dealt by Tilden in the 1944 championship game. Last year, Tilden beat the Titans in the title battle after Fenger had registered nine straight triumphs.

Hanson park, 2400 N. Central av., is expected to be filled to capacity for the game between high scoring Schurz, and Austin, 14 to 13 victor over Harrison in a play-off game to determine the west section representative in the semi-finals. Schurz, off its season record, is rated a slight favorite.

Tilden Tries for 7th in Row

Bill Gay and Mike Swistowicz, two veterans who paced Tilden to its 1944 triumphs, have scored 126 of Tilden's 183 points in six victories. Gay has made 11 touchdowns and 10 points after touchdowns, while Swistowicz has made eight touchdowns and two extra points.

Austin turned in the best defensive record during the regular season, holding the oposition to 13 points in six games. Thirteen additional points were yielded in the play-off game against Harrison. Austin's offense, paced by Rocco Mavigliano, who tallied 36 points in six games, totaled 111 points during the regular season.

Johnny Miller, credited with 68 points, and Dick Redman, with 54, are responsible for Schurz holding the best scoring record in the league. The Schurz eleven, which breezed thru the north section, scored 273 points in six games. It also was second best on defense, limiting opponents to 18.

Fenger, which won five games and tied Parker in repeating as south section champion, tallied 124 points while the opposition was scoring only 24. Dom Sukowicz paced the Titans' offense, coming thru with seven touchdowns and four extra points. Lineups:

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—If you can believe what you read in the newspapers, and now and then we find them reliable, Illinois nas more than an outside chance to crowd Ohio State out of the Big Nine conference title race in the 34th game of their series tomorrow.

The good people of Ohio apparently are concerned about the prediction because 76,000 will be banked around the gridiron when the old rivals square off at 2 o'clock. It's homecoming at Ohio State and the between halves ceremonies will be in memory of the 603 graduates and students of the university who lost their lives in World War II.

Illinois Defense Is Strong

Illini backers pin their hopes on a defense that held Notre Dame to 7 points, Indiana to 6, and Michigan to a lone first down for three quarters. Illinois is stronger than ever in this department since Ray Eliot moved up Joe Saban, brother of Indiana's Mike and Lou, to first string full back. Saban weighs only 170 pounds, but he's rough on ball carriers who pierce Illinois' first line of defense.

Line backers run in the Saban family. All-Star football fans never saw a greater demonstration than Lou Saban put on in the game against the Bears in Dyche stadium in 1944.

With due respect to Illinois' stout defense, the boys who frequent the betting temples want to know how you can win football games by stopping the other fellow. You've got to go somewhere yourself and in the latter department Ohio State undeniably excels.

Cline Is a Traveler

One of the ball carriers in the Buckeye back field—Ollie Cline—has gained almost as much yardage as the whole Illinois team. Cline has pranced thru opponents for 752 yards while the total for the squad from Urbana is 1,027.

Illinois must do something about Ohio's freshman left half back, Doc Daugherty, if it winds up in the victory column tomorrow. Against Minnesota three weeks ago, which was the last time we saw him, he looked like one of the best runners and passers to come into the conference this season.

Nineteen members of the Illinois squad arrived by plane this afternoon in time for a workout in the stadium. The rest of the group traveled by train.

Remember That Delayed Kick

The last two visits of the Illini to Columbus developed important news stories. Two years ago the teams were tied when they left the field, but an official who had detected a rules violation by Illinois on the final play called back the players after some had reached the dressing room. Ohio State capitalized on the break when Johnny Stungis place kicked a goal for a 29 to 26 victory.

It was at Columbus in 1941 that Bob Zuppke decided to resign as head coach of the Illini, a position in which he had served with distinction for 28 years.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 16—The University of Pittsburgh Panthers, in the throes of a touchdown famine since their football game with Notre Dame four weeks ago, may satisfy their appetites to some extent tomorrow against Indiana university. However, if they do it won't be because Coach Alvin [Bo] McMillin and the unbeaten Hoosier lads suddenly have developed a streak of generosity.

As the Hoosier coach put it this evening, "We just can't afford to let up a minute until our game with Purdue a week from tomorrow is over. I only hope the squad remains as fit mentally and physically as it was last Saturday against Minnesota." That was very fit, indeed, as the 49 to 0 score against the Gophers would indicate.

Hoosiers Too Good?

Of course, McMillin sees the possibility, of a defeat by the T conscious Panthers. On the other hand, Coach Clark Shaughnessy of Pitt doesn't think the Indianans have much to worry about, confessing that he hasn't men tall enough to cope with the two big Hoosier ends, Ted Kluszewski and Bob Ravensberg, each of whom is over the 6 foot 2 mark. He also knows that both of the Indiana half backs, George Taliaferro and Mel Groomes, are excellent passers, as is Ben Raimondi, the quarter back.

Pitt does have a scoring threat, however, in Billy Wolff, a freshman tosser who will be back in the line-up tomorrow. Judging from the way the Indiana line, led by Center John Cannady and backed up by Full Back Pete Pihos, has been acting of late, the Panthers probably won't waste much time with a ground attack and Wolff may connect to end the scoreless streak started by Temple and continued on successive week-ends by Purdue and Ohio State.

Not So Impressive

Pitt lost its opener to Illinois, 23 to 6, then whipped West Virginia 20 to 0 and Bucknell, 38 to 0. Michigan State started the Panthers on the downgrade with a 12 to 7 defeat, after which Notre Dame beat them, 39 to 9; Temple, 6 to 0; Purdue, 28 to 0; and Ohio State, 14 to 0.

Altho many of the crowd of 13,534, who paid $5,047, thought the Mexican's closing spurt had turned the tide, Larkin's superior boxing during the first half enabled him to pile up a wide margin.

BY WILFRID SMITH

Northwestern's youthful Wildcats, the Cinderella team of the Western conference, meet Notre Dame this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Dyche stadium in the outstanding nonconference game of the midwestern 1945 football season. Forty-nine thousand five hundred fans will jam the arena to see the 25th battle of the rivalry.

All seats have been sold and the demand for them has been so unusual that twice the number would have been needed to meet all requests. Northwestern, which upset Purdue in its last home appearance, has combined with a fine Irish team to become an irresistible magnet for Chicago sports fans.

Chance for Wildcats

Northwestern-Notre Dame not only is a fixture on the sports calendar but it also is the last outstanding game of the collegiate season in this area. The Wildcats, who followed their victory over Purdue with a close battle with Ohio State and last week's conquest of Wisconsin, must be conceded a chance.

Notre Dame's superior squad strength is a particular advantage and bears close relation to the setup when Northwestern met Ohio State and was beaten by a field goal, 16 to 14, in the last minute and 28 seconds of the game.

Notre Dame was defeated 48 to 0 last Saturday in New York by Army but the reputation of the defending national champions is such that this has been completely discounted. Army is in a collegiate class by itself as witness its victory over Michigan when the Wolverines played their best game of the year.

Balance May Decide It

Notre Dame is the almost unanimous choice to defeat Northwestern, which will have six freshmen in its starting lineup, but the Irish generally have been the public favorites in this annual game principally because they hold 19 victories to three for Northwestern. Two games ended in ties. Northwestern has scored in each of its games this fall and hopes to continue and also keep Notre Dame within reasonable distance.

Northwestern generally has lacked drive in the second half because of shortage of reserves. Three of the Wildcats' four touchdowns against Purdue came in the first half and their two touchdowns in the Ohio State game were made in the first 10 minutes.

Plays Despite Cut in Chin

Notre Dame will start the same eleven players who opened against Army. Elmer Angsman has regained his starting right half back spot which he forfeited temporarily after the Illinois contest. Phil Colella is a fixture at left half while Frank Ruggerio, despite a deep cut in his chin received two week ago, is the first choice at full back. Frank Dancewicz, quarter back, outstanding field general and forward passer, is the Irish leader.

With Bob McKinley ready to start at left half back, Northwestern will have the same quartet of backs that opened against Purdue. McKinley has been bothered by an injured ankle which kept him out of the Ohio State contest but he played against Wisconsin. Don Whan, freshman from Rock Island, Ill., has held the full back spot for the last three games altho he lacks weight.

Farrar Also Capable Passer

Dick Conners has been the most consistent of the Wildcat backs for two years and, like Capt. Max Morris at end, is a holdover letter man. Conners also is Northwestern's kicker. Jim Farrar, freshman quarter back, is the team's best passer.

NAMES IRISH SQUAD

Coach Hugh Devore sent the Notre Dame squad thru a light drill yesterday in South Bend and then named a traveling squad of 36, who came into Chicago last evening to spend the night. The squad:

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16—Wisconsin's undermanned football squad, which has had a peck of trouble in trying to lick a multitude of jinxes this season, tomorrow will meet Navy, one of the top drawer elevens of the year, in a determined effort to conquer another old Badger hex.

There will be some 35,000 on hand in Baltimore's Municipal stadium at 1 p. m. Chicago time, to watch Wisconsin seek its first victory over an eastern team, the Badgers having failed in previous Atlantic seaboard meetings with Yale, Columbia, and Pennsylvania.

Navy Has Good Record

And who would Harry Stuhldreher's lads be meeting? Just a well-equipped, versatile Navy ensemble which shut out its first three opponents—Villanova, Duke, and Penn State—before suffering its next four foes, Georgia Tech, Penn, Notre Dame, and Michigan—to register an aggregate of only 26 points. While all of these fancy business was being set down in the books, the Badgers were wrestling out a pair of ties with Great Lakes and Illinois, winning from Marquette and Iowa, and yielding to Purdue, Ohio State, and Northwestern.

Comdr. Oscar E. [Swede] Hagberg, the Middies' coach, who was the subject a few weeks ago of several national stories indicating unhappiness on his squad, will send out a team which apparently found itself in last week's 33 to 7 rout of a fine Michigan team.

This navy detail will include two of the country's sharpest end men, Capt. Dick Duden and Leon Bramlett. It will reveal again Clyde Scott, the Middies' leading scorer and ground gainer.

Bruce Smith at Quarter

At quarter back tomorrow will be Bruce Smith, a product of Miami, Fla., Senior High school, who, after striving for three years to win a starting berth, finally achieved it last Saturday against Michigan.

Navy coaches said that Bob Hoernschemeyer, the passing artist from Indiana, who has come down with one of those baseball pitchers' arm ailments, will not play tomorrow. They added two other interesting points. One involves the former Notre Dame star back, Bob Kelly, whose activity will be limited by a kidney injury incurred against Michigan. The other concerns Joe Bartos of Lorain, O., who made 60 yards in 10 forays against Michigan, including a 24 yard center crash for a touchdown.

The Wisconsin team, after a 24 hour ride from Madison, via Chicago, enjoyed a sightseeing tour of Washington. The Washington stopover included a call on President Truman at the White House.

'WE HOPE TO SINK YOUR NAVY, MR. PRESIDENT!'

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Cardinals Await Battle with Rams Tomorrow

The Chicago Bears headed toward Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon happy in the knowledge that a familiar figure will be sitting on their bench when they meet the Redskins in Griffith stadium there tomorrow afternoon. Comdr. George Halas, owner-coach of the club, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning and, after a brief rest, spent the afternoon in the Bears' headquarters.

Halas, who expects to receive his discharge at Great Lakes within a week, after three years of service in the navy, will leave for the capital this afternoon, about the same time the Bears will be going thru final preparations on Georgetown university's field for the game with the eastern division leaders. The Bears will attempt to break a two game losing streak in Griffith stadium, and they think Halas' presence on the bench will help change their fortunes.

Hopes for Repeat Performance

Halas departed for duty in the Pacific after watching a Bear team crush the Redskins, 41 to 18, for the league championship while on a 10 day leave in December, 1943, and hopes the Bears will turn in a similiar performance tomorrow afternoon as a welcoming gesture. Halas spent 20 months in the Southwest Pacific and Pacific ocean areas. He reported for active duty on Nov. 1, 1942.

Halas served with the 7th Fleet for 13 months before he joined Adm. Nimitz's staff as welfare and recreation officer. He recently was awarded the bronze star for meritorious service. He previously had received a commendation ribbon for establishing recreational areas in New Guinea, the Philippines, and the Admiralty islands.

Cards Hosts to Rams

Meanwhile, the Chicago Cardinals wound up preparations for tomorrow's battle in Comiskey park with the lively Cleveland Rams, who hope to turn this one into their seventh victory of the season. Game time is 2 p. m.

TOP FIELD OF 7 RACES TODAY IN PIMLICO SPECIAL

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16 [Special]—Seven of the top horses in competition this year will race tomorrow over a mile and three-sixteenths in the $25,000 Pimlico Special. Selected by invitation only, it will be winner take all with the added incentive of the 1945 champion adding its name to the impressive list of eight winners, last year's being Twilight Tear.

Five 3 year olds will pit their youth against more matured and experienced racers. The entrants will be the Calumet farm favorites, Pot o'Luck, winner of $144,225, and Armed, which has been first or second in 13 of 14 outings this year; Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian, Preakness champion; Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, winner of $232,425 in three racing seasons; Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's First Fiddle, which has collected $385,850 in prizes; W. L. Brann's Gallorette, and Mrs. Elizabeth's Graham's War Date, both outstanding 3 year old fillies.

LOS ANGELES MAY GET LOUIS-CONN FIGHT IN JUNE

New York, Nov. 16 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said today he was giving serious consideration to a request from the west coast that he hold the Joe Louis-Billy Conn heavyweight title fight next June in the Los Angeles Coliseum, mammoth outdoor arena in which the 1932 Olympic games were held.

He made the announcement after conferring with Leonard J. Roach, supervisor of the County of Los Angeles and president of the Coliseum association, who was sent here to try to bag the big boxing plum.

"The Coliseum will seat 140,000 for a fight, they tell me, and they are offering it to me for 10 per cent of the gross," Mike said. "I've told them I think that a little too high and I would like to get it lowered. Roach is flying back to Los Angeles Monday to explain the situation."

St. John's Academy Host Today to Kelvyn Park

Delafield, Wis., Nov. 16 [Special]—The St. John's Military academy football team will close its season tomorrow in a game here with Kelvyn Park High school of Chicago.

BOMAR, WILMAN OPEN BOWLING SERIES TODAY

Buddy Bomar, individual match game bowling champion, and Joe Wilman, runner-up for the title last year, will open a 28 game home and home series at 2:30 this afternoon in Dearborn-Jackson recreation. The loop establishment is Wilman's home alleys. The second of four seven-game blocks will be bowled there at 8:30 tonight and the third and fourth blocks will be rolled at the same hours tomorrow at Matty Faetz's recreation, 5961 N. Ridge av.

Both are Classic leaguers. Bomar anchors the Daumit White Shirt Colognes, and Wilman is captain of the Monarch Beers. No title is involved in the match starting today, but it will be a preview of the national all-star championship meet to be held Dec. 1 thru Dec. 9 in the Auditorium, when Bomar must defend his title against 144 of the nation's better bowlers.

Hold Big Ten Harrier Meet This Morning

Wisconsin's cross country team will seek to defend its Western conference championship in the annual meet over a four mile course in Washington park this morning starting at 11 o'clock. The Badgers, however, are expected to receive stiff opposition from Purdue, which captured the title in 1943 and took fourth place last season.

The Boilermakers are led by Ashley Hawk, who won individual titles in the five meets Purdue participated in this year. Illinois, Ohio State, Indiana and Chicago also will compete for the championship.

The Badgers have won four meets this season, defeating Purdue, Minnesota, Illinois and Wheaton college. The Badger squad includes Ray Zobel, Virgil Schrack, Bob Peters, Knight Webster, Ed Leverentz, Bill Burtch and Alvin Jensen. Chicago's representatives will be John Bokman, John Adams, Kenneth Mulcahy and Frank Mangin.

Ohio State's harriers will be Martin Hirz, Thor Thoroddsson, Ed Nass, Jim Smith, Norman Oebker, Steve Orfanedes and Eugene Wiley.

Preps Start Basket Play; Palatine Wins

The Northwest conference last night moved ahead of other high school leagues by opening its 1945-'46 prep basketball race with a four game schedule. Three quintets had easy times in winning their opening assignments. Palatine beat Grant, 34 to 18, in Grant; Bensenville triumphed over Northbrook, 34 to 19, in Bensenville, and Ela scored a 35 to 18 triumph over Antioch on the Ela floor.

In an outstanding practice game last night New Trier opened its season campaign by defeating Niles, 67 to 42, in Winnetka. Lineups:

90,000 WILL SEE U. C. L. A. MEET ST. MARY'S TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16 (AP)—The tricky Gaels from St. Mary's college, apparently bound for a New Year's day bowl game, will meet the U. C. L. A. Bruins tomorrow in their last and biggest hurdle of the regular season. A crowd of more than 90,000, the season's largest, is expected to jam the Coliseum.

A victory will make the Gaels the first undefeated, untied team in St. Mary's history. In winning seven straight games the Gaels have run up 262 points to 19.

Led by their great Hawaiian half back, Herman Wedemeyer, the Gaels whipped the Southern California Trojans, 26 to 0, here two weeks ago and rule 13 point favorites over the Bruins, who have an experienced, fast team that has won four of six games.

Byrd Sets Pace in Golf Tournament in Mobile

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 16 (AP)—Sam Byrd of Detroit, former major league baseball player, swept into a one stroke lead at the half way point in Mobile's $10,000 Azalea open golf tournament today. He scored sub par rounds of 69 and 70 for 139. Denny Shute of Akron, O., added a 71 to his first round 69 for 140. Behind Shute with 141s were Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Stan Horne of Montreal, Canada.

OKLAHOMA BIDS FOR 3D TITLE IN ROW IN BIG SIX

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 16 (AP)—The University of Missouri Tigers, in top physical condition for the first time this season, will try to break the Oklahoma Sooners' monopoly on the Big Six football title here tomorrow in a homecoming game expected to attract more than 20,000.

Both teams are undefeated and untied in conference play. Oklahoma has four victories, and a success tomorrow would give the Sooners their third straight crown. Should Missouri win, the Tigers will have only a weak University of Kansas eleven to dispose of, Nov. 24, to take the crown.

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 16—The victory starved University of Iowa Hawkeyes approach their annual football game with Minnesota's Gophers tomorrow not knowing just what to expect. It is possible that they would have expected their seventh straight defeat of the season if it hadn't been for that Monday ruckus in Minneapolis this week.

When reports first came out of Minneapolis revealing that 11 Gopher regulars and other players had gone on strike there was some thought here, perhaps, that Minnesota couldn't possibly reorganize in time to give the Hawkeyes a licking. Then came word that some of the Gophers don't read very well—that interpreters had misled them in translating announcements on the bulletin board. They simply had become confused, as boys sometimes do. Moreover, they had not been called loafers by their coach, as had been reported.

May Show Critics

Well, then, would the Gophers come to Iowa City bent on proving the inaccuracies of the strike reports? Would the innocent absentees return to action, full of determination to show the world they want to play football and play hard according to the best Minnesota traditions? Would they choose the poor Hawkeyes to prove that the 49 to 0 licking, worst in history, they absorbed last Saturday at the hands of Indiana, was a horrible, freakish miracle involving radioactive elements, or something, and not Gopher indolence or sulks?

During the middle of the week the alleged insurrection was given a pretty good hush-hush, with all the earlier absentees returning to the drill field and the ensemble again bearing some resemblance to just one big happy family.

Expect 15,000 Turnout

With this midweek happiness front rampant it was said the Iowa partisans became fearful that the Hawkeyes would become caught in some crushing resurgence. However, Iowa hopes blossomed anew when it was announced last night that Coach Bernie Bierman had not named his entire squad for the Iowa trip, and that omissions included some of the Monday absentee regulars.

Regardless of the Minnesota personnel, and mental attitude toward the work at hand, it will be Dad's day, and a crowd of 15,000 will see the 39th game between teams representing the two great state universities. It is not expected that the Gophers will pull themselves together sufficiently to equal the score of the game last year, also played here. The count that afternoon was 46 to 0.

If the Gophers play as they did against Indiana in taking that 49 to 0 thumping, there is a chance the Hawkeyes will achieve their 10th victory in history over the lads from Mineapolis, who'll be seeking No. 30.

Postpone Rededication

Plans for ceremonies rededicating Iowa stadium in honor of Nile Kinnick and 13 other former Hawkeye athletes killed in World War II, have been postponed, Dr. Karl Leib, chairman of the athletic committee, said today. The program had been tentatively arranged for tomorrow but the committee in charge found it impossible to complete its plans. The student body, in a campus poll last week, voted to rename the field Nile Kinnick stadium, in honor of the Hawkeye All-American back in 1939, killed in a plane crash at sea in June, 1943.

IT'S SOLDIERS AGAINST SAILORS AT GREAT LAKES

The Great Lakes Bluejackets will seek their fifth straight victory when they meet the Fort Warren, Wyo., Bronocs at the naval training center today. It will be the Bluejackets' first home game since Oct. 6, and approximately 20,000 sailors will see the contest.

The Bluejacket back field will be composed of the same quartet which started the last four games. It includes Grover Klemmer and Frank Aschenbrenner, half backs; George Terlep, quarter back, and Marion Motley, full back. Aschenbrenner is the leading Bluejacket scorer with a season total of 10 touchdowns, three of them being against Michigan State last Saturday. Lineups:

HAWKS, WINGS SEEK TO BREAK TIE TOMORROW

The Chicago Blackhawks, having rested yesterday after Thursday's 5 to 2 defeat in Detroit, will work out in the Chicago Stadium today in preparation for the Detroit Red Wings' return contest in the Stadium tomorrow night. The Red Wings and the Hawks now are tied for second place in the National Hockey league, one game behind the Montreal Canadiens.

Don Grosso, who was injured last Saturday in the Hawks' game against Toronto, may be on the sidelines for at least another week, physicians reported, and he will miss the Hawks' three home contests against the Wings, Canadiens, and New York Rangers.

Max Bentley, who scored one of the Hawks' goals against the Red Wings, is tied for the league lead with Toe Blake of Montreal and Bill Cowley of Boston. Each has 11 points.

All tickets for tomorrow's game with Detroit, as well as the Thanksgiving home encounter with New York and the Montreal game a week from tomorrow, have been sold, Blackhawk officials announced last night.

WRIGHT JUNIOR COLLEGE BEATS MORGAN PARK

Wright Junior college completed its football season by defeating Morgan Park Junior college, 19 to 7, yesterday on the latter's field. It gave Wright a record of four victories in five games.

Chuck Quanstrum started the scoring with a 9 yard run in the second period. Bob Cripe added the next touchdown on a 1 yard plunge, and the final tally in the fourth quarter was on a quarter back sneak from the 1 yard line by Bob Griffing.

Bill Richardson caught a 20 yard pass to score Morgan Park's only touchdown, in the second quarter. Lineups:

Moore, Released by Cubs, May Get Job in Minors

The Cubs yesterday released Johnny Moore, 42, outfielder, who played the last six seasons with Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast league but who was recalled early last September to serve as a pinch hitter. In six times at bat for the Cubs Moore made one hit. He may manage a minor league club, possibly in the Cub farm system.

CONSCRIPTION PLAN OPPOSED BY METHODISTS

Ask for World Control of Atomic Power

Resolutions opposing peace time military training and urging international control of atomic power were adopted yesterday by the commission on world peace of the Methodist church at its annual meeting in the auditorium of the Publishing house, 740 Rush st. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York City presided.

"We strongly oppose the adoption by the United States of compulsory peace time military training before it has undertaken, thru international agreement and action, to make such training unnecessary" the resolution read in part.

The commission urged international control of nuclear energy and clearing up of international misunderstandings, particularly with Russia.

"War between these two great nations is unthinkable," the resolution read. "It would mean mutual annihilation. This is not a time for angry, irresponsible speech and writing; it is a time for patient, persistent effort to find the answer to crucial international problems. Friendship between the United States and Russia would hold the promise of security and peace for all mankind."

The Rev. Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church, Evanston, and Dr. Georgia Harkness of Garrett Biblical institute are the local members of the 23 comprising the commission on world peace.

MOTHER AND SISTER.

BLIZEK—Pfc. William R. Blizek, 406th inf., A. T. co., killed in action Nov. 17, 1944, in Germany.
He shall not grow old, as we that are left grow old.
Age shall not weary him nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun
And in the morning we will remember him.
RUTH AND EILLY, MOM, DAD, AND BOB.

BROWN—Raymond F. Brown. In cherished memory of our beloved husband and father, who passed away so suddenly, two years ago today.
LOVING WIFE LORETTA AND DAUGHTERS.

CAIRO—Corp. Raymond A. Cairo, U. S. A. In loving memory of our son and brother, who lost his life in action in Germany, one year ago today.
We do not know what pain he bore.
We did not see him die,
We only know he passed away
And could not say good-by.
MOTHER, DAD, SISTERS, BROTHERS.

DI GRAZIA — Louis Di Grazia Sr., 1938.
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
DEVOTED WIFE AND CHILDREN.

FITZGERALD—Fred H. Fitzgerald, Nov. 17, 1942. "In our hearts your memory will linger forever."
FLORENCE, GORDON, MARILYN, CAROLYN.

HACKERT—Pfc. Donald J. Hackert, U. S. A. In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who was killed one year ago today in Homich, Germany.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of the grief that is born in silence
For the one we loved so well.
LOVING MOM, DAD, AND DOROTHY.

STOCKS SURGE THRU '37 PEAK TO 14 YEAR TOP

All Groups Benefit; Volume Heavy

New York, Nov. 16 (AP)—Stock prices pushed thru the 1937 bull market high today and touched a peak since 1931 as leaders in virtually all departments rose 1 to 4 points. Demand alternated among rails, steels, gold mines, utilities, motors, and coppers.

Dealings were lively from the start, altho trading slowed after midday and extreme gains were reduced in many cases, but widespread advances of substantial size were maintained. Transfers of 2,340,000 shares compared with 2,010,000 yesterday and were among the largest this year.

Standard Gas Issues Soar

Southern Pacific's dividend boost of yesterday again aided carriers, tho it added only ⅛ to its big gain. Standard Gas company preferreds soared 3½ to 7 points on news that the company would seek to alter its amended reorganization plan. Motors were stimulated by the office of price administration grant of an "interim" price increase for Ford trucks and the unexpectedly pleasing Chrysler earnings.

Pressure of idle cash, inflation ideas, and optimistic dividend prospects again influenced buying. Profits were reduced in the final hour, however, because of opinions that the upswing may have been a bit too rapid.

The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 0.3 to 75.4, a top since April 14, 1931. Both the rail and industrial divisions were at highs for nearly nine years. Of 1,012 issues traded in the broad market 539 advanced and 239 declined.

RAIL LOANS EXTEND RISE

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Rail bonds today extended their advance fractions to about 2 points in an active market. The move began yesterday when Southern Pacific boosted its dividend. A few carriers reacted, but the Associated Press average rose 0.1 to a new 1945 high of 102.1. Foreign loans generally advanced. Utilities were off on average and corporates were about unchanged. Volume totaled $8,700,000 face value against $7,780,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO RISE IS BROAD

Prices made a broad rise in expanded turnover of 56,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 133 issues traded, 80 advanced against 29 declines. More active were Consolidated Biscuit, up 2⅝ to a 1945 peak of 23; Central and South West Utilities, up 1 to a peak of 9¼; Middle West corporation, up ½, and Chicago corporation, unchanged.

UNION REJECTS G. M. OFFER FOR 10 PCT. PAY HIKE

New York, Nov. 16—(AP)—The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, [CIO] today rejected a 10 per cent wage increase for 30,000 of its members offered by General Motors corporation. After charging industry with holding up manufacture of radios, washing machines and refrigerators, it demanded a congressional investigation. The union asked for a flat $2 a day increase which a spokesman said approximated a 30 per cent rise in pay.

Hallicrafters Purchases Shelbyville, Ind., Plant

Hallicrafters company said yesterday it has purchased the plant of Shelby Shops, Inc., Shelbyville, Ind., to produce part of Hallicrafters' radio cabinet requirements. Russ Owens, chief engineer of Philco corporation's cabinet division for five years, has been named plant manager. It will be a wholly owned subsidiary known as Shelby Woodcrafters, Inc. Albert G. Apple of Apple-Cole company was broker in the sale.

SPRING STANDARD GAS SURPRISE PLAN: PAY DEBENTURES IN CASH

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16 (AP)—A surprise disclosure that Standard Gas and Electric company, Chicago, plans to amend its reorganization plan, now before a Wilmington, Del., United States District court for enforcement, was made today before the securities and exchange commission by George W. Knourek, vice president and treasurer. He had been called to testify on proxy material to be mailed to stockholders in connection with a Dec. 5 meeting to elect a board of directors.

Knourek explained that directors yesterday decided to ask the SEC to join the company in requesting a delay in final court action on the plan, on the basis of current studies of the company on market prices and conditions.

Retirement of 59 million dollars of notes and debentures was proposed thru use of cash and proceeds from the sale of common stock holdings of Pacific Gas and Electric company and Oklahoma Gas and Electric company. Retirement had been planned thru cash and distribution of certain securities.

Standard proposed to borrow not to exceed 25 millions from banks on a short term basis and sell its interests in Mountain States Power and California Oregon Power companies. These proceeds plus those from sale from stock either in Wisconsin Public Service corporation or Louisville Gas and Electric company would pay off the bank loans.

Grain Board Tightens Curb on Rye Trade

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade late yesterday limited trading in December and May rye contracts. No new commitments in the two deliveries will be permitted in excess of 250,000 bushels and operators whose holdings now exceed that figure may not buy more. The new regulations are effective today.

Altho no statement was issued by the directors it was understood that an investigation by the business conduct committee failed to disclose any violation of the old rule limiting holdings of rye to 700,000 bushels.

Increase Oats Margin

Action was taken to reduce speculation in oats futures. Initial margin requirements were raised 4 cents to 10 cents a bushel and maintenance and spreading margins were doubled to 6 cents a bushel.

Rye futures prices turned upward in late dealings yesterday. Active deliveries closed 1¼ to 2¼ cents a bushel higher after an early break had carried December off 1⅞ cents to $1.78¼. The option rallied to $1.82¼ with the finish near the top. Short covering was responsible for the strength, brokers said.

Speculative interest in other grains decreased, but the rally in rye led to commission house buying of oats which closed ⅜ to ¾ higher. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅛ higher. Barley was dull and ⅝ to ⅞ lower. Corn futures held at the ceilings.

Rye Supplies Scarce

Brokers said cash rye is becoming increasingly difficult to buy and elevator interests are asking 12 to 24 cents a bushel over the December contract price for the small amount available. Choice distilling kinds were quoted about $2.06 when the market closed, or 17 cents above the ceiling price on No. 2 red and hard winter cash wheat.

Trading in wheat and corn futures was light, with all corn options and December wheat at ceiling prices.

NEWSPRINT LACK PREDICTED THRU HALF NEXT YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—A prediction that the newsprint shortage will extend thru the first half of 1946 was made today by J. Hale Steinman, director of the printing and publishing division of the civilian production administration.

Telling a house committee investigating newsprint that supplies will average only about 90 per cent of pre-war usage until July 1, he indicated his office is undecided whether to recommend the end of rationing Dec. 31, as proposed by the CPA's publishers' advisory committee. Rep. Brown [R., O.] commented that controls would cease automatically Dec. 31 unless congress extends the second war powers act.

Three witnesses opposed the end of newsprint rationing before July on the basis such action would create confusion and a "scramble" for paper, with serious hardship to the west coast. They were Gene Robb of the Hearst newspapers, William L. Daley, representing the National Editorial association of weekly newspapers, and Robert L. Smith, vice president of Los Angeles News.

COLD STORAGE PORK FALLS TO NEW LOW MARK

Pork supplies in cold storage on Nov. 1, totaling 164,535,000 pounds were the lowest on record, the department of agriculture said yesterday. Meat supplies were the smallest in three years and 48 million pounds below the average of 1940-'44.

Holdings of beef amounted to 179,294,000 pounds, the smallest since April but the largest for a Nov. 1 since 1919. Lamb and mutton holdings at 13,297,000 pounds were the largest since August, and lard supplies, 48,532,000 pounds, were the smallest since April and the smallest for the date since 1937.

SEC HEAD TELLS HEAVY FOREIGN CAPITAL NEEDS

Smaller U. S. Firms to Require Funds

Capital requirements of foreign countries and of small business in the United States will be heavy, but large domestic companies will need little outside financing, Ganson Purcell, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, said yesterday. He spoke at the annual convention of the National Association of Securities Commissioners in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

"Not only are the countries in need of reconstruction seeking loans in our markets and from our government," he said, "but many foreign governments and private enterprises abroad which have plans for industrial expansion look to the United States' markets for their best and virtually only source of credit."

Suggests SEC Registration

Discussing the possibility that American investors will be reluctant to buy foreign issues because of the large number of defaults after World War I., Purcell suggested that new foreign securities be registered with the SEC in the same manner as domestic offerings to provide the American buyer an increased measure of protection.

He said information obtained in recent years indicated small business "experiences extreme difficulty" in obtaining loan financing at reasonable rates. It also suggested the virtual impossibility of obtaining equity financing as a result of the organization of the investment banking machinery.

The final solution may be government subsidies, he said, but further research may show other ways.

Plenty of Funds Available

Appraising the capital needs of the larger companies, Purcell said: "Only with the high level of production accompanying full employment or at least approximately full utilization of our resources will there be any very substantial recourse to the capital markets. There will certainly be no dearth of available funds.

"The amount of funds which could be employed abroad in the next decade is of fantastic magnitude. We know that England has been negotiating for accommodations of 3 to 5 billion dollars; that Premier Stalin mentioned a figure of 6 billion dollars recently, and that France, the Netherlands, and a number of other European countries have actually applied for substantial amounts."

Job "Guarantee" Held Empty

China and India also look to America for financial aid, said Purcell, and total foreign demand will call for a large amount of capital from private investors, beyond the lending facilities of the Export-Import bank and the world bank to be organized.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker corporation and chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, said jobs for all should not be guaranteed because a government of "limited powers cannot fulfill so unlimited a guarantee."

Woodall Industries Adds Cleveland Plant to Group

Woodall Industries, Inc., of Detroit, Mich., yesterday announced the purchase of Industrial Fabricators, Inc., of Cleveland, O., as part of its national expansion program. Woodall recently purchased two Chicago units, Service Industries, Inc., and the Service Products company.

DEFERRING INCOME TO '46

Because of the lower withholding taxes in 1946, can I save on taxes by persuading my employer to postpone salary and bonus payments ordinarily made late in the year until after Dec. 31?—O. N.

The 1945 tax rates and exemptions apply only against income actually or constructively received during that year. Salary, commissions, or bonuses paid on and after Jan. 1 will have the benefit of more liberal exemptions from the normal tax and lower withholding tax rates. Thus there would be some saving in tax if the employer—by his own choice and not at the option of the employe—postpones until January compensation that ordinarily would be paid before the end of the current year.

If the 1946 tax rates are to apply under such circumstances, it is essential that the decision to defer payment rest entirely with the employer. If the employe "persuades" his employer to postpone payment, the collector could be expected to rule that the employe "constructively received payment" in 1945. The postponement must be without any option on the part of the employe to obtain the payment prior to Jan. 1, for if he could get it in 1945 at his own choice he would be deemed to have received it then.

Inasmuch as many employers pay year-end bonuses, a large tax saving in the aggregate for employes receiving such payments would result from deferring these rewards until January, with no option on the part of the payees to obtain them earlier.

Expand Plans for Carnegie Gary Works

Expansion of the plans for enlarging and modernizing of its Gary works, the largest steel mill in the world, was announced yesterday by Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. Included in the development will be improvements in the facilities for cold reduced sheet steel and tinplate manufacture.

Altho costs were not disclosed, Irving S. Olds, board chairman of United States Steel corporation, said some months ago that improvements to the Gary plant would cost more than 50 million dollars.

When completed the new facilities will add 232,600 tons of cold rolled steel products to the plant's capacity, bringing the over-all total to more than 1,250,000 tons annually.

Aids Service, Says Perry

J. L. Perry, president of Carnegie-Illinois, said the new facilities will enable the company to provide better service for midwestern manufacturers. Consumers of cold rolled sheets include automobile body manufacturers and producers of refrigerators, household appliances, and enamelware. The can and container manufacturers are large consumers of tinplate.

The funds to cover the costs of the new improvements come from reserves set aside by the company over several years.

Will Boost Mill's Capacity

Among the improvements that will be undertaken will be an increase in the capacity of the plant's 80 inch hot strip mill, which was completed in 1936.

Other improvements will include a 54 inch four-stand [rollers in four stands] cold reduction mill and betterments in the present 84 inch three-stand cold reduction mill.

The expanded program provides for other technical improvements. Under the original plans several blast furnaces, including two at South works, are to be rebuilt and enlarged. Work on the furnaces will be started in the next few weeks.

LABOR ADVISED TO GIVE AID TO MANAGEMENTS

In its own interest labor should give business management larger opportunity to exercise its own functions, Donaldson Brown, vice chairman of the board of General Motors corporation, said last night. He spoke to the Society for the Advancement of Management in the Continental hotel.

"There must be better understanding on the part of both management and labor that the entry of unionism in the shop should not be allowed to affect the natural and essential relations between management and factory workers," Brown said. "There must be a better understanding of the basic requirements and limitations of collective bargaining."

He said that in present union tactics there are many influences that serve to destroy the constructive results that could be attained if collective bargaining were conducted on a sound plane. Preoccupation of union officials with political considerations of collective bargaining do not serve the best interests of the workers.

SUPPLY OF HOGS FALLS; PRICES HOLD AT CEILING

Receipts of hogs at the Chicago stock yards yesterday declined 17 per cent from the preceding Friday, leaving many orders unfilled. Prices held at ceilings, $14.85 per 100 pounds for barrows and gilts, and $14.10 for packing sows and stags.

Cattle receipts shrank to 2,500, a 10 week Friday low. Steers sold steady. Cows, canners, and cutters sold weak to 25 cents lower.

Offering of sheep and lambs, at 5,000, were about average for Friday and prices were mostly steady.

AUTO. CANTEEN WILL BALLOT ON STOCK SPLITUP

Stockholders of the Automatic Canteen company will vote Dec. 4 on a proposed three for one splitup of stock. Nathaniel Leverone, chairman of the board of directors, yesterday said the plan contemplates the authorization of 500,000 shares of new $5 par common. Holders would exchange the outstanding 142,696 shares of no par common for 428,088 shares of the new stock.

WANTED

FACTORY BUILDING

Nationally known company desires to lease suitable manufacturing building of approximately 150,000 to 175,000 square feet properly located for light manufacturing in the Chicago area. Preferably one story with railroad siding and truck loading facilities. Convenient parking and accessible transportation for employees essential.

ADVISES CONVENTION DELEGATES TO LEAVE THEIR WIVES AT HOME

If convention delegates take the advice of William M. Dewey, president of the Edgewater Beach hotel, they will leave their wives at home when they come to Chicago next year. Dewey discussed the 1946 convention outlook before the American Trade association executives in annual meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

He predicted 1946 will be the "biggest convention year" in Chicago's history. Accommodations will be difficult to obtain thruout the year, he warned. Last year the city had only 405 conventions with an attendance of 269,000 persons, contrasted with 721 conventions and 1,202,000 attendance in 1939.

Six Truckers Resume Work After Walkout

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Six trucking firms which shut down last midnight in a contract negotiation dispute involving an estimated 20,000 drivers in eight midwest states resumed operations late today.

The companies signed stipulations to merge their negotiations with those being conducted in Chicago for AFL drivers in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

Gordon Conklin, president of St. Paul General Drivers, local 120, AFL, named the companies as the Wheeler Transportation company of Chicago, the Gateway City Transfer company of La Crosse, Wis., the Albrent Transfer and Storage company of Wausau, Wis., and the Red Truck line, the Lee Cartage company, and the Common Motor Express company, all of St. Paul, Minn.

Conklin said attempts of operators to break up what had originally been a 12 state area—cutting the eight states west of the Mississippi river off—precipitated the walkout.

Reject Bid to End Strike

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 16 (AP)—Striking CIO United Automobile Workers employes of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., today rejected a company proposal for negotiations to end their nine weeks' work stoppage.

Vote to End Strike

Canton, O., Nov. 16 (AP)—Striking CIO-United Steel Workers voted 554 to 130 at a mass membership meeting tonight to end a 33 day strike which made idle some 8,200 employes of four local divisions of Timken Roller Bearing company, said union officials. They did not disclose when the strikers would return to work.

People and Events

About 25 Chicago bank credit officers will attend the annual conference of the Robert Morris Associates, opening tomorrow at French Lick, Ind. Hugh M. Driscoll, vice president of the National Boulevard bank and Chicago chapter president, heads the delegation. Kenneth K. Du Vall, vice president of the City National Bank and Trust company, will be elected national president.

Directors of the Cudahy Packing company yesterday elected J. W. Christian, D. K. Sanders, and Hugo Wesin vice presidents and directors. Christian is sales manager of the branch house and car route division, Sanders heads the pork division, and Wesin heads the beef division.

Prof. J. C. Hackleman of the University of Illinois crops extension department will address the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce next Friday in the La Salle hotel.

Leonard M. Japp, president of the Special Foods company, Chicago, was elected president of the midwestern regional group of the National Potato Chip institute.

VENEZUELA TAX RISE SQUEEZES OIL PRODUCERS

Foreign Companies Pay Millions

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON

[Chicago Tribune correspondent who has just returned from a tour of Central and South America.]

Venezuela is slowly killing the goose that laid the golden egg. Its treasury is bulging with money, much of it obtained thru the development of rich oil deposits by American and British companies.

The companies complain that high land rentals, royalties, taxes, and customs duties imposed by Venzuela are making the production of petroleum too costly. Compared with costs in the supply areas, the alleged gouging tactics of the Caracas governments, past and present, are causing the oil companies much concern.

Consider Colombia Operations

Tho there is slight possibility that the companies will leave Venezuela, they are considering extending their operations to neighboring Colombia. Most of the oil leases in Venezuela do not expire until 1965.

The oil companies pay more than 250 million dollars a year in rents, royalties, taxes, wages, customs duties, and in the development of new petroleum fields.

The government charges the companies from 60 cents to $2.60 an acre annual rental for oil concessions. This rental, particularly the 60 cents an acre for exploratory fields, is considered excessive.

One of the largest United States operators spent 82 per cent of the total value of oil produced in one year, the Venezuelan government benefiting directly and indirectly.

Liberal in Early Development

Legislative restrictions placed on the development of oil in Mexico in 1917 forced American and British companies to curtail activities. They turned their energy to Venezuela which today is the world's third largest producer and the second largest exporter of oil. At the beginning Venezuela was quite liberal in its dealings with the oil companies, but after a few years started cracking down on them by increasing taxes and prices for concessions.

In 1943 royalties were increased from 11 per cent to almost 17 per cent. Tariff exemptions, formerly granted to all imports by oil operators, were abolished. In the same year Venezuela forced the companies to build refineries. Previously the crude product had been sent to the United States and elsewhere for refining, particularly the adjacent islands of Aruba and Curacao.

Concern has been expressed by officials of oil companies that Venezuela some day may nationalize the oil industry—the life blood of that nation of 4 million population—and take over the foreign holdings.

Becomes Political Issue

Dr. Romulo Betancourt, president of the new revolutionary government, is said to have gained support in his plans to overthrow the regime of former President Isaias Medina by declaring that Venezuela should go into the oil business.

"We are not getting enough money out of the foreign companies," he has been quoted as saying, tho the revolutionary government since has announced it has no intention of interfering with them.

[The Medina government was unseated on Oct. 20. Young army officers, ranging from the rank of major down, rebelled against the Andinos, a western military clique which had dominated national politics for a century. Betancourt is a one time Communist who later renounced the party.]

Oil has been discovered in 49 localities of Venezuela since 1912. The fields extend from the Colombian frontier to the Orinoco river on the east. The biggest source of supply is the Lake Maracaibo basin. Hundreds of wells have been drilled on the beach, in the shallow waters, and even as far out as eight miles in the lake. The lake at that point is 60 feet deep.

Forms 90 Per Cent of Exports

Venezuela produces 600,000 barrels of oil a day. Oil comprises more than 90 per cent of the nation's exports. Coffee exports total only 6 per cent, tho at one time coffee was the biggest export item.

More than 500 million dollars have been invested by foreign companies in the Lake Maracaibo region alone. The total investment in Venezuela is a billion dollars.

Disclose OPA Price Hike on Ford Trucks

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16 [Special] — The office of price administration has granted a substantial ceiling price increase to retail sellers of small Ford trucks, it was disclosed today.

In a regulation issued Nov. 7, OPA authorized dealers of 1 ton Ford trucks to raise their prices 22 per cent to offset increased cost to them.

The explanation for the increase conflicted sharply with the policy which Price Administrator Bowles has attempted to put in effect for new passenger cars—absorption of increases in manufacturing costs and prices.

OPA Tells "Considerations"

The "statement of considerations" for the Nov. 7 order on Ford truck prices said:

"The OPA has recognized that the business of the automobile dealers has sustained dislocations of unusual degree as a consequence of the war.

"The possibility that those dislocations had destroyed the ability of retailers to absorb any part of manufacturers' price increase has led the office to follow the practice of permitting retailers to pass percentagewise to their customers the amounts of adjustments granted to manufacturers. In accordance with this practice, the adjustment granted the Ford Motor company will be passed thru to customers plus the resellers' customary markup."

"Stop-gap, Not Industry Model"

The dealers, thru their National Automobile Dealers association, have vigorously protested forthcoming passenger car prices on the basis they are unable to absorb higher producers' prices as the projected OPA ruling provides.

OPA officials, questioned about the Nov. 7 ruling on Ford trucks, said it was a "stop-gap" measure and not designed to set a pattern for the auto industry as a whole.

700,000 SHARES OF ALLEGHANY FILED WITH SEC

A total of 700,000 shares of Alleghany corporation stock was registered yesterday with the securities and exchange commission for Allan P. Kirkby, president, who will sell 600,000 shares; Walter W. Foskett, 50,000 shares, and Eunice M. Oakes, Nassau, the Bahamas, 50,000 shares. The offering price will be the lower of the last sale price or the closing asked price of the stock on the New York Stock exchange the day after the registration becomes effective.

Insurance Company of North America registered 300,000 shares of $10 par capital stock. It plans to offer them at $40 a share to stockholders of record Nov. 30 on the basis of one new share for each four held.

A registration of 86,525 shares was filed by the Howard Stores corporation, including 31,525 shares of $100 par cumulative preferred stock, and 55,000 shares of $1 par common stock.

PARLEY DEFERS ACTION ON CIO WAGE DEMAND

Union Leaders Left in Difficult Spot

BY THOMAS FURLONG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—The congress of industrial organizations renewed its fight today to get a pledge on wages from the national labor-management conference, but received a setback when the executive committee meeting broke up without final action. This followed a rebuff in the flat refusal of Ford Motor company to meet the union's pay demands.

The executive committee held a long session to consider the resolution offered by CIO President Murray indorsing the wage policy enunciated by President Truman in his opening address to the conference. The resolution has been a center of controversy since the opening day of the parley.

Action on an alternative policy statement offered by the management delegates also was deferred. This opposed any declaration on national wage policy. Wages should be left to freely conducted collective bargaining between labor and industry, said the resolution.

Committee to Draft Statement

After debating both proposals a special subcommittee was appointed to attempt the framing of a statement of policy acceptable to both labor and management delegates.

Failure of the conference to act on the Murray resolution left the CIO strategy leaders in a difficult position, it was believed in labor circles. Yesterday Ford turned down flatly the CIO wage demands. Earlier Murray and his associates had been similarly rebuffed by General Motors, Chrysler, and United States Steel corporation.

The CIO now faces the prospect of having to finance costly strikes against several big companies. The success of these strikes is considered doubtful. Their failure would be a blow to the prestige of the CIO.

Believe His Bite Too Big

Critics of Murray in the labor movement believe he has attempted too much in his blitz against so large a segment of industry. Not even the moral support of high government officials can guarantee the CIO success in its present drive, said these critics.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, have made clear their opposition to Murray's strategy. They have insisted that labor will do itself a great injury in the long run if it attempts to get substantial wage increases out of industry and at the same time opposes industry's plea for higher prices.

COUNTY CHIEFS OF G. O. P. WEIGH ALL-VET TICKET

Consider Plan to Defeat Kelly Payrollers

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Republican leaders and the G.O.P. Cook county central committee yesterday considered an all-veteran slate of county candidates to defeat Democratic old timers expected to run with the support of the Kelly organization next year.

Last year, the Democratic county candidates won with majorities ranging from 150,000 to 300,000. Altho the Republican patronage system is being overhauled to some extent, no changes are possible to match it with the combined city-county-sanitary district and court pay rolls.

All-Veteran Ticket Urged

Potent political appeal and color would be injected into the Republican campaign by an all-veteran slate in the county, it was argued before the central committee by Charles J. Fleck, 45th ward comitteeman. Chairman George M. Fisher was reported to believe the plan holds real hope for the party.

Gov. Green and Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman, are known to be giving the matter serious consideration.

The Democrats are believed certain to spot veterans in two vacancies—a sanitary district trusteeship and a Municipal court judgeship. They could not duplicate the Republican idea.

Benefit for Republicans

Another benefit of the Republicans' tentative plan would be that it would draw ex-service men into permanent activity in the G. O. P.

A group of committeemen to consider candidates was appointed at yesterday's meeting, first held since May 18; Chairman Fisher, Sinon A. Murray [22d], Daniel Roberts [31st], George Williston [49th], W. W. Smith [44th], Frank Peska [35th], Russell Root [7th], William E. King [2]d, Homer G. Sallor [17th], W. John Granata [27th], Henry Gardner [New Trier], and James G. Jamieson [Proviso]. Their first meeting will be at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

HELD FOR FATAL SHOOTING

Police yesterday held Edward Henry, 45, Negro, of 3644 Ellis av. for the fatal shooting of Winston Brooks, 28, of 3983 Vernon av., also a Negro. Witnesses told police the shooting occurred in a quarrel between the two men in front of a tavern.

COFFEE STAIN AND JAP PUT U. S. CREW ON SPOT!

A secret of the crew of the U. S. S. Missouri was almost bared the day of unconditional surrender when the Japanese delegate pulled the documents toward him to sign. The Jap's action almost disclosed a large coffee stain on the best tablecloth the crew could find aboard ship.

Father O'Connor

Chaplain Paul O'Connor of the Missouri's crew, visiting Chicago for tonight's 75th anniversary alumni dinner of Loyola university, was a spectator on the deck immediately above the surrender table.

Hearts Throb in Fear

"We couldn't find a tablecloth without a spot, so we used one with a big coffee stain in the middle," he said. "We neatly put the surrender documents over the stain, and everything went swell until Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, signing for the Japanese, pulled the book toward him. The sigh of relief from the American mess crew when he stood up was audible."

Father O'Connor said none of the Missouri crew realized the full historical significance of the ceremony on their ship until a day later, when they reached Guam and were buzzed by B-29s and greeted by cheering crowds.

Throngs Visit Ship

In Panama the ship was opened for inspection, but had to be closed after an hour because of the large crowds going aboard, he said. Approximately 900,000 persons went aboard the Missouri in New York.

"Most of the fellows want another battle star for the 'battle of New York,'" he said. "The visitors had the crew getting out of bed when they pulled the battle alarms."

MRS. H. F. STRAW OF LAKE FOREST GIVEN DIVORCE

Mrs. Virginia Parker Straw, 333 E. Woodland rd., Lake Forest, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday from H. Foster Straw by Judge Ralph J. Dady in Lake county Circuit court.

Mrs. Straw, well known in north shore social circles, testified that Oct. 25 and Oct. 31 her husband knocked her down in their home. She added that he was released from the navy, where he held the rank of commander, two days ago. They were married Feb. 4, 1917.

Her attorneys, Minard E. Hulse and Ely M. Aaron, told the judge that Mrs. Straw waived alimony for a property settlement out of court.

JURY INDICTS 6 IN STOLEN WAR BOND FORGERIES

Six Negroes were named in a 12 count indictment returned yesterday by the federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes charging them with forging and cashing $1,000 worth of war bonds. The defendants were seized while driving a car on the south side. In the car police found $1,500 worth of war bonds. The $2,500 in bonds were stolen in a burglary of the home of Atty. Thomas J. Donovan, 7127 Constance av. The six denied the burglary, contending they found the bonds buried in a tin can in a barn.

MAYOR URGED TO LET EXPERTS NAME HEAD OF CITY T.B. HOSPITAL

Appointment of a committee of distinguished physicians and hospital administrators to select the new president of the board of directors of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium was urged by the Woman's City Club of Chicago yesterday.

The presidency has been vacant since Dr. Frederick Tice, who held the post 14 years, resigned Oct. 26. His resignation climaxed weeks of charges, investigations, and proposals for shakeups on complaints of patients regarding food and medical care.

The experts are Dr. Robert L. Bloch of the University of Chicago; Dr. George H. Gardner, acting dean of the Northwestern university medical school; Dr. Edwin Levine, medical director of Winfield sanitarium; Dr. Jacob J. Mendelsohn, medical director of Fox River sanitarium; Dr. Fred H. Mueller, president of the Chicago Medical society; Dr. Italo Volini of the Loyola university medical school; Dr. George E. Judge Frees Bus Driver in Ex-Quiz Kid's Death

Judge William V. Daly in Felony court yesterday dismissed a manslaughter charge against John E. Burke, 42, of 5510 Harper av., driver of a Chicago Motor Coach company bus that fatally injured Gunther Hollander, 15, former Quiz Kid, Wednesday at Hyde Park blvd. and 54th st. Burke was exonerated by a coroner's jury with a verdict of accident.

AID OF MISSING SHOP OWNER IS HUNTED BY FBI

Efforts to clear up the disappearance of Edgar Heywood, 53, Chicago electrical shop owner, from Cedar Lake, Ind., last July 1 centered yesterday in a search for Earl [Ding Ding] Wehle, 38, Heywood's employe for five years, who fled Sept. 11 while being questioned about Heywood's fate.

The federal bureau of investigation is seeking Wehle, it was learned, under the Dyer act, which forbids interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle. Wehle was reported to have telephoned a daughter, Connie, 14, of 8027 S. Carpenter st., from California last Oct. 1.

Wehle's explanation of Heywood's disappearance was that his employer had gone to California after selling Wehle his electrical shop at 1052 W. 79th st., now closed; two automobiles, and two speedboats. Police, who said the shop appeared to have been cleaned out of much of its stock, have the key to the place.

ARREST WOMAN AS FRIEND OF ROBBER SUSPECT

Mrs. Christine Kephart, 23, who lives in a tourist cabin at 7641 South Shore dr., was arrested by police yesterday as "the girl friend" of Benjamin J. Tower, 39, of 1302 Carmen av., an ex-convict, who is being held as a suspected robber. Police said that they already have chalked 18 holdups against him. Mrs. Kephart, who is separated from her husband, said that Tower visited her occasionally, but denied knowledge of the robberies of which he is accused. Tower has served 15 years in prisons for armed robbery, police said.

Young Official

Sarah E. Taylor, 24, Collinsville, Ill., named acting recorder of deeds of Madison county after death of her father. Believed to be the nation's youngest county official, she will serve at least until December, 1946. She will be a candidate to succeed herself next November.

West Coast Jail Breaker Seized on Draft Charge

James Wilfred Biloche, 23, of 216 W. 23d st., Negro, who escaped jail in Franklin county, Wash., where he was being held in connection with the burglary of a jewelry store in Pasco, Wash., was seized here yesterday, George R. McSwain, head of the Chicago federal bureau of investigation, disclosed. Biloche will be charged here with evading the draft, Assistant United States Atty. Edmund Johnson said.

WORKERS SIGN FOR 50 MILLION IN WAR BONDS

Approximately 750,000 industrial workers in Chicago and Cook county have pledged to buy 50 million dollars' worth of bonds in the current victory loan campaign, it was announced by George Huth, city-county pay roll deduction chairman, yesterday.

Huth said almost every plant in the area has accepted its war loan quota. During the seventh loan campaign the pay roll savings plan accounted for 54 per cent of total sales of the individual E bonds, he said. The E quota for the city-county area in the eighth campaign is $91,823,000 to be reached by Dec. 31.

Among the bond rallies scheduled is one in Washington school, Maywood, at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. The famous "jungleers," a 35 piece marching band of the 299th army ground forces, will demonstrate their entertainment given for GIs in the South Pacific "Jungle Circuit" during the war.

The Gardiner General hospital band will play at State and Adams sts. at 12:15 p. m. today.

GRAND JURORS TO TAKE OVER WEISBERG CASE

Judge William V. Daly in Felony court yesterday dismissed a murder charge against Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, accused of fatally shooting Joseph McKnight, Evanston automobile salesman, in a tavern at 1 N. La Salle st., Oct. 7. A coroner's jury had held Weisberg to the grand jury. Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant said evidence would be presented to the grand jury Tuesday.
